LANCASTER TELLS OF FATAL NIGHT

Today

Los Angeles Success.
Four Great Japanese.
Girls Almost Dead Heat.
What a Polite Waitress.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 10. YOU ARE SITTING, high in the air, looking through another's eyes at the Olympic swimming races.

A pool of clear blue water, fifty meters long, lies below you, a brilliant sun shining on it. The bigger stadium is visible nearby. It contains one hundred and five thousand numbered and reserved seats, biggest structure in the world, and built of steel and concrete, to last "forever." It did not have room enough for the crowd that came to see the games start.

Los Angeles has done this thing "right," to use the prevailing expression. This swimming stadium seats ten thousand, every seat filled.

THE POOL is divided into lanes, red lines along the water top separating the swimmers of seven nations, Great Britain, U. S. A., Brazil, Japan, Hungary, Canada, Argentina, in the order named.

In one corner, smiling pleasantly as their pictures are taken, you see four young dark-skinned Japanese.

Watch them swim and you see perfect physical mechanism, used with perfect knowledge of what heart and muscles can do.

THE PISTOL sends the seven into the water at the same second. It is a relay race of 800 meters, four swimmers of each nation swimming 200 meters.

The Japanese are smaller than the whiter races, smaller than our United States swimmers from Hawaii. Their arms and legs are slender, chests deep and wide.

The first Japanese in the relay leaps far out into the water, dives, swims below the water, until he loses impetus, comes to the surface ahead of his competitors. He and the three that relay him, stay ahead until the race is won in eight minutes, fifty-eight and four-tenths seconds. The Olympic record, established by the United States in 1928, of nine minutes, thirty-six and two-tenths seconds is shattered, cut down by thirty-seven seconds.

MYIAZAKI, Yusa, Toyoda and Yokohama are the four Japanese high school boys that beat the world. They could make Leander look like a sea cow tied to a wharf.

They all use the same swimming stroke, arms flung far ahead, legs held straight, feet scarcely moving, tapping the water like a propeller with back of instep, head buried in water nine-tenths of time, turning for a fraction of a second to suck in air through nostrils and mouth, perfect white teeth showing just at the water's surface.

NO WONDER Japan can swim. The Japanese practice in a big way. From a Japanese man-of-war an officer will dive, in perfect form. Fifty sailors will dive after him, and, in formation, like a miniature battle fleet, the officer keeping the lead, they will swim in lines, rigidly maintained, for twenty-five miles through rough water. How can you expect to beat them?

Their victory is applauded with cheers that delight them. Japan's athletes can testify that no American or other winner is applauded here more warmly than the winning Japanese.

THEN THE young ladies swam, a breast stroke race of 200 meters. The breast stroke is slow, for at every stroke the body loses momentum and must be restored to motion by a violent kick. With the "crawl" stroke motion is uninterrupted.

There is the same difference between the piano and violin. Music flows continuously from the violin, as from the vocal cords. That puts the violin ahead of all other instruments.

VERY NICE girls are in that race, those of European race tall, long legged. Japan's young lady, Miss H. Machata, not so tall, smiles like one of the little Japanese dolls that you see, with bobbed hair on their foreheads. Her arms and legs are not as big as those of her whiter sisters, but she can swim.

SHE COMES IN number two, beaten by Miss C. Dennis, from Australia. Great excitement when Miss Machata, who led at first, was swimming what seemed to be a dead heat with Miss Jacobsen, of Denmark, and Miss Dennis, of Australia.

Australia won, with a new Olympic record for 200 meters breast stroke of three minutes, six and three-tenths seconds. The first three finished the race almost in the same second, Miss Machata and Miss Jacobsen both beating the Olympic record.

THIS IS the place to reproduce a statement by George Young, publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner:

"There is nothing remarkable about the fact that so many Olympic and world records have been beaten at this Olympiad. IT IS ALL DUE TO THE STIMULATING EFFECTS OF CALIFORNIA'S WONDERFUL SUMMER CLIMATE. It is time the world knew that California is the world's most marvelous summer resort, in addition to being its most super-wonderful winter climate."

George Young would not deceive you, nor would he exaggerate.

This cool air and summer sunshine, the nights, with the inevitable blanket, the ozone that comes rolling from the depths of the Pacific mean long life and great power. Helen Wills Moody is one of their by-products.

COME FOR the last few days of these Olympic games, which

Pinchot Demands Utilities Inquiry

WHIP HELD OVER P.S.C., HE SAYS

Governor Appears in Senate to Spur Investigation

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—Gov. Pinchot today demanded of the Senate an investigation of the "system by which the public utilities have controlled the Public Service Commission."

He re-stated the charges against Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, of the commission who resigned last week under fire just ahead of a trial by a Senate committee.

These charges alone, the Governor said, warranted a complete inquiry into his allegations that the utilities had brought improper influences to bear on Public Service Commissioners, and thus affected rates permitted to be charged by public service corporations.

The Governor offered no new evidence to the Senate. He said his demand for an investigation was supported by the majority of the people of Pennsylvania, and cited editorial comment, including excerpts from the Sun-Telegraph, in an effort to convince the Senators that they had an inescapable duty to investigate.

The demand for an investigation, made when he leveled his accusations against Ainey, apparently had been forgotten by the Senate, the Governor said, and he appeared to remind them of his request. He repeated that the

John, Jimmy and Arthur Volpe, slain in a racket feud that grew out of their activities as whisky and alcohol kings, together left about $48,000 in property, according to estimates on record in the Register of Wills office, following letters of administration, issued to Guy Volpe.

The Volpes left no wills. Each of the brothers possessed but $1,000 in personal property when he died, according to the estimate on which bond was fixed, $2,000 in each case, double the amount of the personal property.

In addition the two older Volpes owned real estate valued at $45,000. This is understood to consist lrgely of houses and apartments in Wilmerding.

Lieut. Frank Ferris was holding Patsy DiNella, 38, of Congress street, whom, he said, was near the scene of the killing. He had been sought since 1927 by federal agents after being indicted with 19 others in the cleanup of a Scottdale narcotic ring. He will be turned over to the United States attorney.

Garner Will Fly To Roosevelt Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Weather permitting, Speaker John H. Garner will go by airplane from his home at Uvalde, Tex., to New YoYrk for his conference Monday with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Royalists Revolt in Spain

MADRID, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Royalist army leaders plunged Spain into rebellion today attacking the ministry of war at Madrid and seizing control of the city of Seville.

Gen. Jose San Jurjo, the man who escorted Queen Victoria into exile, appeared to be an outstanding figure in the movement. It was he who took over Seville and the smaller town of Jerez de la Frontera.

Former King Alfonso, at present on vacation in Czecho-Slovakio, apparently was not directly connected with the movement, but political observers had no doubt that it was a Monarchist uprising with the objective of enthroning Prince Juan, Alfonso's third son, who is now a cadet in the British Navy.

The entire country was practically under martial law as the Republican government mobilized to prevent the uprising from spreading. Troops patrolled the streets of the principal cities of the South and excitement ran high.

Th Civil Guard, backbone of the government's armed forces, was divided. Many of the men garrisoned in the South followed their popular former commander, Gen. San Judjo. Sentiment was divided also among the civil population.

The rebellion began with an attack at dawn on the war ministry, but the federal authorities apparently had been warned in advance, for they were ready with machine guns. The attack was repulsed quickly, but seven men were killed and a dozen or more were wounded.

That ended the fighting in the capital and during the day the city was outwardly calm. This was not true, however, in the southern provinces where there were guerilla skirmishes principally among civilian factions.

Excited Papa Hurt As Stork Arrives

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Anna Koch and her new baby boy are doing nicely, thank you. And Papa Antone Koch? He is recovering in the next ward, thanks.

In the excitement of going to the hospital last night he disabled the motor of his automobile and then fell out of the police ambulance.

Men May Expose Chests on Beach

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Chicago's men bathers today were legally permitted to let the shoulder straps of their swimming suits down. In ruling on a test case instituted by the South Park Board, Judge Harold P. O'Connell declared:

"Prize fighters, wrestlers and track athletes have exposed their torsoes for years without causing serious complaints."

Cermak in Tears, Visits Birthplace

KLODNA, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—His eyes brimming with tears, Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, today visited the simple two-room cottage where he was born.

The Mayor fled when a crowd of the townspeople, massed outside the cottage, broke into the place and interrupted his reverie.

THOUSANDS MOBILIZE AT BERLIN

President Refuses To Name Fascist As Chancellor

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Adolf Hitler, former house-painter and street cleaner and now leader of 14,000,000 militant Nazis, clashed head-on with 85-year-old President Paul von Hindenburg today in his demand to be named Chancellor of Germany.

The aged president, International News Service learned, flatly refused to appoint the Austrian-born Nazi chieftain as chancellor. He said:

"I cannot possibly appoint Hitler as Chancellor or Vice Chancellor. He is just good enough for Postmaster General."

NAZI MOBILIZE

With thousands of Nazi storm troops concentrated around Berlin, determined to seize the government by force unless Hitler is named Chancellor, Franz von Papen, leader of the incumbent government, planned to visit Von Hindenburg again this afternoon, conveying to him the cabinet's conviction that Hitler's appoint-

CITY'S WORKERS FACE LOSS OF MONTH'S PAY

Kline Confab Fails; Big Assessment Cut On Realty Urged

After a three-hour tussle with Pittsburgh's economic program, Mayor Charles H. Kline today said all city employes faced the possibility of another pay cut—the loss of one month's pay during the final quarter beginning October 1.

Conferring with the Mayor were members of his cabinet and City Council, seeking to save $1,200,000.

At the same time, city government faced a demand by realty men for a flat 20 per cent cut in assessments of land and buildings.

Whether the wage slash will include Mayor Kline, his cabinet and Council members, Kline would not indicate.

BODIES REVEAL POISON TRACE

Analysis of two exhumed bodies in the so-called Munhall poison plot has revealed a poisonous substance, but its presence is of undetermined significance, County Chemist F. C. Buckmaster reported to Coroner W. J. McGregor, today.

McGregor said Buckmaster would make a supplementary report, probably tomorrow ,indicating whether the drug's presence was due to homicidal intent or legitimate administration.

The bodies were those of Joseph Mantyo, first husband of Mrs. Anna Allas, and Richard Duyra, aged one. Traces of the same substance have been found also in two bodies previously exhumed, those of Andrew Tllas, 16, and Stephen Allas, 12, the coroner stated.

Fritz Leiber's Son Occupies Pulpit

MIDDLETOWN, N. J., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—The church which Capt. Kidd, famous pirate of old, reputedly attended when home from sea adventures, today had an actor's son in its pastorate.

Fritz Leiber, Jr., son of the Shakespearian player, was appointed assistant to Rector Ernest W. Mandeville, of Christ Church.

Auto Racer Killed Amusing Children

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Nick Martino, 30, race driver, was killed as he sought to give a thrill to a group of children at a baseball park.

His automobile failed to negotiate a corner and rolled over eight times.

M'Donald at Home, Fog Delays Plane

LOSSIEMOUTH, Scotland, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Prime Minister Ramsay McDonald, who was the weekend guest of Lord Londonderry in Northern Ireland, arrived here by plane today. Fog had delayed him slightly.

Their Swimming Suits Barred In Olympics

RAIL SHARES LEAD BULGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The bull market in the New York Stock Exchange today ran in steam roller fashion over the opposition furnished by bear speculators.

With an early bulge in railroad stocks under captaincy of Union Pacific and New York Central, the signal was given for another strong display of bullish fireworks.

As the market entered the final hour of trading, many stocks were up $1 to $4 a share and some were up around $8.

Cotton prices also soared upward, gaining about $1 a bale, while grain prices were firm, with wheat enjoying brisk buying on reported prospects of a spring wheat forecast which would be interpreted by the trade as bullish.

Volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange was well above yesterday's. At 2:10 o'clock 3,700,000 shares had exchanged hands.

For details of trading on all markets, see financial pages.

FLIER DENIES MURDER OF CLARKE TO JURORS

Says He Found Writer Shot, Then Forged Suicide Notes

By LARRY SMITS
International News Service.

COURTHOUSE, MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10.—Capt. William N. Lancaster today firmly but calmly denied he had murdered Haden Clarke and then recited his version of what he described as the suicide of the young "ghost writer" who had supplanted him in the affections of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, his flying companion.

The British war ace, resuming the stand, had begun his testimony when James M. Carson, chief of defense counsel, asked him:

"Did you kill Haden Clarke?"

With almost nonchalant poise, he looked Carson squarely in the eye and replied:

"I did not."

DESCRIBES FATAL NIGHT

Then he began his description of the fatal night.

Dog-tired from a long, hard flight from Nashville, he testified, he had fallen asleep on the sleeping porch of the Keith-Miller home after a lengthy confidential talk with Clarke, who slept in an adjoining bed. He continued:

"I was awakened by a noise. It was a bang. When I first came to I had the impression it was a window slamming.

"I said 'What's that, Haden?'

"I heard a gurgling noise. I switched on the light over the foot of the bed.

"I went over and shook him by the shoulder and said 'What have you done?'

"A pistol was on the bed by his right hip. His right arm was up, bent at the elbow and across his body."

TELLS OF CONFESSION

In a talk before Lancaster dropped asleep, Lancaster said Clarke and he had discussed finances. Clarke admitted he had exaggerated his writing ability and expressed doubt if he could go through with the book of Mrs. Keith-Miller's experiences and had

Late for Jail 'Date,' Crystol Loses Bond

Ten days late beginning his six-month jail sentence for possession of home brew, the $2,000 bond of Robert (Red) Crystol was ordered forfeited by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today. A bench warrant for the arrest of the former operator of Grandview Inn, near East McKeesport, was issued. Crystol was released from jail pending an appeal, which he lost.

Pilot Wrecks Plane Landing for Drink

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A pilot's desire for a milk shake led to heavy damage to his plane.

Harrison Doyle, 25, decided on the drink as he circled White Swan Farms yesterday. In attempting to land in a field, he crashed. The plane was wrecked but he escaped injury.

Gilbert Wedding Expected Tonight

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—John Gilbert, screen idol, and pretty Virginia Bruce, film actress, were expected to be married late today or tonight at his Beverly Hills home.

Society Woman Evicted, Dog Guard Shot

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A shotgun charge ended a police dog's defense of the home of his mistress—socially prominent here and abroad—against an eviction order.

"Max," pet of Mrs. Carmen Lampe, who said she is the former wife of F. W. Page, brother of Walter Hines Page, chased away a deputy and a policeman who tried to serve the order yesterday. When the policeman wounded the dog in the leg, Mrs. Lampe collapsed on the lawn.

Workers began moving the furniture out, but Mrs. Lampe remained firmly in the middle of the only remaining bed, defying removal of herself and her three children, triplets.

But when movers lifted mattress and Mrs. Lampe and deposited her on a sidewalk, she gave up and went to a hotel.

The eviction of a woman who said she once was presented at the Court of St. James was the outgrowth of an argument over her purchase of the dwelling from Earl Evans, city fireman. She said she paid $1,000 down and was paying off the balance at $70 a month. All went well until she had the house painted and deducted the cost from her monthly payments.

3 Tars Rowing to Europe By Error Rescued

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Officers standing on the bridge of the British steamer Wentworth were surprised yesterday when they encountered three men in a rowboat, out of sight of land and pulling lustily in the general direction of Europe. An officer on the steamer yelled:

"Who are you and where are you going?"

An oarsman answered:

"We are from the Boston fishing schooner Dorothy Parker, disabled 12 miles northeast of Highland Light and we are on our way to Provincetown to get help from the Coast Guard."

The officer declared:

"Well you are going the wrong way."

There was an interlude during which the fishermen doubled over their oars and looked askance at each other.

One sailorman, blushing, said:

"We had no compass."

They were taken aboard the Wentworth to Boston where they learned the Coast Guard patrol boat Faunce had taken their schooner in tow.

HOUSE TURNS TO 'NUISANCE' TAXES IN RELIEF IMPASSE

MEASURE TO TAP MOTOR FUND SET ASIDE

Real Push for General Sales Levy Given Up In Deadlock

BULLETIN.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The House Ways and Means Committeetoday reported for passage the Hermansen (Luzerne) bill to impose a tax of one cent on every 10 cigarets. The committee took no action on measures to impose 10 per cent sales levies on cosmetics and soft drinks.

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—Executing a quick change of front, the House today indefinitely postponed action on the Blumberg-Witkin bill to transfer $12,000,000 from the highway fund to the general fund for relief purposes, and prepared to act on tax bills aimed at cigarets, cosmetics and soft drinks.

At the same time, anti-administration forces effected a rejection of the conference report on the Steedle general appropriation reducer, carrying $7,535,243 of the "economy program's" $13,700,000 reductions.

Sufficient favorable strength has been mustered in the House Ways and Means Committee to report the tax bills, which were bottled in committee last Monday night when a first effort was made to get them to the floor. During this morning the group acting with Blumberg and Witkin discovered they lacked sufficient strength to pass the highway transfer bill.

SEVERAL CAUCUSES HELD

Under the circumstances, some members were for immediate adjournment without any revenue-raising legislation to provide funds for the $12,000,000 Talbot direct relief bill, which has passed the House and rests in committee in the Senate.

Several caucuses were held among groups in the House and decision then was reached to make one more effort to pass tax bills. Many members insisted they had voted against the income and occupational tax measures with the understanding they would have the opportunity to secure revenue through the three sales tax measures.

With attention directed toward the so-called "nuisance taxes," the House abandoned any real push behind a general sales tax bill.

CHALLENGES HOUSE

Today's action means that the Legislature cannot adjourn this week if tax legislation is to be passed, as there are lacking sufficient legislative days to permit both Houses to act finally on the new bills.

There is the chance that the House will refuse to approve the bills, and action in the Senate is questionable.

Senator Samuel Salus, of Philadelphia, has challenged the House to send the Senate some tax bills and "put Senators on the spot." This expression by Salus in a Senate speech last night is understood to have had some influence on the action of the House today.

Gov. Pinchot is known to favor the nuisance taxes, and so do some regular organization elements represented in the legislative delegation which last week was refused relief by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Senate to Pass On Mrs. Farquhar

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—The appointment of Mrs. Mary D. Farquhar, of California, Pa., to the board of trustees of the Mothers Assistance Fund in Washington County was before the State Senate today for confirmation. Mrs. Farquhar was appointed by Gov. Gifford Pinchot to succeed Mrs. Elizabeth C. Fish, who died recently.

Buck Near Border In Speed Flight

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Robert Buck, 18-year-old flier trying for a junior air speed record from Newark, N. J., to Mexico City, arrived here today in three and one-half hours from New Orleans. Buck refueled and headed for Brownsville, on the Texas-Mexican border.

guilt or innocence of Ainey was "of great consequence," but almost insignificant in comparison with the question it raises "whether the bribery in this case is part of a system through which the public utilities of this state have obtained favors to which they had no right."

The Governor continued:

"Rightly or wrongly, the belief has spread that the Ainey resignation was forced to prevent further exposures. It would constitute the severest indictment of the Senate of Pennsylvania if the Ainey resignation were allowed to prevent the fullest investigation not only of the utilities from which the bribes came, but of any other utilities which may have had similar relations with any commissioner now in office, or who has been in office during the last 10 years at least.

MORE TO BE KNOWN

"No one doubts or denies that in this matter more remains to be known. No one doubts or denies that it is to the public interest that it should be known.

"Any concealment or attempt at concealment could have but one purpose—to protect the public utilities which have been securing unfair advantages over the people by corrupt means, to protect the unfair commissioners through whom these advantages have been maintained, and, most important of all, to protect the evil system which used bribery as a business method of making illegal profits.

"My purpose, first and foremost and above all else, is to destroy this evil system which has reached into every man's home and lowered its standard of living by extortionate overcharges, and which has cost our people, in the 17 years since the Public Service Commission was established, many hundreds of millions of dollars."

The Governor charged that to delay an investigation would permit "certain public utility officials" to prepare a defense against his charges and to conceal or alter damging entries in the books.

BRIBERY CHARGED

He proceeded:

"The corportions which bribed Ainey so that they might charge exorbitant and illegal prices know full well that the loose strands of influence already uncovered are knotted around their own necks at the other end.

"The present temper of the public mind is aggravated by the fact that almost the only prices that have not come down in this depression are public utility rates and charges. They have not come down, though many utility companies have reduced wages and laid off employes."

The Governor insisted that the Senate show good faith by confirming his Public Service Commission appointees, George W. Woodrup and Frederick P. Gruenberg, whose ability, he said, was unquestioned.

The executive gave indication that he intends to reopen his old feud with Commissioner S. Ray Shelby, of Uniontown, removed by the Governor during his first term together with James S. Benn, who later esigned. The Supreme Court held the Governor's act illegal.

STATE RELIEF DELAY SCORED

Pittsburgh and Allegheny County relief leaders joined in protest today against the stumbling tactics of the State Legislature in failing to agree on a program for the relief of Pennsylvania's needy millions.

To Senator Frank J. Harris at Harrisburg went telephoned pleas from A. K. Oliver, president of the Red Cross; R. Templeton Smith, president of the Welfare Fund; Miss Eleanor Hanson, secretary of the Family Welfare Fund, and John F. Casey, president of the Emergency Association. Said Smith:

"It is unthinkable that the representatives of a million unployed families would dare leave Harrisburg without having provided some way of alleviating the suffering of these unfortunate people. We must have action."

Miss Hanson:

"More than 30,000 families in the county are threatened with actual want and serious undernourishment by reduction of the relief allowance to $2 a week."

Mr. Oliver:

"The state representatives, if they get down to business, can solve the problem and solve it adequately. The whole state is waiting for such action."

Writers En Route For Bonus Protest

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Sherwood Anderson, novelist and short-story writer, and three others of a committee representing the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners, left for Washington this morning to protest to President Hoover against the expulsion of the bonus army from Washington.

Accompanying Anderson were Waldo Frank, novelist; James Rorty, poet and critic, and Elliott E. Cohen, secretary of the committee.

PASTOR'S BRIDE LOYAL IN CRISIS

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Facing arraignment on a charge of murdering his first wife by poisoning, the Rev. S. A. Berrie, 52-year-old song-writing pastor, turned his attention today from composition of a new hymn to raising money.

He sold his Bethel tabernacle, to which he led a group of his followers after being ousted as pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church several months ago, and began negotiations to borrow on his life insurance. The frame tabernacle brought only $75.

Deserted by his flock, the preacher was visited by his 19-year-old bride as often as the authorities would permit. Love lyrics, which he allegedly penned to the attractive Sunday school teacher he married less than two months after the death last March 21 of the first Mrs. Berrie, were introduced at the grand jury hearing.

MURDER DENIED IN COURT BY LANCASTER

Tells of Fatal Night; Says He Found Clarke Shot

admitted he lied to "Chubbie" about his age, saying he was 31 when but 26. He continued:

"He made a sort of father confessor of me."

Carson asked:

"Do you remember any details of the conversation about which I have not asked you?"

"I distinctly remember Haden's last words before I went to sleep."

"What were they?"

"He said: 'You're the whitest man I've ever met.'"

ADMITTED FORGING NOTES

This phrase was included in the "suicide" notes addressed to "Chubbie," which Lancaster later admitted he forged.

Lancaster resumed his account of the shooting after a brief recess. Carson asked:

"When had you last seen the pistol?"

"On the table near the foot of the bed. I'd unpacked it. I remember why. Haden asked me what I had done about Huston's gun. I told him I had brought one to replace it."

"How did Haden look?"

"Blood was streaming down the right side of his face.

"His body was moving a little. I looked around but could see no notes, nor anything to indicate what had happened."

"When did you first see the wound?"

"Before I ytped the notes."

"When did you type the notes?"

CALLED FOR 'CHUBBIE'

"I sat down at the typewriter probably within two or three minutes. The typing took me five minutes. I went to the bed with a pencil and asked him to sign the note. He was moaning but couldn't speak. I shouted: 'Chubbie,' but go no reply.

"Then I did something I shouldn't have done. I scribbled 'Haden' on one note and 'H' on the other.

"I went to Chubbie's room and knocked on the door. She opened it."

"I said, 'Haden's shot himself.'

"She said, 'Don't be ridiculous. There is no gun in the house.'

"I said, 'Yes, there is. I brought one back to give to Huston.'

"She went to Haden's bed and spoke to him and took his head in her lap. I ran downstairs to telephone a doctor."

He gave an account of a discussion with Clarke at the dinner table the night Lancaster returned to Miami from St. Louis, a few hours before Clarke was shot to death. Lancaster said:

"I told him I didn't consider his actions those of a gentleman.

"He had given his word and broken it. Haden threw his chair back and got up.' Mrs. Kieth-Miller said I didn't move. That's not true. I pushed my chair back too.

"Haden said: 'I am a gentleman.'

"Then he cooled down and said: 'I guess you're right, I'm sorry.'"

Highway Hand Labor To Give More Jobs

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Hand labor instead of machinery, to provide as much relief for the unemployed as possible, will be used principally in a $3,500,000 emergency road building campaign in Oklahoma to be completed within a year, Sam Hawks, Highway Commission chairman, announced today.

The money is available from federal emergency relief funds and unobligated federal air apportionment.

HITLER COUP BARRED

ment is the only solution to the present crisis.

Lieut. Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense and leading figure in the Von Papen cabinet, brought every possible influence to bear upon the president to enable Hitler's appointment as chancellor, invoking the aid of the chief executive's son, Oscar von Hindenburg.

Von Papen, it was learned, is willing personally to give his job to Hitler, but the aged president remained adamant. He told Von Papen:

"I appointed you head of a presidential cabinet—now stick."

OPPOSES DESIGNATIONS

Von Hindenburg also asked von Papen not to permit the cabinet to resign in a body or commit "any other rash act," at least until after tomorrow's celebration of Constitution Day.

Such postponement of any precipitate measures, the President pointed out, would prevent the Nazis from hailing Constitution Day as a day which marked the end of the republican government founded by Weimar after the war.

Political observers, discussing President von Hindenburg's attitude in the crisis, recalled the participation of Gen. Erich von Ludendorff in Hitler's "beer-cellar putsch" in Munich in 1923. One high authority asked:

"Have you ever seen a general running after a drummer-boy?"

ALBANY TO GIVE WALKER WILD WELCOME

Parade Arranged as Mayor Arrives to Face Charges

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—While Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt remained at the executive mansion today making a last-minute study of the removal charges against Mayor James J. Walker, preparatory for tomorrow's hearing, Albany Democrats were mapping plans for a rousing reception for the Tammany Mayor upon his arrival tonight.

When Walker alights from his train he will be greeted by blaring bands and several thousand Albanians — mostly Democrats— who will escort him through the city's downtown business streets to his hotel.

The demonstration has been arranged by the Albany County Democratic organization of which Edward J. O'Connell is chairman. O'Connell is Tammany Leader John J. Curry's chief upstate lieutenant.

Walker Counsel Questions Removal Power

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—While Mayor James J. Walker was preparing to leave this afternoon for Albany to confront Samuel Seabury, his accuser, in a momentous public hearing before Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Mayor's special counsel—John J. Curtin—challenged the legal right of the Governor to remove the Mayor even if he believes the evidence so warrants.

Curtin contended that Mayor Walker's fate should not be decided by Gov. Roosevelt but rather by the people of New York City. He said:

"The law, properly construed, does not give the Governor the right to remove the Mayor. Such power rightfully belongs to the people."

In some quarters the plan of the Albany leaders to stage a demonstration for Walker was looked upon as a possible threat of what they and their allies may do to the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in Albany County next November if the Mayor is removed. It was considered significant that Tammany Hall informed the local leaders of the time of Walker's arrival.

Laying aside for the time being all of his presidential campaign activities, Gov. Roosevelt will devote the remainder of the week to the Walker case. He is confident the hearing will be concluded Friday, and he plans to announce his decision as early as possible next week.

Aviatrix Still Up In Endurance Test

IPSWICH, England, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Victor Bruce and her two co-pilots, who took off yesterday in her "flying bungalow" in an effort to establish a new endurance flight record, still were going strong this afternoon with more than 24 hours behind them. They had refueled five times in the air and had received a hot breakfast.

Everybody in Los Angeles will welcome you, each delighted to see you.

In Mr. Charles Baad's Biltmore sweet shop, where you breakfast, girls that wait on you are so beautiful, they look practically alike. There is no difference in perfection.

In doubt you ask one of them "Are you my young lady?" and she replies instantly, with a smile that would make the Mona Lisa seem dull, "I should like to be." After that you can hardly say "Please hurry those eggs."

Two Birthday Cakes For President Hoover

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—President Hoover today observed his fifty-eighth birthday, but his celebration consisted of practically no celebration at all.

Early to work and a long day at his desk, was the word as to what note Mr. Hoover would take of his anniversary.

Mrs. Hoover, however, insisted upon following the usual custom of the presidential household. A cake was baked, which tonight will be lighted with 58 small candles.

In addition probably the biggest birthday card ever to come his way was prepared for the President. Brought here on a railroad freight car yesterday it contains 40,000 signatures, scores of them from state governors and mayors.

Ernest Dudley Chase, of Winchester, Mass., who engineered preparation of the card, also obtained the signature of Mrs. Mollie Carron, of West Branch, Ia., Mr. Hoover's first school teacher.

Other observation of the presidential birthday also was on schedule. Two groups of Boy Scouts from the capital, Brooklyn and other sections of the country were given an appointment to pay their respects in accordance with their annual custom.

A second birthday cake has been presented by officials of the United States Lines, and possibly a few old friends of the Hoovers will be invited in tonight to share that as well as the White House cake.

Capone Nemesis Named By Hoover as Judge

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—George E. Q. Johnson, the man who was largely instrumental in putting Al Capone behind prison bars, has been named by President Hoover as Federal District Judge for Northern Illinois.

The appointment, announced in Washington yesterday, was interpreted by Chicago friends of the Federal District Attorney as a reward for his 100 per cent record in sending a dozen other gangsters and politicians to prison for evading their income taxes.

For three years Johnson, a quiet, slender little man with a shock of unruly hair, has stood as a thorn in the side of Chicago's gangland. The way to decimate gangland's ranks, he reasoned, was to strike at them with the income tax, and strike he did.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sentenced Capone to Atlanta, has been nominated by President Hoover for the Circuit Court of Appeals bench.

ILLNESS OF MOTHER HEALS M'CORMICK FAMILY ROWS

Wanamaker Re-Wed After Reno Divorce

Second Marriage Follows Decree By 2 Hours

RENO, Nev., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. John Wanamaker, Jr., were on their wedding trip today. No one knew, or would say, exactly where.

John Wanamaker, Jr., of a wealthy Philadelphia family, married Mrs. Elizabeth Feltz Warburton, divorced wife of his cousin, C. Egerton Warburton, of Philadelphia, a few hours after he obtained a divorce from Mrs. Pauline Disston Wanamaker here yesterday.

The divorce decree was granted in the afternoon by Superior Judge Thomas F. Moran on grounds of desertion. Last night Judge Moran officiated at the wedding at the home of Clyde D. Souter, Wanamaker's attorney.

A few intimate friends attended the ceremony. Wanamaker was attended by Morris Clearly, Los Angeles broker and husband of May McAvoy, screen actress. Mrs. Souter acted as matron of honor. Other guests included Mrs. Cleary, George Peltz, brother of the bride, and Ralph Forbes, motion picture actor.

Wanamaker was granted a divorce after two hours' hearing. He testified Mrs. Wanamaker deserted him in August, 1924, when she refused to join him and other members of the family in Scotland.

JESSEL GIVES $100,000 FOR DIVORCE

Comedian and Norma Deny Rumor They Will Wed

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Florence Courtney Jessel is giving George Jessel, the comedian, a divorce and he has agreed to settle upon her $100,000 and two Rolls Royce automobiles plus $10,000 counsel fees.

The comedian has been almost constantly in the company of Norma Talmadge, screen star and wife of Joseph Schenck, the film producer.

Both have denied persistent rumors that they are planning to wed.

Slaying Scene Clues Link 2 Aged Recluses

NATCHEZ, Miss., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Fingerprints of the eccentric master and mistress of "Goat Castle," a run-down mansion, have been made the basis for murder charges against them in the slaying of their aristocratic neighbor, Miss Jane Surget Merrill, aged recluse.

A few hours after officers called in Maurice O'Neil, chief of the bureau of identification of the New Orleans Police Department, to aid in the study of the case, J. E. Chancellor, Jackson fingerprint expert, announced prints taken in the old Merrill plantation house, where the killing occurred, had been identified as those of Octavia Dockery, 60, and R. H. Dana, 61.

Miss Dockery, known as the "goat woman" because of her herd, and Dana, adjudged in court to be mentally incompetent and placed in the "goat woman's" care, already had been charged with murdering Miss Merrill. Both entered denials.

Each of the principals is descended of old Southern aristocracy. And each dropped a bright social career years ago to go into seclusion. Miss Dockery is the daughter of a Confederate general and was educated in a smart New York school for girls. Dana is the once socially prominent son of an Episcopal rector. Miss Merrill came of a family of statesmen and social leaders and once was presented at the Court of St. James.

MILLIONS LOST BY ROSENWALD

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—It cost Julius Rosenwald, the late philanthropist, $7,825,060 to guarantee employes of Sears Roebuck and Company against stock market losses in 1929.

His benefaction was revealed today when executors of his estate interpreted the action of the Chase National Bank of New York, which filed a claim for that amount against his estate.

When values crashed on the New York Stock Exchange in 1929, Rosenwald told his employes they would not lose money in their accounts. He posted 101,359 shares of his company's stock as security against having their accounts sold out.

Chase National lent the money.

MINE PAY VOTE TALLY STOLEN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Two unarmed men today robbed tellers of the Illinois mine workers of the official miners' election tally sheets which they were bringing from the Ridgely Farmers State Bank to the mine headquarters to determine the outcome of a referendum on the proposed $5 a day basic wage scale.

Orlie Blackman and George Gee, the tellers, reported the loss to headquarters and to the police. George Dahm, of Belleville, a third teller, broke the news to the miners' watchers, advising them that until the ballots were returned there would be no counting, nor any official results announced.

ROCKEFELLER'S DAUGHTER IN DANGER

Ex-Mate and Mrs. Oser Speeding to Side of 'Richest Woman'

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and successor to the late Mrs. Potter Palmer as arbiter of Chicago society, lies seriously ill in an exclusive Gold Coast hotel, whither she went a few weeks ago when financial adversities caused her to close her castled stone mansion.

America's richest woman, as she was often called, was said to be in no immediate danger, but recovery was regarded as doubtful by friends and attendants.

Her illness, the serious nature of which has been revealed during the past few days, resulted in a general reconciliation with her estranged children. Her divorced husband, Harold Fowler McCormick, harvester king, was reported en route to her bedside from the Pacific Coast.

KEEN BUSINESS MIND

A lavish patron of the arts, Mrs. McCormick permitted neither her duties as the leader of Gold Coast society, nor her indulgence in such hobbies as psychology, literature, and the collection of rare manuscripts and Oriental rugs, to interfere with the development of her business instinct and ability.

Before economic conditions made inroads on her fortune—and her illness was reported to have been caused by endeavors to meet declining real estate and stock market values—Mrs. McCormick was active in the management of one of Chicago's largest real estate firms.

Maternal estrangements resulted from the marriage of all her children. Mathilde married Max Oser, a Swiss riding master, in 1923. The resulting breach between mother and daughter was not healed until 1931. Mrs. Oser is reputed coming from Cherbourg, France, to be with her mother.

RIFT OVER 'FIFI'

And her son, Harold Fowler McCormick, Jr., failed to obtain immediate maternal sanction when he was wed to "Fifi" Stillman, mother of his college chum, and divorced wife of the New York banker. Lately, however, Mrs. McCormick has received the former Mrs. Stillman.

Muriel incurred maternal displeasure when she married Maj. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, of Connecticut, last year. But this breach, too, was healed by Mrs. McCormick's illness and the Major and his wife arrived in Chicago a few days ago.

After his divorce from Mrs. McCormick, in 1921, Harold McCormick married Ganna Walska, opera aspirant, whom he sought to direct to fame. This union resulted in divorce.

Missing Poe Kin Hunted by Police

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Edgar Allen Poe, who claims kinship to the famous author, was the object of a police search today. He disappeared Monday in a new automobile with several hundred dollars in his pocket. He heads motor agencies in Woodstock and McHenry. Police feared Poe may have met with foul play.

COX CONVENTION CURB ORDERED

Exercising the power of a police official, vested in him as health commissioner of Missouri, Dr. James Stewart, of St. Louis, today said he would not permit the national convention of the Jobless-Liberty party to be held next week at the Creve Coeur Speedway at Clayton, Mo., unless changes are made in the sanitary conditions at the speedway.

Father James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church, today repeated that no matter what the Missouri authorities did, he would lead his followers from the east to the speedway for the convention. Father Cox said:

"The speedway has accommodated large crowds before without difficulty and there is no reason why objections should be raised now."

Stewart inspected the speedway last week and made his report Monday night. He directed that a water supply of 150,000 gallons must be provided, with a 25-pound pressure, to be dispensed through 25 fountains, proper sewage facilities must be provided, and garbage and refuse must be collected and disposed of regularly.

NURSES IN NEW BONUS CAMP

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 10.—Two women, former overseas nurses during the World War, and 72 one-time doughboys comprise the nucleus of Pennsylvania's latest bonus camp which was being established today a mile from Fort Necessity on the farm of Dr. C. H. Sherry.

Remnants of the bonus army disbanded at Johnstown began to arrive at the site yesterday, after having been invited to the farm by Dr. Sherry.

The nurses, Myrtle Crawford and Genevieve Frew, who journeyed from their homes in California to Washington with the California contingent of the B. E. F., have established themselves in tents. The camp is in charge of Capt. Hoke Smith, national supply officer of the B. E. F.

The men brought with them from Johnstown four months' food supply that had been stocked up by the B. E. F. A brick and tile barracks and a 30-bed hospital will be the first buildings to be erected, Dr. Sherry said. As more veterans arrive, more building will be constructed, he declared.

Burke's Death Stops History of Dry Law

Planned to Compile Notes of Years During Voyage

In an envelope jammed with scraps of paper, notations and scribblings, lies a history of the American liquor problem. It lies unnoticed, with other papers, on the desk of James Francis Burke in his home in Devonshire street.

The history is unwritten. Only the scraps of paper barely indicate their purpose.

Mr. Burke planned to write the book, or do much of it, while he and Mrs. Burke were in Europe on a vacation. He was to have left yesterday. Instead, the envelope came with his body from Washington, where he had died suddenly Monday night.

DRY LAW DECISIONS

The notes contain decisions on the liquor laws, the relations of the saloon to the social strata of the last part of the nineteenth century and the first part of this twentieth. They would recall, he planned, what he knew of the industry, what he learned when serving as attorney for the brewery interests.

Scraps of it he had showed to his son, J. Scott Burke, and Mrs. Burke. As he planned it, the history was to have been as complete as experience and he could make it.

It was discussed early today by members of the family and friends, as a few hours earlier, while former Gov. John S. Fisher and leading business men, waiting for the arrival of the funeral train reminisced.

TALENTED SPEAKER

Burke's oratory, they agreed, ranked him as one of the most talented of American speakers. The ancient Irish art of turning a lovely phrase they attributed to him. They spoke of his appearance in behalf of a bill, in 1901, to abolish the mayor and city controller plan. It was known as "the ripper bill." He espoused it when many others refused to speak, and it was one of his greatest victories.

They told of his grace, so recognized by Woodrow Wilson, that, although a Republican congressman, he was asked and did serve as master of ceremonies at the inauguration of a Democratic President—Wilson's first.

Gov. Fisher said:

"Thirty-six years ago tonight, Mr. Burke and I were launched together in politics—for Matt Quay."

Dream Leads Woman To Lost Diamond

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. William Stromeyer lost a $250 diamaond pin and her husband, coach of freshmen football and lacrosse at St. John's College, hunted all night for it.

After he went to school yesterday, she took a nap but woke shortly and called her husband, saying she dreamd their pet chow was hiding things under the furniture. Stromeyer found the pin under the refrigerator.

BURKE'S BODY RETURNED TO HOME HERE

Wreaths From Hoovers On Casket; Cabinet Members Expected

The body of James Francis Burke, the friend of Presidents, rested in his Devonshire street home today, where old friends, humble or distinguished, might view it.

Beside the simple bronzed casket were two wreaths that told the story of two talents—oratory and political sagacity—two major talents that had lifted a poor stenographer to national fame.

The mourning pieces were from President and Mrs. Hoover.

ONLY DECORATIONS

These had formed the only decorations on the casket as it was moved onto the train in Washington followed by the President and his Cabinet. And they remained so through the deserted Pennsylvania station here at 2 o'clock this morning.

President and Mrs. Hoover will not attend the funeral services at 10 o'clock Friday morning in St. Paul's Cathedral, but several members of his Cabinet are expected. Col. W. S. Hodges will represent the White House.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Postmaster General Walter S. Brown, Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the Treasury; Everett Saunders, chairman of the Republican National committee, and who was secretary to President Coolidge, likely will attend.

Mr. Burke had been general counsel for the Republican committee and identified with the party for 40 years. He had served frequently as an advisor to the President. The Chief Executive and members of his cabinet accompanied the body to the station in Washington last night. James Scott Burke, a son, in expessing his appreciation of Mr. Hoover's kindness, was answered with a simple:

"Thank you, Mr. Burke."

STRICKEN IN CAPITAL

It was in the White House that Mr. Burke became ill Monday. He died that night. The body was returned in a private car furnished by Howard Heinz, a director of the road. It arrived at 1:37 a. m.

Wreaths and floral tributes from Washington associates and friends were sent to the funeral car.

The body will be on view at the home until the funeral services Friday.

Mrs. J. Scott Burke, John Jay Burke, a brother; John Jay Burke II, a nephew; James McKay and other friends of the family, awaited the body at the station. A group of business men and political leaders, headed by former Gov. John S. Fisher, followed the catafalque from the train through the station.

Among those in the group were Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Henry Tranter, W. B. Rodgers, William P. Witherow, Sidney Binns, Norman S. Brown and Lefton and B. H. Feldstein, both law associates of Burke, and many others.

Mrs. Burke and her daughter, Mrs. Rodgers, remained at home.

Prominent business and political figures extended their sympathies to the family in a flood of telegrams received at the Burke residence. They included condolences from Mrs. Lou Henry Hoover, wife of the President; Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War; Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury; Patrick Joyce, head of the Pullman Company, of Chicago; Senator James J. Davis, Gov. Pinchot, Congressman P. J. Sullivan, of Pittsburgh; Adolphus Busch, III, of St. Louis; Jay Cook, Philadelphia, and Clarence C. Hamlin, who was associated with Mr. Burke in the activities of the Republican National Committee.

RALLY BENEFITS CLOSED BANKS

The current rise in the stock market will be a benefit to depositors in the closed banks of this district, James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company, declared last night in a radio address from Station KDKA.

Mr. Chaplin is president of the Second District Realization Corporation, which has charge of all closed banks and trust companies in this area.

He said the increased value in securities will enable a great many of the banks which were closed because of depressed market securities to hasten liquidation.

UHRICHSVILLE, O., Aug. 10.—Postmaster Paul H. Stoutt, 42, editor of the Evening Chronicle, operated on last Friday for appendicitis, died last night at Twin City Hospital.

MOLLISON TELLS N. Y. HOP PLANS

Amy Johnson Won't Fly From Dublin With Husband

J. A. Mollison, British distance flier, now planning flights from Dublin to New York and return, will not take his wife, Amy Johnson, England's Amelia Earhart, with him when he makes his bid for trans-Atlantic flying fame on the first return-trip attempt. Mollison arrived in Dublin last night and is awaiting favorable weather for a takeoff. He hopes to start tomorrow or Friday.

By J. A. MOLLISON

In an interview with Universal Service.
(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

DUBLIN, Aug. 10.—I hope to fly to America and return to London in three days, something no airman has yet attempted, and I'm confident I shall be able to do it.

Miss Amy Johnson (my wife, Mrs. Mollison) would have very much liked to come with me, but after talking things over, we decided I should fly alone.

For both of us to fly would necessitate other arrangements, involving important changes in plans already made.

EARLY START

I am taking off for America as soon as I can, weather permitting. I will start from Portmarnock airdrome, on the outskirts of Dublin. My first stop will be Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. After refueling, I intend to continue to New York.

My stay in New York will be just long enough for a brief rest, refueling, motor inspection and whatever readjustments are necessary, and then I shall recross the Atlantic, heading straight for Croydon airport.

I shall take the Great Circle course between Ireland and Newfoundland, and then retrace the same course from Newfoundland to England after leaving New York.

I do not expect to remain in New York more than 24 hours at the outside.

My plane is a beauty. It is a specially constructed, long-range Puss Moth plane built by the De Haviland Company, with a radius of 3,400 miles. The motor is a Gypsy No. 3, turning up 120 horsepower. It carries 162 gallons of gasoline.

'HEART'S CONTENT'

The plane's name is "Heart's Content." This is because the first place I expect to sight is Newfoundland, if my course is steered properly, is the town of Heart's Content on the coast.

Though I call the plane "Heart's Content," all comfort has been sacrificed for gasoline. It isn't fair, however, to describe the plane as a "flying gasoline tank." A tank containing 75 gallons is installed in front of my seat, a tank containing 45 gallons is behind me, and the two wing tanks hold 21 gallons each.

There is no upholstery in the plane; no cushion on the seat; nothing to make me feel like dozing off. Nor will I carry anything much to eat; just a few sandwiches, a flask of coffee and some barley water. No alcohol.

I expect the plane will cruise at a speed of 135 miles an hour.

Third Man Arrested In Fake Bill Probe

Tony Asti, third member of an alleged counterfeiting gang, was arrested by state police last night in Johnsonburg, Pa., at the request of Chief W. A. Landvoight, of the U. S. Secret Service, Pittsburgh district. Two others, arrested August 7, are held in Buffalo, N. Y., in connection with the seizure of bogus money in a houseboat raid here.

Moffet Aboard as Akron Makes Flight

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The navy Airship Akron returned to its hangar this morning after an overnight training flight with Rear Admiral William A. Moffett aboard. The Admiral left for Washington and the Akron took off again for a flight over coastal waters. She may return tonight or tomorrow.

2 RANKIN GIRLS RETURN HOME

Two 15-year-old Rankin girls, missing from their homes since Monday, were reported by police returned home last night.

The girls, Barbara Coolidge and Gladys Mull, both of 103 First street, Rankin, told police they became lost. A passing motorist, they said, took them to Blairsville.

Johnstown Camp Under Health Ban

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—All members of the Bonus Expeditionary Force were ordered out of their Ideal Park camp by the State Department of Health today.

Maj. Coleman B. Mark, of the department, issued the order after a cleanup of the site had been completed. He said all persons would be barred from the park if any more bonus seekers were allowed to set up camp.

Gas Leak Delays Piccard Takeoff

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Prof. Auguste Piccard, ready for his second ascension to the stratosphere, located a gas leak in the ionization chamber of his balloon today, and promised to have it repaired by tonight.

The meteorological bureau advised him, however, that storms were approaching over the mountains and that tomorrow probably would not be a good day for the start.

Original Ford Aide Dies in Detroit

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Albert Strelow, one of the original stockholders of the Ford Motor Company, is dead at the age of 78 in his modest frame house in Van Dyke avenue.

Mr. Strelow owned the building at Mack and Bellevue avenues which housed the first Ford factory. He invested $5,000 in the company, but broke away from Ford in 1906 and sold his 31.8 shares of stock to James Couzens, now United States Senator, for $45,000.

One Smoker tells Another

IT is perfectly natural for smokers to talk to each other about what they smoke and why they smoke a certain brand. Tastes differ, and therefore different people smoke different kinds of cigarettes. Those who smoke CHESTERFIELDS seem to take more pride in telling other smokers — "that CHESTERFIELDS are milder; that there is no harshness —no bitterness." They also tell them— "that CHESTERFIELDS taste better: that they have a pleasing aroma." . . . CHESTERFIELDS are clicking with millions.

SUSPECT TAKEN AFTER SIEGE

MARSHALL, Ark., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The siege of an office building to arrest Leland Henley, 35, for murder in the ambushing of W. W. Fendley, 61, former county official and retired lumber dealer, has ended with his voluntary surrender.

Henley gave himself up yesterday after officers sent for tear gas bombs to hurl into the hiding place and was taken by Sheriff George Hogg to Little Rock for safe keeping in the state prison because of feeling against him here. Henley denied shooting Fendley, officers said, but declared he knew who was responsible.

RELIEF GROUP ASKS CHARTER

Application for a charter for the Allegheny Valley Emergency Relief Association, organized for providing for the needs of about 8,000 persons in Tarentum, Brackenridge, Natrona and vicinity, was filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday by Attorney Harry I. Miller. He said the group, composed of officials and representatives of corporations, has one of the best organizations for bulk purchasing and distribution, dieting and medical aid, enabling the distribution of county funds with economy. About $2 weekly will feed the average family under the system, Miller said.

A charter for the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, Particular Council of Pittsburgh, to aid in the charity dispensed by the St. Vincent de Paul Society, was asked in an application.

Bird Finally Eats With Rest of 300 Inmates

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Three months of failure will convince even an upper Amazon boat bill that it is wrong.

That long ago the bird was put in the capital's zoo. Daily it stood beside the waterfall in the big flying cage from dawn to dusk, hoping to catch a fish as it fell, just like at home.

Yesterday, said Dr. William M. Mann, zoo director, the animal town simpleton decided to give up. It ate off the ground and out of troughs with the rest of the inmates.

FIREMEN WON'T BAN UNIFORMS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Cleveland firemen won't give up those elegant blue uniforms and big brass buttons if they can help it.

Safety Director Frank J. Merrick suggested they might as well go to fires in overalls and "civvies" and thereby save the city $26,000 a year through abolishing the department's tailor shop.

The firemen, however, voted 740 to 213 to keep the blue and brass.

GUNMAN PERILS HUNDREDS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A gunman who rained shots on store fronts and homes terrorized hundreds of residents in the East Fifty-fifth street-Woodland avenue section yesterday for half an hour before a police squad captured him.

The busy streets were deserted as residents and storekeepers locked themselves up while the man ran about emptying his gun.

The man gave his name as Henry Acree, 48. Police said he was a brother of William Acree, sought as the robber pal of William Erizulus, alleged slayer of Detective John Buettner.

Chocolate Magnate Dies at Age of 83

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Domingo Ghirardelli, retired head of the chocolate and cocoa manufacturing company bearing his name, died here today at the age of 83. He was born in Lima, Peru, and was brought to San Francisco by his father, founder of the concern, in 1852.

Germany Shows Jobless Decline

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Unemployment in Germany during the second two weeks of July decreased 99,000 to a total of 5,393,000.

FILM INVENTOR DIES 'BROKE'

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Jean A. Leroy, 77, who invented a motion picture projector and neglected to patent it, died today a poor man.

He suffered an apoplectic stroke in August, 1928, and never fully recovered. A year before his death he was made a life member of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers and given belated recognition for laying the cornerstone of an industry that has produced millions for others.

As early as 1875 he developed a crude machine capable of projecting an image on a screen, but delayed applying for a patent because he was not satisfied with it. Some years later he sought to have his device patented and was told that the statue of limitations for patents had been exceeded by six months.

Woman Brought Here To Face Theft Charge

Lena Germany, alias "Diamond Lena," a Negro, was returned here yesterday from Wheeling, W. Va., in connection with the theft of $2,300, according to city detectives. The woman was alleged to have stolen the money from a man whom she followed from a North Side carnival several months ago.

Learns Real Name, Then Stabs Father

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—All his life his father called him "Dino." Hearing rumors, he went to City Hall and looked up the records to discover that he'd been christened "Bieno." That angered him. He went home and stabbed his father and beat him with a chair. Then he surrendered to police. He was in jail today, booked as "Dino" Di Vita.

Child Dying After Wild Ride in Truck

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Three-year-old George Anton wanted to play with the funny little gadgets of a parked electric dairy truck. He crawled into the driver's seat and pulled the control cord. The truck crashed through two fences and hurtled down a 75-foot embankment. Today the child was in a hospital, expected to die.

Stray Shot Hits Boy As Parents Quarrel

Harold Jones, 10, a Negro, of 310 Tenth avenue, McKeesport, was in a serious condition in McKeesport Hospital today with a bullet wound in his face, suffered when he was struck by a stray shot fired, police said, by his mother during an argument with her husband in their home last night. The parents, Charles, 36, and Beatrice Jones, 29, were arrested.

Wife Causes Raid, Arrest of Her Rival

A dwelling at 18 Rostock street, North Side, was raided by police late yesterday after Mrs. Carrie Herman, of 513 Lockhart street, complained her husband was there with another woman.

John Herman, the husband; Pearl Charles, 34, of the Rostock street address, and William Sanders, 63, of Goehring avenue, were arrested with Clem Werner, 63, alleged proprietor.

'LUCKY BUCKS' BECOME REAL AT PARK

Good times have "turned the corner"—at least for the boys and girls of Pittsburgh and vicinity. "Lucky Bucks," originally designed as play money have turned into real money, good for a day of fun at Kennywood Park.

Kennywood has added a "Lucky Buck Day" to its long list of special events and this play money, as it appears in the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph, will be accepted from boys and girls just the same as real money. That's a snap for the kiddies, isn't it?

Well, naturally the youngsters of Pittsburgh and vicinity are excited about it and hundreds of them have started their bankrolls to spend on Lucky Buck Day.

While the "Lucky Bucks" are featured in the Comic Weekly of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph to accommodate the youngsters who want to take advantage of this liberal offer, they are now appearing in the daily Sun-Telegraph every day. Before Lucky Buck Day comes along there will have been enough printed for every boy and girl to have a big bankroll. And all they will have to do on "Lucky Buck Day" is to step up to the ride he or she wants to take and peel off 10 "Lucky Bucks" to pay for the ticket just as if it came from the real bankroll. "Lucky Bucks" will be good at a dozen of the best rides and amusement devices.

Boys and girls will find Lucky Bucks in the Sun-Telegraph today. Clip 'em and save 'em until "Lucky Buck Day" at Kennywood.

$150,000 ASKED OF LODGE

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ada Belle Onion, of Dallas, Tex., former supreme chief of the Pythian Sisters, has filed a $150,000 damage suit here against the order and its officers, including Mrs. Elsie E. Vandervort, of Washington, supreme chief.

Mrs. Onion's petition charged she was "wilfully and unlawfully" suspended from the order April 25, 1931.

She also charged the defendants caused to be published a notice of intention to sue in Ohio for collection of bond on Mrs. Blanche Cooley, "predicated on the failure of Mrs. Cooley and Mrs. Onion to account for the proceeds of the collection of the Mississippi Valley Flood Relief Fund."

Mrs. Onion charged the notice, which appeared in the Pythian Sisters Tidings, official publication was "false."

PHILA. SHAKEUP OVER RUM SEEN

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia Record today predicts the early resignation of Kern Dodge as director of public safety and the demotion of Joseph Le Strange, assistant superintendent of police.

The prediction of the Record, which says its information comes from sources close to Mayor J. Hampton Moore, followed an official announcement that Herbert Smith, chief undercover agent for the director has resigned and his entire squad of 10 men disbanded.

Opposition of Mayor Moore, the Record says, to a "system of secret police espionage, concentration on hip-pocket liquor law violations, and a 'reign of terror' enforcement of the dry laws" is responsible for the changes.

Dingledy Named Trolley Receiver

G. Dingledy was named receiver of the New Castle and Lowell Railway Company, operating an interurban trolley between the Ohio state line and New Castle, by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker yesterday. The Transportation Securities Company, in an equity suit, charged the railway company owed $704,775. The defendant company joined in the request for a receiver. The court ordered operation continued for the present.

Insurance Agents Given Free Trip

Two Pittsburgh life insurance salesmen are on a free trip to California after winning a sales contest sponsored by the Edward A. Woods Company. They are John M. Pfeil, of Pittsburgh, and John C. Krebs, of Hanover. Both left Monday for the coast with William M. Duff, president of the company.

Kane Arrest Breaks Counterfeit Ring

KANE, Pa., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Destruction of a counterfeiting ring, which flooded Western Pennsylvania and New York with bogus currency, was believed effected today with the capture of the third of a trio of suspects. Tony Asti, 27, last man arrested, was taken into custody at his home in Johnsonburg near here.

Socialists Launch County Campaign

A series of 12 campaign meetings, which opened last night in Garfield and which will continue until Saturday night, is being held by the Socialist party of Allegheny County. The meetings are scheduled for various parts of the city and for Coraopolis, Tarentum and Braddock.

1,139 KILLED HERE IN 1931

A lipstick was blamed for one of the 1,139 accidental deaths in Allegheny County during 1931, according to the annual report of Coroner W. J. McGregor. The victim choked to death.

Three persons were killed by falls from bed and one in the blast of a beer barrel.

Automobile fatalities in the county totaled 364. There were 89 murders and an even 200 persons ended their own lives.

A recapitulation of the deaths revealed among other causes motor accidents were responsible for 34 per cent of the deaths; falls, 17 per cent; burns, 10 per cent, and drownings, 7 per cent.

CARRIERS PLAN NEW WAGE CUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Reports were current in railroad banking quarters today that the whole question of reducing general wages of railroad labor would come up for consideration at a meeting tomorrow of the Eastern conference of railroad presidents.

This meeting will be one of three important railroad conferences booked for this week. The keynote will be a study of economies, which have been pledged by the roads in connection with their plea for "equal opportunity" with other forms of transportation.

South Sea Picture Set for Screens

"The Painted Woman" becomes the definite title for the romantic South Sea drama which Fox Films will release for showings the latter part of this month. Spencer Tracy and Peggy Shannon will be seen in the leading roles of this photoplay, formerly known as "After the Rain," with William Boyd and Irving Pichel heading a supporting cast.

Walthall to Play in Mystery Drama

Henry B. Walthall, remembered as "the little colonel" in "The Birth of a Nation," is the latest addition to the cast of "Chandu, the Magician," the Fox radio mystery drama now before the cameras at Fox Movietone City. Charles Stevens has also been assigned an important role. Edmund Lowe plays the title role with Irene Ware in her first screen role, as his leading lady.

Seek Actor to Play Opposite Clara

Screen tests are now being made in the final elimination tests for the actor who will play the leading male role opposite Clara Bow in her first Fox picture, "Call Her Savage." John Francis Dillon, who is to direct the picture, is supervising the tests. Miss Bow's part in this screen version of Tiffany Thayer's novel of the same name is that of a girl whose Indian blood causes her to rebel against many social conventions.

Studio Owns School for Actors

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.

Hollywood's most unusual school for actors is run by Stuart Walker, in charge of developing Paramount's younger players.

The studio has assigned Mr. Walker a special rehearsal stage where he can put his proteges through their paces. At first glance, the set appears to be an ordinary hallway and drawing-room. But actually it is so designed as to present every problem in mechanics the player will come up against.

In the drawing-room are five different kinds of windows: A French window that opens in, another that opens out; two sets of casement windows similarly arranged, and finally a window that raises and lowers.

Then there are seven different types of doors, including portieres, double sliding doors, swinging doors, etc.

Placed in the set are 15 types of sofas and chairs, offering every height and design.

Adrienne Ames

Completing this unusual room are 30 small hand props, such as ash trays, books, match boxes, lighters, telephones, etc.

Under Mr. Walker's system, the student actors are cast in a play, which they rehearse and perform. Only there are never any spectators. Last week the comedy, "Candlelight," was the chosen lesson.

HAS EIGHT PUPILS

At present the director has eight pupils. They are Frances Dee, Randolph Scott, Kent Taylor, Cary Grant, Sari Maritza, Claire Dodd, Adrienne Ames and Florence McKinney.

Credit Lilyan Tashman with one of the more amusing wisecracks of the week.

A party was in progress at a Malibu home. The guests were informally attired. Present a leading woman arrived. She has grown plump, and in lounging pajamas she is a symphony of curves.

Lilyan whispered:

"Oo, look, a balloon smuggler."

BOULEVARD TALK

A Hollywood agent made the rounds of the casting offices this week on a novel mission. He has taken an option on a pack of wild wolves and is trying to place them in a picture . . . As if one to each door isn't enough . . . They got a laugh at a railroad station this week when Mitzi Green stepped off the train wearing a long coat and dark glasses, a la Garbo . . . In spite of losing 20 pounds in four days, viz the flu route, Al Green has reported at Warners to take up his directorial duties . . . Lupe Velez' recipe for stage success: "I sing not good but loud; I dance, not good but move around a lot. I stop the show" . . . As simple as that . . . The movie fan outdoes the traditional patience of the fisherman.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Long away from Hollywood, Charlie Ray, once popular star of the silent films, got back to the film capital as a member of the company playing Channing Pollock's morality drama, "The House Beautiful," and naturally there was gossip as to the possibility of his making a comeback in the talkies.

"Destiny," he is quoted as saying, "must take care of that. If there's a place for me it will develop. I'm not trying to force any issues."

Such modesty seems typical of the meekness of the characters Charlie used to play in the day of his great popularity—awkward, gangling youths of shy and retiring demeanor who always evoked the sympathy that goes to the underdog. He knew audiences were tired of his eternal boyish roles, but he met a financial and artistic debacle by trying to lift himself out of the rut in a different characterization in "The Courtship of Myles Standish." So he went away from Hollywood, and traveled up and down the land—in vaudeville—reading and studying and acting, learning to sing by the Italian method, too, to be philosophic, so that he feels that if the movies have a place for him again, destiny will reveal it.

* * *

Kiddies are dangerous in a picture—they are so apt to "steal" it from the star. It happened to Mary Pickford in "Daddy Longlegs," in which a freckled boy named Wesley Barry registered so strongly that he became a boy star. If it didn't happen completely to Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid," that picture at least gave Jackie Coogan enough opportunity to enable him to find the road to fortune. And it is said to be happening again in the case of the all-Barrymore film in production based on the life of Rasputin, Tad Alexander, playing son to the Czarina of Miss Barrymore, is said to be "stealing" all of his scenes with her.

* * *

Ann Dvorak, who "jumped" Warner Brothers studio in Hollywood because she didn't like the pay envelope she received, in comparison to that of an infant in the same picture, is reported from London to be on her way to Berlin to play in a German picture, "The Widow's Bed" . . . Wallace Beery, before his picture days, had experience as a chorus man on the stage and elephant nurse in a circus . . . Lupe Velez and Lee Tracy will play leads in a philm called "Phantom Fame"

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Big Question

ONE OF the strangest angles about wirting a column is that, no matter what you write, you're wrong. If you do a racketeer story, for example, some small-timer is fairly certain to come to the conclusion that you're picking on him. If you do a gambling house yarn, plenty of dealers and operators tab you as a heel for calling attention to their business.

A few columns ago I printed a gag story about a Polish gentleman who, after eating bologna all his life and saving enough to retire, died when he switched to other food. Believe it or not, the following morning's mail brought me five letters from indignant readers of Polish descent who demanded to know why I was poking fun at their race.

The same thing invariably happens whenever you use stories that involve a particular set of people. In last season's production of "Hot-Cha," which had to do with Bert Lahr's adventures in Mexico, Bert was called upon to make a speech. He was playing an extremely dumb character and the speech, as written, made him begin with the following line:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—and Mexicans."

The authors had no intention of harming anyone with that line. It was the type of line that the character would very naturally have uttered. But the trouble it caused poor Flo Ziegfeld before the matter was finally adjusted! The Mexican consul demanded that it be removed from the show. Prominent Mexicans wrote letters of complaint. There were phone calls and telegrams. And so on down the line.

The same thing happens to practically all daily columnists, with the exception of the fact that the reaction is intensified many times. I know of no columnist who goes out of his way to be deliberately nasty to any race or religion. He couldn't. Because unless he were working for that type of paper, he wouldn't last very long. It's simply that it's a human failing to appreciate a joke only when it's on the other fellow—and the columnist must take the rap in the long run.

All of which constitutes one of the longest-winded introductions to a story that I have ever written. And, as president of the long-winded introduction club, I am very proud of it. There is a slight difficulty, however. The thing ran so long that I have now forgotten the story I started to introduce.

Wait just a moment. Oh, yes, I have it. It's just a story about a police station in the city of New York—and what I started out to say was that a few of the bull-headed boys on the detective force will probably be peeved at me for reporting it. My duty, however, is my duty. My paper comes first, last and always. Or maybe it's just last. I'm never quite sure.

At any rate, a gentleman whom we will call Eddie arrived back in New York the other night after a session of beer drinking in Hoboken, N. J. As he changed trains in one of New York's middle districts, he was accosted by a young man who called him by name.

"Well, well, it's Eddie," cried the young man heartily. "I sure am glad to see you again. And how is old Eddie? Well, well, well."

Eddie was quite positive he didn't know the young man—but a name was a name. He shook the stranger's hand and put in a few "well, wells" of his own. They talked for a few moments and another train roared into the station. Whereupon the young man bade Eddie a hurried farewell and disappeared.

It wasn't more than 10 seconds later that Eddie discovered that his wallet had disappeared at the same time as the stranger. He rushed from the subway and hastened to the nearest traffic cop. The latter gentleman listened to Eddie with a very sympathetic expression and then directed him to the nearest station house. So once more Eddie raced away.

In the house, he was told to unfold his story to the boys in the back room.

"The detectives will take care of you," said the desk sergeant. "You'll find a couple of them right through that door."

Eddie opened the proper door and found two detectives engaged in a game of checkers. Neither player paid the slightest attention to him. So Eddie finally stepped forward.

"I've been robbed," he announced dramatically.

Silence for a few seconds. Then—

"Your move, Joe," said the first detective.

"No, Frank," asserted the second. "I moved my king over there. It's your move."

Eddie gulped.

"I hate to bother you boys," he exclaimed, "but this thing really means a lot to me. I've been robbed by a man I never saw before. He called me by name as I was standing in the subway station around the corner and I was foolish enough to talk to him.

"I'd had a few beers and I was feeling pretty good. Imagine a thief taking advantage of a man in such a condition! I think you boys ought to get busy on it right away. He's got my wallet and that will be easy to identify."

One of the detectives looked up.

"What did he look like?" he asked. Then he turned back. "I think I've got you now, Joe," he smiled. "Watch this one."

"W-w-well," stammered Eddie, "he was a sort of thin fellow with a little mustache. He had on a grey hat. No, it was a brown hat. And I think—"

"You wanna be more positive in your descriptions, young fellow," observed the second detective. His hand shot out. It was his turn to laugh loudly. "Thought you had me, did you, Frank? Well, how does that move strike yuo?"

Eddie shifted from one foot to the other. He tugged at his collar. He started to speak again. Then he stopped. Placing his hat on his head, he walked from the room.

On the way out of the station house, the desk sergeant hailed him.

"Everything all right?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," was Eddie's reply. "Everything's fine."

Some five days later, the desk sergeant received the following letter from Eddie. It's a matter of record—if you can get the sergeant to show it to you:

"Dear Sergeant: You were so nice to me when I spoke to you that evening that I felt I had to write and thank you. You'll remember me as the fellow that lost the wallet in the subway station.

"I guess I never will get the wallet back, but I suppose that's the way things go in this world. It's certainly a shame that a man has to work and slave all week and then have his earnings stolen by some bum who just happens along.

"Thank you again for your courtesy. And before I close, there's just one thing I want to ask you. It's been on my mind since I left the station house and I hope you can help me out.

"Who won that checker game?" . . .

'Salomy Jane' Cast Being Formed

Director Raoul Walsh is rapidly completing the cast for "Salomy Jane," the Joan Bennett-Charles Farrell picture he is to direct for Fox Films. The latest players to be signed are Eugene Pallette, Sarah Padden, Willard Robertson and Louise Beaver. Ralph Bellamy will play a featured role in "Salomy Jane," which has been adapted for the screen from Paul Armstrong's dramatization of Bret Harte's famous story of the same title.

Chorus Girl Given Movie Contract

Susan Fleming, former Broadway chorus girl, today learned that she had made good in her first screen lead when she was signed by Paramount to a long-term contract as a result of her work in "Million Dollar Legs." A few weeks ago the brunette beauty was a bit player in Hollywood. Because of her rare photographic qualities she was tested and selected by Paramount for the ingenue lead in the Olympic Games farce.

Usually at entertainments in social realms women are the guests of honor, but once in a great while the men have their social rights.

One of those times was last night when Mrs. Edward Pitcairn entertained at a stag party at the Pitcairn home, "Cairncrest," West Woodland road, for Mr. Pitcairn, to celebrate his birthday.

The Pitcairns were married recently. Mrs. Pitcairn is the former Amelia Donovan, daughter of Mrs. T. C. Donovan. And I heard that the arrangements were as novel as any planned for the most popular deb.

* * *

Mrs. James B. Oliver and her granddaughter and grandson, Caroline Crittenden and James Oliver Crittenden, went to New York this week to meet Mrs. Oliver's son-in-law and daughter, Marchese and Marchesa Alfredo Dusmet, of Rome, Italy, who have just arrived on the Augustus. After a brief stay at the St. Regis, the party left for Newport, where they will be much feted during their short visit. Later they'll all come to Sewickley, I understand. It has been several years since the marchesa has visited her old home.

* * *

Last spring Pittsburgh and Sewickley went in strong for bridge tournaments. And their popularity is continuing at summer resorts. Up at Southampton, L. I., always a gathering place for the smart set in July and August, the first of a series of bridge tournaments is either played with last night bringing the first.

Bridge Popular

Among those playing in the tournament at the Southampton Riding and Hunt Club were Mrs. G. Faber Downey, Jr., of Sewickley, and her mother, Mrs. Edward Van Ingen. Mrs. Downey and her two little daughters, Patsy and Joan, always spend the summers with Mrs. Van Ingen at her Southampton summer home.

* * *

Have you heard that after the Pittsburgh Hunt steeplechase, Saturday afternoon, August 27, there'll be a dinner-dance in the Hunt clubhouse, Fox Chapel?

Speaking of the Pittsburgh Hunt always reminds me of the Pittsburgh Polo Club and its doings, for many members of the Hunt are becoming more interested in polo than in hunting. I understand that some of the old faithful members of the Hunt have dropped their membership.

Polo Gains Adherents

But to return to polo. The Whites and Blues will play Sunday afternoon at the polo field. And in the lineup will be David I. McCahill, who has just started to play polo. His son, David I. McCahill, Jr., has won considerable note for his playing.

Now that the twins, Marie and Marguerite, have gone in for polo, too, the whole family plays, but Mrs. McCahill. When she was a girl, Mrs. McCahill was an enthusiastic rider, and she is still interested in the sport. At every horseshow and polo game she is a spectator.

The Frank R. Dentons are back home at the Schenley Apartments after a few days in New York, where they stopped at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mrs. Denton was Elizabeth Bovard, of Greensburg, before her marriage in the late spring.

Others who have been at the Waldorf-Astoria include Thomas Mellon II, and the W. S. Ralstons, of Kinsman road.

* * *

A marriage that came as a surprise to their friends is that of Adeline Isabelle Dent, daughter of the J. A. Dents, of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Charles Taft Snowden, son of the late George Snowdens, of Sewickley. They were married in Oakland, Md., Saturday, July 30, with the William Runners, of Clarksburg, as their only attendants.

Wed in Maryland

Soon the Snowdens will leave for Seattle, Wash., to make their home. The bridegroom is a grand nephew of the late President and Chief Justice of the United States, William Howard Taft, and is a nephew of Felix Snowden, Charles L. Snowden, Jr., and Mrs. Ralph Richards, of Sewickley.

Edna Louise Hughes Is Minister's Bride

With the bridegroom, the three officiating ministers and the ushers all Lutheran ministers, the wedding of Miss Edna Louise Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Ira Carlisle Hughes, of West Etna, and the Rev. William Blair Claney, Jr., is taking place at 11:30 o'clock this morning in Emmanuel Lutheran Church, West Etna.

The bridegroom's father, the Rev. William Blair Claney, Sr., pastor of the church, is the officiant and the Rev. Henry H. Bagger, president of the Pittsburgh Synod, and the Rev. Dr. John J. Myers, mission superintendent, are assisting.

The bride's attendants are Miss Wilmina Elwilda Hughes, her cousin, who is maid of honor, and the three bridesmaids, Miss Alma Kleed, Miss Mary Zimmerman and Miss Helen Olendorf. Mr. Claney's cousin, William Blocher, is his best man and the Rev. John Deutschlander, the Rev. John Grundel and Philip Seiberling, a theological student, are serving as ushers.

The bride's gown is of white satin, her veil is of tulle and her flowers are white roses. Ostrich-trimmed pink crepe is being worn by the maid of honor and the bridesmaids are gowned in the same.

After the wedding breakfast in the Kaufman Hotel, Zelienople, Mr. Claney and his bride left for a motor trip through the New England States and will return to be at home in Glenshaw, where he is pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran Church.

Emsworth Party Arranged to Aid Hospital Fund

Varying the parties given for the benefit of the unemployed is a series of affairs in late summer days to aid the Suburban General Hospital in Bellevue, which like many of the hospitals is in need of funds since the reduction of state appropriations.

The Emsworth members of the advisory board of the hospital will do their share by giving a bridge party Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the lawns of Mrs. John S. Applegate's home, North avenue.

Mrs. John Metz, Mrs. James Stewart, Mrs. A. C. Moore, Mrs. M. J. Slattery and Mrs. Applegate form the committee, which will have tables of 500 for those who do not play bridge.

Vacationing at the Nittany Lion Inn, State College, Pa., are W. C. Graham, superintendent of Wilkinsburg schools, and Mrs. Graham.

Pittsburgh Folk At Atlantic City

Vacationing at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, are Miss Helen Lucas, of Webster Hall; Mrs. J. B. Owens, of Virginia avenue; Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Shaw and Miss Lois Shaw, also of Virginia avenue, Mr. and Mrs. William M. English, of the King Edward Apartments; Mrs. Harold Traynor and Miss Jean Helmer and Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Year Book of Freeport Club Outlines Season of Varied Events

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The first year book that has ever come from the Freeport Current Events Club to the club editor's desk is a good looking little book bound in marine blue suede. Nor is its outside more attractive than its content, forecasting a season of miscellaneous attractions.

October 6 is announced as president's day when Mrs. C. B. Hill will receive the gavel from her predecessor, Mrs. H. G. Ralston, and Mrs. D. E. Taylor will outline the year book. There will also be readings by Mrs. J. W. Held, and music, with tea following the program.

* * *

The second October meeting will be "American Indian Day." November's sessions are to be a community day with a program by the community service committee and a club day and tea at which Mrs. James G. Chalfant and Mrs. Richard B. Perry will be the speakers. Under "American Shrines," Stone Mountain Monument, Lincoln, Washington and Arlington Memorials and the Madonna of the Trail will be discussed in papers by the members.

To Study Indian

The music, hospitality and entertainment committees will have charge of the Christmas tea and the early new year will bring an afternoon devoted to current literature, including a paper on "The Modern Newspaper, Its Influence on the Public and the Home." "Armstrong County Then and Now" will bring to light some interesting history; there are also to be a drama day, a guest night, the annual business meeting, a sealed program, a miscellany day, art day (Mrs. J. Charles Runk, district chairman of fine arts, speaking), a garden day and the final event, the annual luncheon.

* * *

The past matrons of Roosevelt Chapter, No. 264, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a card party in Moose Temple Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

The chapter will have its annual picnic Saturday afternoon and evening, meeting at Cabin One in Riverview Park.

* * *

Plans for the annual convention were made yesterday at an executive meeting of Allegheny County Women's Christian Temperance Union. The convention is to be held September 13 and 14 in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Election of officers and the report of Mrs. H. B. Littell, county delegate to the national convention now being held in Seattle, will be the chief features of the first day. The evening sessions will be marked by a gold medal oratorical contest, those taking part being the young people who have already won silver medals.

Committees for the Criterion Club are always interesting in their personnel. This year no less than usual. On the year book committee are Mrs. Virginia Yeamans, Mrs. R. S. Dougall, Mrs. John W. Springer and the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy. The membership committee is made up of Mrs. George S. Baton, Albert E. Duckham, Elmer L. Kidney, John E. Nelson and Mrs. Edward Rynearson. The social committee includes Mrs. Ralph B. Urmy, Mrs. Alexander Black, Mrs. Arthur B. Sivitter, Mrs. F. N. Speller and Mrs. William M. Stieren. Mrs. William F. Knox heads the music committee on which are also Mrs. William E. Conroy, Mrs. William Gates, Alfred Hamer and Mrs. John E. Nelson, while the program committee, under the chairmanship of William Gates, is composed of William A. Challener, Norman E. Nolen and the Rev. Dr. J. M. Thoburn.

Miss Lerman Engaged To Wed New Yorker

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lerman, Hobart street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Lerman, to Samuel Avins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Avins, New Dorp, N. Y.

Miss Lerman is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, and she studied two years in the School of Drama at Carnegie Tech. She is a member of the Phi Sigma Sorority and has been an English instructor at Homestead.

Her fiance is a graduate of the College of the City of New York, and is a physicist at the United States Bureau of Mines.

They plan a September wedding.

RELATED WARDROBES PLANNED BY SMART FRENCH WOMEN

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,

PARIS, Aug. 10. — No one knows quite as well as the Frenchwoman how to plan a complete wardrobe. While feminine interests in clothes are probably the same the world over, no matter what nationality, it takes the French to achieve the final result of the woman who is well-dressed in every detail. No Parisienne purchases a single frock without considering at the same time exactly what hat, what gloves, what shoes, even what bracelets she will wear with it.

* * *

THIS YEAR'S fashion program in France goes even further than that. Not only harmonizing accessories are planned with each frock, but dresses, coats, hats and bathing suits are planned with relation to each other. Thus a woman settles on her own color scheme, her own type of costume and her own favorite decoration, and orders all her clothes according to her own special plan.

* * *

HERE IS AN example of how detailed this sort of plan may be. Mainbocher—who is, incidentally, an American designing clothes for French women—is making several costumes, all of the same general design, for the same women. As the sketch shows two costumes as widely different as bathing suit and evening gown, follow the same general idea of color, silhouette and decoration.

* * *

THE DRESS, of black crepe de chine, has two chevrons across the front—the upper one of white, the lower green. The same chevrons appear on the little scarf worn with the dress, and on the black knitted bathing suit. Both dress and bathing suit are plain back at the back. The dress is cut on the bias and is held in place at the waistline by a half-belt, which is tied at the back. The bathing suit has a deep evening decolletage back and fits closely at the waist.

LANG TO PROBE CURB SALES AT MARKET

Director Edward G. Lang of the Department of Public Works is having an investigation made into the controversy over the sale of produce outside the market house.

Said the director:

"The market was established primarily to sell the products of the producer. As a matter of fact, few stand owners produce what they sell, and as far as I know, only one concern on the inside of the market does so.

"A petition signed by 48 tenants asked me to stop the practice of selling on the outside after 11 a. m. The claim was made that few outside merchants produce what they sell, but the order which I gave stopping the practice, has been recinded."

Director Lang has learned that no producers signed the petition. The director also has found that most women do not do their shopping in the market until after 10 o'clock in the morning. He added:

"The claim is made that the stopping of selling on the outside would relieve congestion on the sidewalks and bring more persons into the market. I have ordered a thorough investigation, and after it has been completed, will decide definitely what is to be done."

BOMBED RAIDER BARES THREAT

A letter threatening him with the fate of the three slain Volpe brothers unless he leaves Pennsylvania this week, was received by Herman Funk, raiding constable of Braddock Township, several days after the bombing of his home early Friday, according to County Detective Edward Frank.

Detectives said today Funk knows the bombers but has declined the aid of the authorities saying, according to detectives:

"I'll handle this myself."

Funk blamed his raiding activities for the bombing and intimated he knew who was responsible for the act, Frank said. The letter, signed "Volpe Gang," was mailed from East Liberty and threatened him with death if he did not leave the state within a week.

Funk was active in many raids on moonshine sellers in the city and county for the last several years.

William, orphaned newsboy, 239 Steuben street, West End, killed beneath the wheels of a Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad train almost within sight of his home. The report to the coroner tells that he was stealing a ride on a freight.

OAKLAND BLAZE INVESTIGATED

Firemen today were investigating a two-alarm fire that caused damage estimated at $1,500 in a rooming house at 432 Atwood street, Oakland, late yesterday, after driving eight persons from their home.

Mark Skoff, who had been asleep on the third floor of the three-story brick building, jumped from a window to the porch roof. He was uninjured. Miss Marie Bogunovich, proprietor of the house; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Johnson and two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Steward Horne, roomers, were driven out by smoke and flames.

MARTIN OPENS HOOVER DRIVE

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Gen. Edward Martin, state treasurer and chairman of the Republican state committee, today launched the Republican campaign in Western Pennsylvania with glowing praise of President Hoover as a leader in the world-wide economic crisis.

Addressing a rally of the Crawford County Republican committee, Gen. Martin devoted a large portion of his talk to discussion of the work of the special session of the State Assembly.

He predicted the next regular session of the legislature, in January, 1933, would make drastic reductions in the state's budget and termed the economy program now before the extraordinary session as "but a drop in the bucket" compared to future reductions.

Failure of the special session to achieve success in its economy program resulted from the opposition of "organized lobbies . . . maintained to favor heavy expenditures for certain things," the state treasurer declared.

T. R.'s Widow Holds Hoover Celebration

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., who has been embarrassed since the Democratic national convention by well-wishers who wired their congratulations apparently under the impression the late Col. Roosevelt was still alive and running for president on the Democratic ticket, was hostess today to several hundred Republican women.

A luncheon and Republican rally were held at Sagamore Hill, the occasion being a celebration of the fifty-eighth birthday anniversary of President Hoover.

Burro Finds Gold As Owner Hunts On in Vain

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Bill Stroup wishes his donkey could talk for Bill believes in such a case he might make a little money.

Stroup was placer mining on Smith's Creek when the burro kicked loose several rocks on a hillside. One boulder splashed in the water near Stroup. He looked at it casually, then his eyes bulged. He said it was flecked with gold.

Since then he has combed the hillside unsuccessfully seeking the ledge from which the rock was dislodged.

BYRD CHOSEN BY DEMOCRATS

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, has been selected as chairman of the executive committee of the Roosevelt-Garner campaign, James Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, announced today.

Farley also formally announced selection of Evans Woolen, of Indianapolis, as chairman of the National Finance Committee, which already had been announced informally by the Indiana Democratic chairman in Indianapolis.

Byrd's committee will be subordinate to Woolen's and the personnel will be announced later.

G. O. P. LEADERS GATHER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. — A confident lot of Republicans gathered in Washington today to see and to hear President Hoover formally launch the campaign tomorrow night with his speech of acceptance.

Whether this confidence is well-founded or whether it is the usual type of campaign optimism only time can tell.

East and West, the Republican big-wigs are all confident. They may be a bit hazy as to the basis for this confidence, a bit vague as to just what states will fall into the Hoover column in November, but they literally exude confidence.

The drys who have been beating a path to the White House doorstep during the preparation of this speech were somewhat disturbed today. What disturbed them most was the confident prediction of such eastern wets as Senator Felix Hebert, of Rhode Island, and Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, that Mr. Hoover's attitude on prohibition, as expressed in his speech tomorrow night, will be satisfactory to the wet East.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- BY SALLY MARTIN

Girl Admits She Gets Kick Out of Being Stubborn

She's stubborn, selfish, heartlessly rude—admits it herself—and says she gets a big bang out of being that way!

And Ted has always known it. But at first he thought she was just a cute kid. Maybe it flattered him to think he could manage such a hell cat. Anyway, he stuck around.

But now he's beginning to wonder and well he may!

"Friend Sally—

"I have been reading your column each day and now I am coming to you for some of your advice.

"I am 22 years old, dark, tall and capable of enjoying myself most anywhere, with everyone. But I have a problem that is bothering me considerably and I would like to know what you think of it.

STUBBORN GIRL

"For nearly a year I have been going with a girl of whom I have thought, and still think, a lot. I think I am in love with her. But there are some things about her that worry me.

First of all, she is stubborn, and she thinks I should do a one hundred per cent entertaining job for her every night. If I don't begin a conversation and carry it on—and that mostly to myself, for she only answers me when she feels like it—she seems to think I am all wet. She says she gets a kick out of being stubborn and not saying a word all evening.

"She wants to get married and says she could not live without me, but I am wondering—would marriage be happy with a girl who wants everything served to her on a tray?

LIKES TO ARGUE

"I am willing to play the game fair and square with anyone. I am easy going, and let people have their own way a good deal. But I don't know just what to think or do. Should I test her love by walking out on her, as I so often feel like doing? I am ready to gamble, win or lose, but maybe I am wrong.

"She is 21, teaches school, and has been around plenty. She likes to argue, and I don't, because there doesn't seem to me to be any sense to it.

"Everything has to be perfect, for her. No smoking or drinking. I quit smoking, and I never did drink. But she is so funny. She had a number of her girl friends at her house once, and went to bed and just left them sitting there. She doesn't think it is necessary to entertain or be sociable.

"Please tell me what I should do. Can I make her different by trying the 'walk-out' system? I feel it might work, as she has said that her love for me would never change. What shall I do?

"TED."

What'll you do?

EGOTISTICAL NATURE

Well, Ted, if I were you, I'd do that walk-out so fast you couldn't see me for dust! And I wouldn't do it with any idea of "changing" her either! She sounds to me as if she'd be pure poison, even as a friend, let alone as a wife!

Of course I don't doubt she has come-hither eyes, the latest in slick permanents and a pair of perfectly gorgeous ankles, but—you'll need a lot more than that in a wife, son!

You may not realize it now, but no marriage can be a success unless the people in it are willing to be good sports and good teammates.

And obviously she isn't. She's just a selfish, egotistical little chump, who has no idea of loving anyone except herself. She may have put over a big line about "loving" you, but don't let yourself be taken in by it. As a matter of fact, I can't see what a regular guy like you ever saw in her in the first place!

She's not looking for a husband. She looking for an easy mark.

Mothers Can Help Children by Training Them to Moderate Voices—Fay King

AW GEE, SIS, I WISH YOU'D QUIT YOUR YELLIN'
QUIT YELLIN' YOURSELF!
LISTEN DEAR, MOTHER WANTS YOU TO LEARN TO LOWER YOUR VOICE IN TALKING AND PLAYING. IT IS THE FIRST STEP TO SUCCESS!
TO OVERCOME THE CHILDISH TRAIT OF BEING LOUD AND BOISTEROUS TAKES TIME, A LITTLE PREVIOUS TRAINING COULD SAVE!
YEAH, MA, I'VE BEEN THINKING SOME ABOUT THAT. LOOK WHAT A QUIET GUY WINDY IS. I'D LIKE TO BE LIKE HIM, MA
WILLIE, PLEASE RECITE YOUR LESSON IN A LOWER TONE OF VOICE!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Every mother is naturally ambitious and hopeful for her children.

In reviewing the careers of great men we often find that their mothers were the first to believe in them, encourage and help them.

Many great men have continued to consult with their mothers in times of crisis and uncertainty and profited by their good advice.

Now, the sooner a good mother begins to train her children in those ways which will help them later on, the easier she makes it for them.

The humblest mother can help her children by training them to lower their voices.

For quiet will be the first restraint put upon them elsewhere by others.

Being boisterous and loud will hinder them in school and at work.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Stand and Sit Erect for Good Health

In a recent article I referred to the importance of proper care of the feet and choice of proper footgear. Today I want to tell you about proper posture and its relationship to health.

Dr. Copeland

Headaches, nausea, "biliousness," loss of appetite, backache — are a few of the many disorders that may be caused by poor posture. When we stand erect, the muscles of the abdomen are in position and keep the internal organs in their proper place. The digestive organs work best when held in the correct position. The lungs supply plenty of oxygen to the blood when the body is held erect and deep breathing is made easy.

It has been repeatedly shown that a slouching position leads to illness and many discomforts. Most amazing is the observation made on children suffering from malnutrition or undernourishment. Many children with bad posture suffer from marked digestive disturbances, in spite of abundant and suitable food.

When these children were taught to hold their bodies in good position there was an increase in the weight and the digestive disturbances disappeared. Indeed, the child who improves his posture increases his appetite, and increased appetite insures better digestion and increased weight.

Many individuals who do not hold themselves properly are merely careless. They do not realize the importance of good posture, and often seek medical advice for the correction of vague and distant complaints. In some cases severe pain is due to faulty posture, and the victims are amazed and often skeptical when advised that the cure will come with correct posture. Their amazement is even greater when correct posture and exercise cause their discomfort and ill health to disappear.

Do you walk slumping forward, shoulders rounded and arms dangling in front of you? If you do, remedy this at once. Walk with the chest well arched forward, the stomach in, head upright, chin in and spine straight. When you take this position you will notice that it is easier to draw your abdomen in as you should. It is easier to breathe, and you will feel much better.

Remember that good health and good posture are closely related. Vigor, increased efficiency and greater happiness will be yours if you give heed to these suggestions.

Household Hints

When buying a cotton material and you want to be sure it is of good quality, hold it up against a strong light and see the tightness of the weave. The tighter the weave, the better the material will wear, so avoid the loosly woven if you are looking for durability.

Use the tin box in which the pound of coffee came and when next you buy sulphur matches dump the entire box into the tin container. At night clamp the lid on tightly and then you will know no marauding mouse can set the house on fire by chewing at the matches in the wee sma' hours.

Milady has a small electric iron tucked in her baggage when traveling so that her frocks look fresh and trim before wearing. A hotel bureau drawer turned upside down and padded with bath towels makes a fine emergency ironing board.

If you are still washing dishes in an old battered gray agate dish pan, it is no wonder you dislike the job so much. Buy yourself a brightly colored enameled pan to correspond with the coloring of your kitchen. One can't get disgusted with the job against a bright blue, green, or red background.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

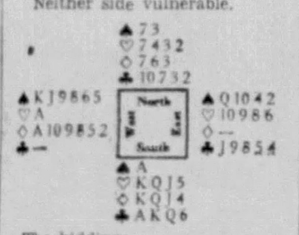
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Passing the Trump Barrier

Of all the sad words of tongue and pen, the saddest to a Bridge players are not "It might have been," but rather the inexorable fact that even Aces and Kings cannot pass the barrier of opponents' trumps. Failure to appreciate this axiom of Bridge is at the root of many unfortunate results obtained in actual competition. Honor strength is an effective measure of the defensive trick-taking power of a hand, provided—and this is a very important proviso—that the adverse bidding has not disclosed pitfalls of distribution, which will make of no avail tremendous honor holdings.

Mr. P. A. Prentiss, of New York City, sent me the hand below, in which he lamented the fact that East and West, with only 4½ honor-tricks, were able to make a contract of four spades, redoubled, although South had soundly opened the bidding with a Forcing suit bid of two hearts. The distribution, it must be admitted, was unusual, but the bidding of East and West should have furnished the key to the North and South players, and in view of that bidding, South should have been chary about doubling, but rather have sought another solution to the ever-recurring bridge problem—the best bid in the combined hands.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2♡	3♠ (1)	Pass	4♠ (2)
Double (3)	Redouble (4)	Pass	Pass
Pass

(1) An unusual holding, although the bid of three spades over an Opening Forcing bid is extremely optimistic.

(2) With a void suit and four trumps, East must give his partner one Raise.

(3) South's position is, indeed, a difficult one, but anything would have been better than the Double, as the sequel proves. However, the Penalty Double appeared entirely sound.

(4) Again West is an optimistic bidder.

As a matter of fact, West, against a heart Opening, made not only his contract of four spades, but 2 over-tricks in addition. The heart was won, and West proceeded to ruff out his losing diamonds, and after the long diamonds were established, pulled trumps, thereby losing only the Ace of spades.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Why are doubletons, singletons and voids counted in the Responding Hand but not in the Opening bidder's hand?

Answer: A short suit can gain a trick or tricks only by ruffing otherwise useless trumps. A short suit in the Declarer's hand is not counted as an additional value, as all the trumps in the Declarer's hand have already been counted at their full value; but in the Responding Hand a short suit will usually enable the Declarer to utilize trumps separately.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introductions

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. How do you address a Baroness? When introducing a Baroness to a gentleman, is it correct to say, "Mr. Jones, May I present Baroness So and So?"

2. And is it only good form to use the entire name in introducing her to a group of one's friends at one's home?

3. If the hostess prefers to have her maid show the guests to their rooms to remove their wraps, who should precede, the maid or the guest? And if the maid should precede the guest, should the hostess apologize for not taking the guest upstairs? Is this correct to say, "Will you excuse me if I do not go upstairs? Amy will show you to your room, or to my room?"

P.

1—The basis of your wording of this question is not correct, dear friend, for we introduce a man to a woman. This is one of the most important rules of introductions.

So when you introduce a man to a baroness you say, "Baroness Riveville, may I present Mr. Thompson.

And you address the baroness as "Baroness Riveville."

2—Yes.

3—It is convenient for the maid to precede to show the way. If several or many people are arriving for a party, it is quite correct for the hostess to say just what you have indicated. But if the guest is the only one arriving, as say, for a week-end visit, the hostess should, if possible, go with the maid to show the guest her room and to make sure that everything is right and convenient.

Gifts for a Mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A girl friend of mine is to become a mother next month and I would like to know if it is proper, when I go to visit her, to take a present for the baby before or after the baby's birth, such as a nightie, sweaters, bonnets, and so forth?

I would like to see her before and after the baby's birth, so if it is not proper to take anything for the baby before its birth, should I then take her something such as flowers, books, and so forth? T. T.

It is thoroughly correct for you to take a gift both before the baby's birth and after, if you wish. Since the girl is apparently a very dear friend of yours, she will appreciate very much your thought. Why not take her something for the baby when you go to see her before the birth, and some flowers or books to the hospital or to her home after the birth of the baby?

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Black it flattering to the short, stout figure, as black stockings seem to slenderize fatted calves. Cross line designs on the frock of the pudgy one lessens her height. Vivid colors aren't so good, and checks or plaids are fatal. The V neckline is a help.

White hair requires special care. Bland soaps are best for it. Hair tonics should be tested on a single lock to be sure they won't make the tiara golden. Hot irons are fatal to the snowy surface of hair shafts. Whites of six eggs make a desirable shampoo, especially if there follows after a bluing rinse.

The bob is a husky baby. The long-haired cult said it wouldn't survive; now it is nine years old and hands them the laughter. Locks long enough to bun at the back are being shorn once again, clipped off within a few inches of the hair line at the back, sufficient tag ends being left to curl upward in a little hirsute surf. Nice arrangement, if you ask us, and better than the shingle because there are no ugly bristling fuzzers shadowing the neck. The chic coiffure trick is turned by clever shearing and lovely wide liquid undulations patterned to form a neat, elegant and becoming design.

Permanent wave operators tell amazing yarns about cash customers who, seeking the hard-boiled undulation, declare they haven't used dye when the trained eye sees plainly that a coloring agent has been applied. When suspicious, the operator takes no chances, but does a test curl. Very foolish of the client with the tinted tresses, since the contact of dye with steam oftimes brings sad results. Some coloring agents do not disqualify the hair; it can have its permanent just the same. Not so with preparations of a different character. Beauty operators are overcoming many difficulties. All the patron has to do is to tell the truth.

Fat Men

I don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles. If you will take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast for 4 weeks and cut down on pastries, sugar and fatty meats—

You will feel so good—so energetic and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one bottle of Kruschen Salts; it will last you 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. After you have taken one bottle the old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll enjoy work—you'll sleep like a top and by reducing surplus fat probably live years longer.

A man from Richmond Hill, N. Y., writes: "After 2 bottles of Kruschen, I've removed 3 inches from my belt, feel 25% more active, mind is clearer, eruptions have disappeared. Am 46 yrs. old and feel 20 yrs. younger. I get up feeling 100%. Kruschen sure is great!"

To take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY, take as directed above—don't worry—it's the safe way to reduce.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world and if the results one bottle brings—do not joyfully satisfy you—why, money back.

Program Pointers

Virginia Rea makes a return appearance as guest artist with the Revelers and Victor Young's Orchestra, featuring selections from "Rose Marie" and Victor Herbert's "Fortune Teller," on WCAE tonight at 9 o'clock. A rollicking parody on the "Sextette" from Donizetti's opera, "Lucia," is offered by the Men About Town when they are starred with Gladys Rice and an orchestra directed by Nat Shilkret on the same station at 9:30. Miss Rice's solos are "A Little Love, A Little Kiss" and "The Voice in the Old Village Choir."

Miss Rice

The vocal characteristics of the Swedish dialect comedian of the stage and screen, El Brendel, are adopted by Ward Wilson when he announces the Royal Vagabonds program on KDKA at 7:15.

Songs of the Vaterland by the Heidelburg Trio, the most recent addition to WWSW's Little German Band are featured in a broadcast tonight at 6:30.

Songs handed down from the plantations of Virginia are heard on WCAE tonight at 10 o'clock when the weekly crossroads meeting of the Corn Cob Pipe Club is broadcast.

A rehearsal of the new act that Johnny Hart has written for himself and his new girl friend, Cleo Boswell, is heard during the "Big Time" presentation on WCAE tonight at 8. * * *

Fan Fare

Charlie Lyon, NBC announcer, spent several years seeing the world from the portholes of various ships on the sea. Now, craving another view of Earth, he spends his spare time riding around in airplanes. Lyon first became interested in aviation when he flew to Edmonton, Canada, where he was the only network announcer to greet Post and Gatty, the world fliers . . . Alfred Corn, who plays "Sammy" in the Goldbergs, is not content with being a star radio actor . . . He's taking singing lessons and aims at grand opera.

Mr. Lyon

Jimmy Wallington has become an ardent sailor, with yacht, white duck uniform, salty slang and everything. Mrs. Wallington blames it all on "Skeets" Miller, NBC director of special broadcast events, who sent Jimmy to sea in submarines, dreadnaughts and trans-Atlantic liners on various broadcasts.

Merle Alcock wears only white and pastel shades when broadcasting. She believes that dark or somber colors on a singer at a concert or in the studio have a depressing effect.

At 16 Countess Olga Albani made her debut in amateur theatricals . . . and at the same age, Jack Benny was playing the violin in a dance orchestra . . . A Florida fruit grower has named a watermelon after Buddy Rogers . . . George Olsen still has a broomstick which he wielded as a baton when he directed his first college orchestra . . .

Ray Perkins' fan mail is one grand lesson in geography . . . Letters come from Zinc, Ark.; Sebastopol, Cal.; Zolfo, Fla.; Ty Ty, Ga.; Zwingle, Ia.; Paw Paw, Minn., and Prosperity, S. C., Ark. and W. Va.

James Melton refuses to talk business aboard his yacht, maintaining that he bought it strictly for pleasure and relaxation . . . Welcome Lewis is pleading with theatrical managers to refrain from inclosing her first name in quotation marks as though it were a nickname. Welcome is her real name.

Mildred Bailey has a unique music room. Her lamp shades are made from the tops of bass drums, her candle sticks are inverted trumpets and she has a footstool made out of a snare drum . . . There's a banjo clock on the mantlepiece, too.

QUESTION BOX

Who is the Gypsy tenor? When is he on the air?—R. O. L., Jeannette.

Frank Parker is the Gypsy tenor. He's heard every Monday night with the Gypsies on WCAE at 9, and also appears as one of the Four Singing Grocers during the Our Daily Food program every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday on WCAE at 9:45 and KDKA at 10:30.

Manufacturers Say:

"IT COSTS US ⅓ MORE TO BUILD FURNITURE TO KAUFMANN'S SPECIFICATIONS!"

We're proud of us—glad that we are recognized as hard-boiled buyers. After all, it has taken generations of furniture experience to achieve our present rigid code. And keeping up the largest stock in town is practice enough!

When we go to market, we have a list of 41 construction details in mind—our specifications—your safeguard. You see the finished product on our floor. But you cannot see the "innerds." You cannot know, unless we tell you, such myriad qualifications as these: that our frames are of kiln-dried lumber—not air-dried . . . that we insist upon linen thread, instead of cotton . . . that we insist upon full webbed bottoms . . . that we demand filling which costs the manufacturer exactly twice as much as his usual job, etc., etc., etc. Why, in one instance—it happens to be a sofa around $75—we demand 10 vitals of construction that ordinary furniture omits entirely!

BARBECUE BANDITS ESCAPE IN HAIL OF SHOTS

POLITICS

James Francis Burke Was Close to Hoover

—By MARK SHIELDS—

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—The death of James Francis Burke necessitates the formation by the Pennsylvania Republican state committee of a new connecting link with the national administration at Washington. Mr. Burke was without question the closest and most productive liaison in recent years between Pennsylvania business, Pennsylvania politics and the federal government.

Mr. Shields

Today in Pittsburgh there is universal, and in some quarters, hypocritical laudation of the worth of Mr. Burke.

In life he was treated lightly by some of those who today pay him a lip service of homage. With that insincerity and camoflauge I have no patience. What is here said about Mr. Burke is my own personal view of his capacity, his ability and his delivery. Some Pittsburghers affected to treat the services of Mr. Burke lightly, to depreciate his accomplishments, to belittle the unquestioned fact that he was within the inner circle of the White House.

This was the meanness and the smallness of those who, cock of the walk in their own small sphere, envied the fact that Mr. Burke had the ear and the mind of the present President of the United States. It is beyond cavil that in the campaign leading up to the election of Mr. Hoover in 1928, Mr. Burke, was one of the two or three closest to the Great or Near-great Engineer. He had a tremendous influence on the strategy of that campaign—and it was a winning strategy.

* * *

Glaring Blunders After Burke's Elimination

Shortly after Mr. Hoover entered the White House, his three-ringed secretariat became jealous of Mr. Burke's eminence. It was a jealousy, which if not based on mental inferiority, was based on a politically minded inferiority. Whereupon Mr. Burke was edged out of the shadow of the White House.

Whereupon, also, the White House, in its political strategy, proceeded to make the most glaring and ridiculous of mistakes of political strategy within the history of a national administration.

This fumbling and stumbling—so well pictured in the present scene of Pennsylvania politics—continued until some intelligent friends of Mr. Hoover, decided that Mr. Burke should be called back to an advisory post. It is significant that, during this White House eclipse of Mr. Burke, he continued as general counsel of the Republican national committee—a group of hard-boiled politicians, who recognized better than the academicians of Washington the true political worth of the diminutive but dynamic Pittsburgher.

James Francis Burke, was one of the prophets without honor in his own country. This refusal to recognize his unquestioned force, his influence, his impress upon national policies, lay principally in the circumscribed provinciality of those Pennsylvania politicians, who think themselves pretty hot, but who are a frost when they get into the big league zone.

Ranked Senator Reed As Hoover Aide

There was only one man in Pittsburgh closer to Washington than James Francis Burke and that was A. W. Mellon—his political mentor. Indeed, within the past two years, it is probable that no Pittsburgh man was closer to the White House than James Francis Burke, and that includes Senator David A. Reed.

In the campaign now impending, Mr. Burke had been singled out as one of the President's closest political advisers. It was he, who, in light of the revelations connecting Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the Public Service Commission with the utilities of Pennsylvania, advised against the appointment of State Chairman Edward Martin as eastern manager of the Hoover campaign. Friends of Gen. Martin may deny this. Mr. Burke is not in a position to speak. In the light of known facts, I am willing to stand on the statement.

To sum up, James Francis Burke, within the circle of his own community was known principally as a Chamber of Commerce orator. He was a tremendously bigger man than that. He was a force in national politics, he was an influence on national policy. And above all, as I and other newspaper men, knew him, he was a kindly and thoughtful gentleman.

U. S. PUTS CURB ON RADIO TONIC FIRM HERE

Order Declares Output To Be Deficient in Radium Activity

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The Federal Trade Commission has ordered Radium-Active Remedies Company, Pittsburgh, to stop representing that its products cure diseases or pathological conditions of the human body or that they are radium-active, unless they have a radium-activity sufficient to give or add to the products, a therapeutic effect when used in treating diseases or pathological conditions.

CURE-ALL CLAIMED

The company sells its products as a self-treatment for such ailments as anemia, asthma, diabetes, dropsy, eczema, eye trouble, high or low blood pressure, indigestion, inflammation, neuralgia, sore feet cold feet, fallen arches and the like.

The commission found that the substance used as an ingredient, which was claimed to be radium-active, had in fact a radium-activity of less than 2.32 millimicrograms of radium a gram. The report says:

"There is no therapeutic effect derived from the use of any medicament or medical appliance prescribed or used for the relief of disease or human ailments which has a radium-activity of 2.32 millimicrograms of radium per gram."

PHONE DISCONNECTED

The Radium-Active Remedies Company, whose address is listed as 7 Federal street, was one of five radium concerns which the Federal Trade Commission investigated following the death in April of Eben M. Byers, wealthy Pittsburgh industrialist. It was a radio "tonic" made by another manufacturer which was held responsible for Mr. Byers' death.

At the Pittsburgh company's offices today the telephone had been disconnected.

HIS NATAL DAY SPENT IN TREE

Herbert Seeger, 1531 Alverado street, Beechview, is 14 years old today, and because President Herbert Hoover also has a birthday today, he is celebrating the occasion up in the air.

Herbert, better know as "Shorty," and two chums, James Lennon, 14, of 1400 Hampshire avenue, and Francis Meyers, 12, Lennon's cousin, are having an all-day birthday celebration in their hut built in the branches of a tree in Bechview woods.

Master Seeger isn't so much impressed by the fact that his birthday is on the same day as the President's as by the fact that James Lennon's sister, Margaret, was chosen Miss Pittsburgh at Motor Square Garden Monday night.

Soaring Payroll, Extra Jobs in Kline Regime Burden City Taxpayer

Increases in the city payroll are in great measure responsible for the increased city budget of the last six years under the administration of Mayor Charles H. Kline.

In 1925, the city expended for salaries and wages $9,143,176. In 1926, the first year of the Kline regime, the city payroll was increased to $9,783,931.

Since that time, it has climbed steadily until last year when the high point was reached at $12,407,322. This was an increase of more than 35 per cent over the 1925 figure.

So loud was public clamor for reduced taxes last year that City Council yielded and cut the millage 2½ mills on land and 1¼ mills on buildings.

To make the cut, Council was forced to slice the payroll either by eliminations, furloughs or otherwise. It appropriated for 1932 salaries and wages $10,968,501, a sizeable reduction from last year but still more than 20 per cent above 1925.

ELIMINATE WASTE IN GOVERNMENT

In the first six months, this year, there has been spent on the city payroll $5,489,821, a trifle more than half the appropriation.

Since then, the report of the Mayor's Finance Committee and the spectacle of falling tax collections have forced other economy measures. Most of these have again been aimed at the payroll either in a five-day week program or a flat wage cut.

The Mayor and Council have not yet taken a furlough nor deduction of salaries of any description. Last year they took a two-weeks furlough, in December.

Since 1917, the city payrolls had more than doubled until the budget cuts at the beginning of this year. Much of this has been attributed to annexation of districts which have immediately demanded the same standard of public service as the rest of the city.

There is still room for reduction in the payroll. There are many chances to combine positions in the city's numerous and heavily-manned inspection services. Meat, milk and food inspectors, a part of whom duplicate work by the state, might well be studied.

Then there are the other inspectors, including wiring, building, warm air heating, plumbing, sanitary, elevator and public works inspectors.

In the parks and conservatories, the North Side market house, and the public libraries there are opportunities for good management to relieve the taxpayer of a burden which is too heavy for him.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Mr. Coolidge's excuse for not going to the White House to attend the notification ceremony is that it "would irritate his hay fever." Now Plymouth Notch, Vermont, where Mr. Coolidge's old home is, and where he is now, is right in the middle of a hay field. And there hasent been any hay cut in Washington, D. C., since October twenty-nine.

Will Rogers

These politicians, if they ain't a lot of prima donnas! Senator Dickinson, the Republican keynote speaker, accuses Roosevelt of being a bad sport by holding the Mayor Walker investigation on the same day of notification. "Now don't you have your party on the same day I have my party, for that will split the newspaper space." I suppose if a war or an earthquake showed up on that day, Dickinson would claim it was a Democratic trick.

Yours, WILL.

FIREMEN VOTE ON OFFICERS

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 10—(AP.)—Officers of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association were to be elected today at the thirty-ninth annual convention of the organization.

Ferdinand C. Erk, of Vandergrift, and W. L. Lewis, of Masontown were nominees for the presidency to succeed Marvin Cooke, of Sharpsburg.

Three vice-president were selected among Charles Stack, of East Pittsburgh; Elmer H. Schmidt, of Mount Oliver; Walter J. Fennell, of Verona, and Jesse G. Humes, of Tarentum.

Failure of any city to ask for the 1933 convention forced postponement of selection until the January meeting of the board of control.

New Kensington and Monessen will meet late in the day in a baseball game.

Sessions opened yesterday with 900 delegates in attendance.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The death yesterday of James Alexander from burns brought to four the fatalities resulting from a terrific explosion in a near north side restaurant Monday night.

ONE BELIEVED WOUNDED IN FLIGHT

Gunplay in Greentree Climaxes Holdup Wave in District

A hail of lead sped the flight of four bandits as they fled from the Keystone Barbecue, Noblestown road and Poplar street, Greentree, early today, after looting two cash registers of $70.

One of the bandits was probably wounded, J. P. Young, 38, of 37 Hawthorne street, Crafton, the owner, told police.

The gunplay climaxed another night of banditry, during which a McKeesport-Wilmerding street car, the East Liberty branch of the Western Union Telegraph Company and a Carrick restaurant were robbed in spectacular holdups.

'CUSTOMER' IS GUNMAN

Young told police he and his wife, Leila, were in the barbecue shortly after last midnight when three of the men entered and asked for soft drinks. He turned to serve them, he said, when one of them drew a gun and said:

"Stick 'em up, you two."

Young said:

"Two of them pointed guns at my wife and myself while the third rifled two cash drawers of more than $70. Then they searched me. One of them asked if I had a gun and I told him I hadn't. He warned us not to make an outcry and not to move for five minutes. Then they left. A fourth man waited outside in an automobile.

"When they got outside, I threw the light switch and dived behind the counter for my gun. I fired several shots at them through the window. I heard one of them scream as they sped away. I'm sure I hit him."

TROLLEY HOLDUP

A lone "fare" on a McKeesport-Wilmerding street car forced the motorman to stop the car and extinguish the lights at the foot of the East McKeesport hill, where he roobed him of $23, his coat, cap and badge and fled with a waiting companion after disabling the car.

Edwin A. Jones, the motorman, of 2210 Beaver street, McKeesport, told police the bandit fled withe the controller handle of the car.

An armed thug obtained $250 in the holdup of the East End Western Union office, at 114 North Highland avenue.

Russell Lydeck, of 1114 Greenfield avenue, the lone clerk, told police he believed the thug to be the same man who held up the office several months ago.

Lining up three employes and a customer, two bandits held up the Carrick Lunch, Brownsville road and Carrick avenue, Carrick, and escaped with $65 in an automobile parked in front of the restaurant.

The bandits forced W. P. Frietshoser, of 830 Rail street, the customer and owner of the machine to give them the keys.

When Mrs. Elva Montgomery returned from a week-end trip she discovered that her home at 822 Mifflin street, Hays, had been entered and a jewel case and its contents valued at $600 stolen, she reported to police today.

'Give Us Beer' And Law Won't Cost a Dime

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech will be a neat blend of the shadow and the substance.

He will smooth down the drys with a blast against the saloon. He mixes up a little sauce for the gander by telling the wets they can vote another amendment.

Seems that we have enough amendments now. We know that there are two sides to every question because Mr. Hoover always takes them both.

Running with the hare and hunting with the dogs seems to be a successful career in American politics. You can hardly blame the boys when you figure that the most decisive stand ever taken was by the wooden Indians in front of cigar stores.

The eminent statesmen of today can straddle a situation that a kangaroo couldn't jump.

We favor the Democratic plank as being the most economical.

Give the public the right to drink beer and we will guarantee it won't cost a dime for enforcement.

PAYMENT OF TAXES SAVES COW

Destitute Family Saved as Lien Is Lifted

George Gregor is satisfied: his cow is still in the back yard. He explained:

"When my son got home last night, he drank two gallons of milk; so, you see, we need that cow."

Gregor has been out of work 25 months and sick a large part of the time. That's why he couldn't pay his taxes and the county took a lien on his cow. But Gregor said:

"This is a very good country to help people. The Welfare Association has kept my family, me, a brother, wife, and six kids alive. They gave me time to pay. It was $6.30. Now the cow is saved."

Several years ago Gregor, who was a steelworker, had two cows; and some time prior had nine.

COUNCIL AIRS FINANCES AT WEST VIEW

West View Borough Council today had turned itself into a veritable "question and answer" department, with the reading at last night's session of the answers to a list of questions concerning the recent borough audit and the account of the late borough treasurer, Harry J. Wagner. The questions were put to the borough heads at a Council meeting July 26, by the Citizens' Civic League.

But the answers were not given until Council took the Civic League to task for changing its written list of questions from the original verbal questions asked at the previous meeting.

The question, "Where is the Liberty Bond?" is one that will have to go unanswered, at least until Council finds out. That body's answer to this question read:

"Council does not know where the Liberty bond is at the present time. Bond probably disappeared after the 1930 audit. The solicitor, with the auditors, have been instructed to take necessary legal action to protect the borough's interest."

Another question, concerning the cost of the present borough audit, brought the answer that the Council was unable to give the cost, at present, but gave assurance that records for any audit could be furnished at any time.

FUNDS ON DEPOSIT

Regarding the location of sinking funds "that should be in the bank to pay for bonds due this year," Council advised that the funds were on deposit in the Allegheny Trust Company, but that there are no borough bonds maturing in 1932.

The Council denied the implied accusation of the civic group that the late treasurer's bond had been reduced from $10,000 to $1,000, with this answer:

"According to the borough records the Treasurer has, to 1932, been bonded for $1,000."

Earl Jones, chairman of the civic organization, was not present at last night's meeting to receive the answers to the questions which he submitted.

MRS. CARAWAY NOMINATED

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Senator Hattie W. Caraway, of Jonesboro, and Chancellor J. Marion Futrell, of Paragould, appeared today to have the Democratic nominations for Senator and Governor, respectively, within their grasp on the basis of returns from almost half the precincts in the state.

Mrs. Caraway, the first woman ever to occupy a seat in the United States Senate through an election, had more than a two-to-one lead over the nearest one of her six male rivals. Maj. O. L. Bodenhamer, of El Dorado, past national commander of the American Legion, was running second.

Mrs. Caraway, retiring early last night after finishing perhaps the most spectacular campaign Arkansas has ever seen, in which she toured the state for a week with the colorful Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, and his musical sound trucks, soon found it difficult to sleep as friends called her to tell her of her rapidly swelling plurality. Today, as she rested with friends at Hot Springs, she expressed gratification over her apparent victory.

Texas G. O. P. Picks Lawyer for Governor

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls lawyer, was chosen by Texas Republicans in state convention yesterday as their nominee for governor.

BOARD MEETING ON HOME BANKS

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The Home Loan Bank Board, of which William E. Best, of Pittsburgh, is a member, adjourned its first meeting late yesterday without arriving at any conclusion as to when to announce its policy with regard to the location of the eight to twelve member banks which are to be established in an equal number of districts throughout the country.

After interviewing President Hoover, the board retired to a private club, and spent the afternoon in discussing various plans advanced by its members for effecting a workable organization with all possible expediency.

Mr. Best and Morton H. Bodfish, the Chicago member of the board, were the last of the five members to arrive in Washington. They attended a press conference called by Chairman Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, but offered no comment upon the probable methods of organization.

Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus already have made their bids for one of the banks. Indianapolis, Ind., also is making a strong bid.

Representative Campbell (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, urged the newly installed Home Loan Bank board to establish one of its district banks in Pittsburgh.

Mistaken Identity In Lindbergh Bills

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A check of figures represented as the serial numbers of American bills deposited at Albert, N. B., and at first thought to correspond with ransom money in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, disclosed today that they did not appear on the list furnished Canadian banks.

Plan Camping Trip, Man Fatally Shot

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—They were planning a camping trip, and John Shakley, 52, of Parker, tossed a pistol to one of his guests. The weapon slipped from the other's fingers and discharged. Shakley fell dead, shot through the heart.

Girl, Afraid to Go Home, Fools Police

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Little Marie wasn't playing pranks on the police after all—she was afraid to go home.

The police drove Marie, eight years old and blonde, around the city half the night, stopping at various addresses which she gave as her home. Each time they were wrong, she giggled.

Finally the police became disgusted and took her to the juvenile detention home. They had found her all alone on a street corner at 2:30 a. m. and she rode with them for two hours.

At the home, a nurse gave her a bath and found Marie's back black and blue from beatings. "Who did that?" the nurse asked. The child replied, "Mamma did. That's why I don't want to go home."

Candy, coaxing and toys wouldn't make Marie tell her true address. The detention home was too nice a place to stay.

STABBING LAID TO EX-OFFICER

Twelve men, including a former policeman, were arrested by police who raided a house at 3110 Dobson street, after Edward J. Touluse, 25, of 259 Semple street, had been stabbed in the abdomen during a party in the house.

Mike Olekszek, 29, a former policeman of 350 Harmar street, is accused of stabbing Toulus. John Brozenski, 40, is said to be the owner of the house. The others under arrest were guests at the party.

MILLER LOSES MUSIC SUIT

Three New York music publishing concerns yesterday in the Federal District Court were awarded damages of $250 each against Zack T. Miller, formerly of the 101 Ranch Wild West Show, because of popular musical numbers played at a show performance in Greensburg, July 2, 1931, without permission of the copyright owners.

The musical numbers named in bills of complaints filed by the publishers and copyright owners, Leo Feist, Inc.; DeSylva, Brown and Henderson, and Edward B. Marks Music Company, were "I'll Be Blue Just Thinking of You;" "Walking My Baby Back Home," and "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes."

In decrees handed down by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker the court allowed each of the publishing concerns $100 attorney fees against Miller, and also assessed the latter with court costs.

WEIR VISIONS BUSINESS REVIVAL

The United States is on the upward path toward normality, in the opinion of President E. T. Weir, of the National Steel Company, only major steel corporation to show consistent profits throughout the depression.

Cool in his shirt sleeves, balanced precariously in his desk chair on the twenty-eighth floor of the Grant Building, Weir delivered himself on the subject of business conditions:

"The improvement in fundamental conditions seems to justify the feeling that the worst of the depression is past.

STOCKS TO LEAD

"As I see it, the first step in the come-back must be the improvement in security prices. That is the improvement we've seen in the past few days.

"Whether security prices have gone too high at first, or not, is another matter. Some men say they have.

"Following that first step, an improvement in public psychology should come. That's already apparent. Bankers must become more liberal with their loans, business men must be more confident in investments. The public will begin to buy and the circulation of its money will result in further purchases."

Weir expressed his confidence that the upturn in security prices is due to actual increase in confidence. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, he says, has undoubtedly contributed to this confidence, although it is not yet functioning.

INVENTORIES LOW

Groundwork of his predictions he cites:

"Inventories in finished products all over the country are practically nil. They are at the lowest ebb any of us ever remember.

"Automobiles are wearing out. Railroads, even at their present curtailed scale of operations, have not been maintaining their properties as they should. Even steel companies and factories have been neglecting depreciation of their properties. That means they must buy soon.

"Europe is in a better frame of mind these days, I think, than it has been for a long time.

"All conditions seem to point to a gradual upturn. We should be able to tell about the middle of September. I certainly hope so."

INSPECTOR URBAN E. DICE EXAMINING CONFISCATED SCALES

72,228 Inspections Made by County Agents

Urban E. Dice, chief director of the County Weights and Measures Department, displayed a large number of confiscated packing, weighing, and measuring devices in his office today. These were a small part of those confiscated from 72,228 inspections made throughout the county. As well as on faulty devices, informations had been made on short weight, unmarked packages, short measures on coal, gasoline and oil. Dice said:

"Often faulty observances, found and corrected, prove to be a matter of ignorance on the merchant's part; here the inspectors have obviously done a great service to both merchant and consumer.

"Whenever we receive a complaint on such matters, and we do frequently, inspection is made as soon as possible. The public, I feel, can help materially to secure proper weights and measures by giving the necessary attention to the matter. This department has clarified by actual help and instruction, as well as example, many losses to the public."

A fine of $25 is imposed for a first offense with illegal measuring or weighing devices; after that the amount is increased rapidly.

DELIVER CARS TO LEGION

Twelve Chevrolet cars, painted white, with the insigna of the American Legion on the doors, were turned over by the Chevrolet Dealers Association of Allegheny County to officers of the Legion, last night at the Grand street entrance of the William Penn Hotel.

The cars will be used during the state convention of the Legion, in Pittsburgh, August 18 to 20.

Firemen Called as Sprinklers Break

North Side firemen were called out early today when the sprinkler system bursted in the plant of the National Mattress Manufacturing Company, 1212 Madison avenue. The cause of the break in the line was not determined.

$95,000 ASKED IN CRASH SUIT

Four suits seeking damages aggregating $95,000 were filed in Federal Court yesterday by seven residents of Youngstown, O., against Harrison-Shields, Inc., a Pittsburgh trucking concern. The actions grew out of an automobile accident July 10, 1931, on the Washington road, at the intersection of the Castle Shannon road.

Helen Belcher, 31, filed a suit for $25,000; Ida M. and Thomas E. Belcher, one for $25,000 and $15,000, respectively; Mildred E. and Charles J. Reitzel, $10,000 and $5,000 respectively, and Gladys and Joseph H. Eaton, $10,000 and $5,000, respectively.

The statements of claim set forth that Helen Belcher was operating an automobile, in which the other three women were passengers, when it was struck and overturned by a truck of the defendant concern. Each of the four women cited injuries sustained and three of them were joined in the suits by their husbands.

Chicago Fountain Flows When Spoken to CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Chicago has a new kind of speakeasy, but it's o. k. with the prohibition enforcement officials.

This is because it gives off nothing more potent than pure water.

It's a fountain, donated to one neighborhood by a laundry, and it operates on the photo-electric cell principle.

All you need to do is walk up to it, speak a word or two softly, and the water begins to flow from a jet.

Deaths in Traffic Show Decline Here

Deaths from traffic accidents in Pittsburgh continued to show a decline during July, City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre announced today. This is the third successive month a decline has been recorded, he said, and brings a drop of 26 per cent for the first seven months of the year as compared to the same period last year.

Since the first of this year 14 children have been killed, as compared to 19 in the same period last year, and 60 adults, as compared with 81 last year.

CLASH AT PITT ON 'HAPPINESS'

The word "happiness" has created an issue between two University of Pittsburgh faculty members.

Dr. Manuel C. Elmer, professor and head of the department of sociology, maintains that it can be defined, while Thyrsa Amos, dean of women, takes the opposite view. She said:

"Happiness is an elusive word. Attempts have been made to define it, but it really cannot be defined."

Dr. Elmer defines the word thus:

"Happiness is a position of feeling that your objective has been arrived at. When we reach the point we are aiming at then we are happy."

Dean Amos would not agree with the sociology head's definition. She said:

"Dr. Elmer's definition defines satisfaction and not happiness."

FLAMES PERIL ROSES IN PARK

A grass fire in Schenley Park near the Beeler street entrance, threatened the roses before it was extinguished late yesterday. The fire swept two acres of park property.

Fire damaged the basement of the home of H. J. Shapiro, at 5813 Phillips avenue, early today. The blaze was discovered by a neighbor. Members of the household were said by firemen to be on vacation in Atlantic City.

Lost, Aged Woman Returned to Home

Wandering in Perrysville avenue yesterday, Mrs. Agnes Liber, 75, was taken to North Side Police Station. Police searched for several hours and found the woman's son who told them her home was in Mt. Troy road.

PIRATE CHIEF OPTIMISTIC

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Question of Heart Now.
First Blank Since April.
Hornsby Denies Signals.
Grimm's Liberal Policy.
Real Test of Leonard.
Reflections of Thorpe.

BUC CHANCES AT STAKE ON COURAGE

IT'S A QUESTION of courage with the Pirates now. Manager George Gibson's job at this stage is to keep up the morale of the club and prevent his men from losing heart and folding up completely after their long run of adversity. It's when a crisis like the present one is reached, when it has its back to the wall and is on the verge of being pushed out of first place, that a game club shows its mettle and turns in to fight with renewed and increased vigor. It's in the same situation that a club lacking the right fighting qualities and never-give-up spirit generally sinks. The Bucs have yet to show to which class they belong, but until they have actually fallen apart there is no reason to doubt their gameness. There's still plenty of pennant hope if they show the right heart.

George Gibson

One bit of evidence demonstrating that the Rovers have been a real fighting club all through the hot race is contained in the fact that when Huck Betts shut them out yesterday for their tenth straight defeat it marked the first time since April 18 and only the third time this season they were kept from scoring. Silas Johnson and Ray Kolp blanked them in Cincinnati April 16 and 18, 5 to 0. In the meantime the Bucs went through 99 straight games without being shut out, a club with such power is not yet to be figured as done.

THE RECENT EXPERIENCE of Tom Bridges, Detroit pitcher, in missing a no-hit game through being nicked for a single after he had hurled hitless ball until two men were out in the ninth inning, had a parallel at Forbes Field 18 years ago, with Jeff Tesreau, then pitching for the Giants, as the victim. Opposing Wilbur Cooper on Saturday, May 16, 1914, Tesreau held a 2-to-0 lead and had not allowed a hit when the Pirates went to bat for the last half of the ninth inning.

Tesreau started that game by striking out the first four men, and of the first 22 Pittsburgh batters not one reached the initial sack. Then Jimmy Viox got a base on balls, but Tesreau braced immediately and retired the side. In the ninth, Jeff quickly disposed of Eddie Mensor and Ham Hyatt, pinch-hitting for George Gibson and Cooper, and a no-hit game appeared certain, when Joe Kelly, young Pirate centerfielder, stepped up and ruined it all by bouncing a single over second base.

THE FAILURE OF Rogers Hornsby to get into playing condition this year is explained by the deposed Cub leader as having been due to his desire to spend the spring training period teaching the young players the inside game as he had learned it under Miller Huggins and John McGraw.

Hornsby admits that he had his shortcomings as a manager, but declares he always gave the best he had. He repeats his denial that the failure of the Bruins to make a better showing this year was due to his calling the pitches.

"THERE WAS NO ground for what has been said on that subject," Hornsby says. "The fact is that I stopped calling the pitches to the various pitchers after the first six weeks of the season. Only in the case of young Warneke I kept on signaling what should be thrown. I know what the National League batters like to hit, and I know what sort of pitches bother them, so I felt that I had a right to tell Warneke what to do, inasmuch as he had not been in the league long enough to acquire that knowledge himself. Warneke's record, in my opinion, proves that the system was successful. But I was not signaling the others, as has been charged. They wanted me to quit calling the pitches as John McGraw used to do, so I stopped after the first six weeks."

Charley Grimm

THE FIRST APPEARANCE of Charley Grimm as a manager before his old Pittsburgh friends will be made when the Cubs play their final local game of the season at Forbes Field tomorrow. Master-minding is out, as far as Grimm in concerned. He says a pitcher ought to know enough to pitch his own game and a hitter usually is better off without undue interference.

Only when an unusual situation arises will Grimm give the hitter a sign. He says he can't see the sense of bothering a man who has enough on his mind up there anyhow. "Assert your authority when it isn't necessary," he adds, "and you can't when it is." Which leads one veteran to remark that he has known philosophers who took a great deal longer to say a great deal less.

TRAPSHOOTERS OF THE country are to honor the memory of John Philip Sousa, famous bandmaster and march king, who died last winter, and who was a clay-bird enthusiast for many years, participating in numerous big tournaments and serving for a time as president of the governing target-shooting body.

A trophy in the form of a silver cup, bearing Sousa's name, will be put up for competition when the Grand American Handicap is held next year, and the shoot for the cup will be made an annual fixture.

TONIGHT YOU MAY learn the truth about Benny Leonard and his possibilities. The former lightweight champion is to meet Paulie Walker in a 10-round bout at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, and though Walker is by no means a champion he is crafty and carries a punch, and in a general sense ranks high enough to make the contest surpass in importance any other in which Leonard has appeared since he began his comeback campaign. That Benny feels equal to the contract there is no doubt. If he didn't, he wouldn't be in there. A victory over Walker won't assure Benny's reaching the title heights again, but at least it will demonstrate that he has made a better job of his comeback attempt than was believed possible when he started it.

FAR BACK AS Leonard drifted during his long stay in retirement, the make-up of the bill for tonight's Brooklyn show would appear to indicate that he is still a better drawing card than another former champion who was a topliner only a few months ago.

The case of Battling Battalino shows how quickly the mighty can tumble in the fight game. Until recently featherweight champion, Battalino has dropped as an attraction to such an extent, following four defeats at the hands of the Petrolle brothers, that he has to be content with a semi-final role tonight, meeting Billy Townsend.

OLD-TIMERS AT THE Olympic Games have wondered what Jim Thorpe was thinking about while he sat in at Los Angeles as a mere spectator last week, watching lesser men battle for Olympic championships.

Jim Thorpe

Thorpe, the greatest athlete of them all in his day, was stripped of the laurels he won at Stockholm in 1912 because it was discovered he had received a few dollars for playing baseball during the vacation period at Carlisle Indian School.

POSSIBLY JIM SAW, and knew it when he was looking at them, men who played summer baseball without penalty, and others in comparison with whose financial returns from padded expense accounts and what not, the puny pay that caused him to be ruled out as a professional 20 years ago was a mere piker sum. But they can't erase the fact that Thorpe was the greatest all-around athlete that ever lived, regardless of the record books that refuse to print his name. He won both the decathlon and pentathlon in 1912. No man had ever won both events before, and no man has ever won them since.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Chances that the string of record-breaking performances which marked the first four days of the tenth Olympics might be broken, were slim today as the swimming carnival passed the halfway mark.

Every Olympic record approached by the wayfarers of the waterways has been shattered, and the stern competition of the fifth day gave no indication of a letup. Three world records also have been left in the wake of the competitors.

Japan, with three finalists in the men's 400-meter free style race, the chief event on today's program, as compared with one for the United States, apparently stood in a strategic position to move into the masculine team lead. The Nipponese trailed by only four points after yesterday's great triumph in the 800-meter relay.

YOKOYAMA FAVORITE

Takashi Yokoyama, who twice has broken the 400-meter mark in the competition, was favored over Jean Taris, of France; Andrew (Boy) Charlton, Australia, and Clarence Crabbe, United States, on the basis of his Olympic record of 4:51.4 set yesterday.

Not content with swimming his second heat of the 400 meters in record time, the Nipponese star swam anchor on the 800-meter relay team which cut 38.2 seconds off the 1928 Olympic record set by the United States.

Yokoyama stood off Manuella Kalili's late rush for the United States, to win by five meters in 8:58.4.

Meanwhile the feminine stars cracked the world's best marks. Eleanor Holm, American girl, who gave the Follies a fleeting fling, won her way to the finals of the 100-meter backstroke, skimming by both Olympic and world's marks in 1:18.3.

Then Clare Dennis, a 14-year-

BUCCO CHANCES FOR PENNANT STILL GOOD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, was back home today after accompanying the Pirates through most of their eastern invasion. Arriving from Boston with Benswanger was Steve Swetonic, who is slated to face the Chicago Cubs tomorrow at Forbes Field.

Neither Benswanger nor Swetonic was discouraged over the run of misfortune which the Buccos encountered in the past 10 days. Moreover, the rank and file of the team also has a good morale, according to the club prexy.

PREXY OPTIMISTIC

Discussing the situation in general, Benswanger said:

"At no time during the season have I said that the Pirates would win the pennant. I think it is foolish for anyone to claim a flag when the teams are so evenly balanced as they are this year. But I do say, without reservation, that the Pittsburgh team's chances for landing on top are as good as those of any team in the league.

"Before I left Boston, I talked to the players. I reminded them that at one time this year we dropped 10 out of 11 games and landed on the bottom. In the present slump we lost 10 in succession and were still on the top. We made a comeback before and we ought to be able to do it again. The spirit of the team is fine, the trouble being that many of the boys have tightened up. Gibby has been trying to get them to relax.

"Our slump came as a result of the great strain experienced in the series with the Giants. The boys were all down in Philadelphia. In Brooklyn they could not get a break and in the second game of the double-header in Boston Sunday it was nothing else other than bad breaks that licked us."

"The baseball men and critics of the East appear to think that the Pirates are the best ball club. We are still in a fine position and we are hoping the team will find a better stride."

BRAVES BLANK PIRATES

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Huck Betts held the Pirates to four hits yesterday as the Braves handed the Bucks their tenth straight defeat. The score was 4 to 0.

Remy Kremer traded punches with Betts at the start of the battle, but the big Frenchman failed to hold the home hitters. The Braves solved Kremer in the second for two runs and they were cutting up generally and none was out when Bill Harris went to the slab.

A fine piece of pitching on the part of Harris through six rounds was nothing more than a wasted effort. Bill held the Braves to one lone hit in the six rounds, but his mates couldn't do a thing with Betts. With Spencer pitching in the eighth, the Braves added another tally.

Paul Waner's forty-fourth double of the season was one of the high spots of the game.

Reading Captures State Legion Title

YORK, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A perfect squeeze play in the eleventh inning provided the winning run last evening and gave Reading the American Legion junior baseball championship over Hellertown. The score was 4 to 3.

Reading will represent Pennsylvania in the tenth regional championships at Cumberland, Md., beginning next Monday. The region is composed of Maryland, the District of Columbia, West Virginia, Delaware and Pennsylvania. The score by innings:

Hellertown 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—3 8 5

MADDEN LOSES AT CULVER

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Frank Parker, of Milwaukee, had yet to lose a single game in his pursuit of the national junior singles tennis title as the field went into the fourth round today.

The sensational youngster dropped only 13 points in defeating Gerard Phipps, of Denver, 6-0, 6-0. Marco Hecht, of New York, and Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, another pair of seeded stars, progressed without much difficulty.

Bob Madden, of Pittsburgh, was put out in the third round of the boys' competition by Don Leavens, of Mosinee, Wis., 6-3, 7-5.

Three U. S. Golfers In Canuck Amateur

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Three Americans and 13 Canadians filled second round match play brackets in the Canadian amateur golf championship today.

The American survivors of first round play were Will Gunn, Jr., Wallingford, Pa.; F. W. Ryan, Detroit, and J. Rydolek, Buffalo. Gunn defeated the only other American who qualified, H. H. Newton, of New York, 4 and 2, in the opening round yesterday.

St. Clair Golfer Scores Hole in One

A. A. Wagner, playing with E. F. Kunde, James Fulton and C. R. Dabney, all members of the St. Clair Country Club, scored a hole in one on the fourth hole of his home course yesterday.

The hole measures 185 yards and Wagner made the shot with a No. 3 iron.

Minnesota Plans Football Broadcasts

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Football games at the University of Minnesota next fall will be broadcast by radio unless Big Ten officials take action to bar the contests from the air in hopes for higher gate patronage.

SPORT VIGNETTES

With everything else topsy-turvy, maybe the Pirates are trying to win the pennant by losing games . . . Woody Jensen, Pirate recruit, is helping Manager Al Mamaux to win the first International League pennant for Newark in more than 20 years . . . Eddie Phillips, Pirate catcher last year, also is in the Newark ensemble, after having been borrowed by the Yankees to help out during the banishment of Bill Dickey.

"If you want bass, watch your approach." This is the advice of an old-timer who knows his fly-casting. He adds: "Eagerness to cast a lure into a hole where you know a bass lives often loses the fish. Nothing causes the bass to move out of the hole more quickly than too much splashing about. A shadow also is the high sign for the bass to move on. Fish with your shadow behind you, or, better, in the shade."

Mae Artman, who finished second to Arvella Leathers, her Willows Pool teammate, in the 50-yard novice free style event for women at Beaver Falls last Saturday, is the daughter of Eddie Artman, former star semi-pro baseball pitcher hereabouts . . . Incidentally, seven of the Willows swimmers hail from Wall, Pa. They are, in addition to Misses Artman and Leathers, Kate Bryan, Ann Bryan, Betty Makara, Maretta Croft and Marjorie Douds . . . With the exception of Kate Bryan, all range from 12 to 15 years of age.

Rip Van Winkle could come back to a boxing ringside these nights and hardly know that he had been asleep, for, performing again after long layoffs, are such notables as Benny Leonard, Harry Wills, Soldier Bartfield and Bobby Garcia . . . Tommy Grant, of Rankin, timer at the local boxing shows, is the former manager of Grant (Kid) Clark, of McKees Rocks, daddy-in-law of Charley Baxter, the lightweight boxer . . . The Kid fought Harry Greb, George Chip, Bob Moha and others in his prime.

Earl Sheely, former Pirates, Boston Braves and Chicago White Sox first baseman, recently was given his unconditional release by the Los Angeles Club, of the Pacific Coast League because of his failure to hit, the same reason that was responsible for his departure from the big tent . . . And Fred Shellenbach, veteran pitcher of the Hollywood Club, in the Coast League, set up some sort of a record when he finished 23 of his first 24 games this season, with a record of 17 victories against seven defeats.

Bill Jeffrey, former local star, now the Penn State coach, recently concluded a coaching school at State College which may have a far-reaching effect . . . He had 13 pupils, made up of a dozen representatives of counties in the state and one from Maryland, all bent upon absorbing the fine points of the game that will help them to develop soccer in their home districts . . . One of the men returned to Wayne County to organize a league among 13 high schools. Others will boom the sport in Union, Berks, Lebanon and Northumberland counties . . . This, incidentally, is said to have been the first soccer coaching school ever conducted in this country.—HARRY KECK.

At Newark, N. J.—Abie Bain defeated Freddie Fiducia, 10 rounds.

At Brisbane, Australia—Young Stribling won by technical knockout over Jack Renault, 3 rounds.

KNOCKOUT BLOW FOR RETZLAFF

By HYPE IGOE
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Without those iodine freckles with which I suggested they paint Isadoro Gastanaga before calling him a new Bob Fitzsimmons, Izzy up and makes himself famous overnight.

Isadoro Gastanaga

He knocked out Charley Retzlaff in 2:43 of the first round at the Queensboro Stadium last night. He floored the Duluth farmer three times before he finally left him on the floor in a London fog.

Hit! There hasn't been any such punching around New York since the great ruby Fitz himself went off into the purple shadows.

Besides being knocked out for the first time in his ring career, Retzlaff, in the short space of time they were throwing depth bombs at each other, suffered a deep cut over his left cheek bone.

A left hook to the jaw sent Retzlaff down in a mystic maze for "nine" almost before the sound of the opening bell had died away.

He was down again for four from a right and then a left and right sent him down for the full count—and a new heavyweight sensation had arrived.

Dodgers Purchase Memphis Pitcher

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Sale of Walter Beck, pitcher, to Brooklyn, was announced today by President Tom Watkins, of the Memphis Club, of the Southern Association. Beck will not be delivered until the end of the season, however, Watkins declared. Beck, a righthander, has won 21 games for Memphis this year.

U. S. OARSMEN DEFEATED IN OLYMPIC ROWING TRIALS

GOLDEN BEARS CARRY HOPES OF YANKS

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—This was "dreadnaught day" in the Olympic naval battle, with the University of California's powerful, undefeated crew a favorite to defend America's eight-oared championship despite unusually strong competition.

After three straight setbacks for the United States in the first day's engagements among smaller craft, the big California battleship was relied upon to fire a broadside to offset these reversals.

The Americans had a fight on their hands with the formidable Canadian crew, besides the eights of Germany and New Zealand, to contend with in the first trials. Under conditions that send only the winner into the finals on Saturday without further argument, the U. S. eight figured to "shoot the works" along the 2,000-meter straightaway.

Victory today would ease the Californians' fight to retain the title won by another Golden Bear boatload four years ago.

CAMBRIDGE IS RIVAL

The Americans' most serious opposition otherwise figured to come from the Cambridge University crew, representing Great Britain, a top-heavy choice to beat Japan, Italy and Brazil in today's second heat.

There's a second chance, however, for all the crews beaten in their first Olympic tests under a "re-classification" system, designed to get the four best entries into the finals for each event. The winner of each first preliminary and the winner of each of two subsequent trials gets into the finals.

This system offers a fresh chance tomorrow for Bill Miller, national sculling champion, and the other Philadelphia oarsmen defeated yesterday.

Miller, despite a gallant effort, trailed a length behind Bobby Pearce, the famous Australian sculler and Olympic champion. Pearce exhibited the finest combination of skill and power of the day in negotiating the 2,000 meters in 7 minutes 27 seconds. He is a top-heavy favorite to keep the sculling title, especially as one of his main rivals, Herbert Buhtz, of Germany, diamond sculls winner, withdrew because of illness.

SOUTHWOOD WINNER

Leslie (Dick) Southwood, of Great Britain, joined Pearce in qualifying for the finals by overhauling Guillermo Douglas, of Uruguay, in an exciting finish to win by a length in 7:42 3-5. The surprise of this race was Joe Wright, Jr., the Canadian star, who trailed Douglas by about 15 lengths. Wright, Douglas and Miller will contest for the other two places in the finals.

Poland's husky oarsmen handed the Americans their other two setbacks, beating the Penn A. C., four, with coxswain, in a race in which Japan was last, and then scoring decisively over the feather-weight Clark twins, Gene and Tom, in the pair-oared event, without coxswain. These Philadelphia boys were no match for their heavier rivals, trailing in third place, behind France as well as Poland.

Italy's champion four-oared boat, with coxswain, defeated Germany, New Zealand and Brazil, in that order, while Great Britain's pair-oared entry disposed of New Zealand and Holland, in the other races.

Pairings Revised For Amateur Test

The revised list of pairings and starting times for the qualifying round next Tuesday for the National Amateur golf tournament at the Oakmont Country Club to select six players for the title play at Baltimore next month follows:

STRIB STOPS RENAULT

BRISBANE, Australia, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon (Ga.) heavyweight, battered Jack Renault, of Canada, so mercilessly tonight that the referee halted their scheduled 15-round bout in the fifth round. Stribling almost severed one of Renault's ears with his punching and had him retreating from the start. The fight was the second of Stribling's Australian tour.

WILL WIN CUP—VINES

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The United States will win the Davis Cup from France next year, Ellsworth Vines, Jr., star of the American team, said so today upon the team's return from France, where it was beaten, 3-2, in the challenge round. Vines said he played as good tennis in losing to Jean Borotra as he did in defeating Henri Cochet, "but Borotra had one of his best days."

STARS SUSPENDED

Announcement is made by the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. that a group of athletes have been suspended from membership for having participated in the Scottish Clans' picnic games at Kennywood Park last Saturday. They are George Chermsaitz, Louis Perscenyi, R. C. Colcasser and John Smoyer. The meet was unsanctioned by the A. A. U.

COCHET IN DOUBLES

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The entry of Henri Cochet, foremost amateur tennis player in the world, in the national doubles championship tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club, has been received. Play begins August 22.

Baxter Has Incentives

CHARLEY, JR.

MRS. BAXTER CHARLEY BAXTER

Twenty-year-old Charley Baxter, local lightweight boxer, has two strong incentives to win his district championship battle with Battling Gizzy at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night. They are his young wife and 18-months-old son, shown with him above in a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture. Mrs. Baxter is the daughter of Grant (Kid) Clark, a middleweight boxer of note a decade and a half ago.

OLYMPIAN DOES A 'SHARKEY'

By JACK LAIT

International News Service.
(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—Probably the only welterweight boxer in the Olympic entries who could have eliminated Alberto Romero, of Mexico, did that thing in the final bout last night — Romero, himself. He pulled a perfect Jack Sharkey. After he had outclassed David E. McCleave, of England, in everything but gameness, he fouled the plucky Limey, who was awarded the decision while he was being carried out unconscious, draped over the shoulder of his second.

It was the most thrilling event of the 11 three-rounders. Romero, a stocky cave-man, pompadoured and ferocious, with a great left and a hot right, had knocked McCleave down in the second round twice; there is no timekeeper's count in these contests, but I counted four over McCleave the first time and eight the second, and it seemed incredible that he could rise after that second wallop to the canvas. But he did, amidst cheers, and not only stood up, but fought with more than anyone thought he had.

He was far outclassed. The crowd was for him. For the final round, he came out coming in. Romero measured him and let fly that wicked left. It caught the Britisher just below the belt. He crumpled. Rolled over and lay stone cold. He was out. Romero helped lift him and carry him to his stool, where he slumped off in a limp lump. They picked him up and toted him out. The judges huddled. Then they ruled—McCleave, winner, foul. The decision was just—just too bad. McCleave won't go far. Romero probably will turn professional now sooner than he intended to.

A complete list of results:

118-pound class—Joe Lang, U. S. A., decisioned Sabino Tirado, Mexico; C. A. Pereya, Argentina, decisioned Patrick Hughes, Ireland.

125-pound class—Gaston Mayor, France, decisioned Manuel Ponce, Mexico; Marino Bianchini, Italy, decisioned Robert Purdie, New Zealand; Frank Genovese, Canada, decisioned Edward Vargas, Argentina; Franz Karts, Germany, decisioned Otsu S. Ko, Japan; Lawrence Stevens, Jr., South Africa, decisioned Joe Padilla, Jr., Philippines.

147-pound class—Ed Flynn, U. S. A., decisioned Luis Sardella, Argentina; Robert Barton, South Africa, decisioned John Flood, Ireland; Lucian Leplace, France, decisioned Carlos Padilla, Philippines; D. E. McCleave, Great Britain, won on a foul over Albert Romero, Mexico.

126-pound class—Louis Salica, U. S. A., defeated John Callura, Canada.

P. G. A. EVENT CARDED TODAY AT ALCOMA

By TOM BIRKS

Two events are being disposed of on the local golfing calendar today.

The Pennsylvania State Golf Association is holding a one-day tournament at Alcoma and an invitation tournament for women is gracing the Valley Heights course.

A good-sized field was battling at Alcoma.

Local women players will have to be at their best if they hope to win the championship trophy that is being given by the Women's Golf Association of Philadelphia, for the state title. The eastern invasion will be headed by Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, and that name alone should make all of the low handicap shooters in this district put in many hours of practice. Any player with a handicap less than 28 will be eligible to compete in the state event. The secretary of the association, Mrs. E. G. Betz, Rumson, N. J., will receive entries no later than September 6. The tournament will be played at Oakmont September 12-16.

Al McBride, professional at South Park, and Jimmy McFarlane, pro at North Park, announced today that the playoff for the championship of the North and South parks will be over 36 holes. Mike James, representing South Park, and Aleck Shacoski, winner at North Park, will meet in the first 18 holes at South Park next Monday morning. The team matches will be played at the same time.

The second 18 holes will be played at North Park one week from Friday. After the county park individual team championships are concluded, the public links team from Schenley will be met.

Miss Lindsay Boyd, of Montour Heights, and Mrs. L. G. Riley, of Edgewood, shared honors for the low gross prize at the one-day tourney at Highland yesterday. Both grossed 94.

R. B. Greer, Jr., scored the low gross, 74, and W. H. Cogswell the low net, 71, in the first division of the sweepstakes at the Sons of the American Revolution golf tournament at Butler yesterday.

In the second division, H. R. Decker turned in the low net, 69, with W. R. McCommon and N. R. Crish, each 71 and H. H. Sargent, 72.

old youngster from Australia, won the 200-meter breaststroke final to send the Anaz banner up the victory mast.

Miss Dennis reduced her own Olympic record almost two seconds and eclipsed the world's recognized mark in paddling the distance in 3:06.3.

Water polo continued a thorn for the officials. After the Brazilian team had been disqualified for assaulting the referee, the American seven carried on hot verbal exchanges with A. Delahaye, referee, yesterday in a wild game with Germany, which ended in a 4 to 4 tie. Delahaye is from Belgium.

The women's springboard diving championship today figured to be an all-American contest with Georgia Coleman and Dorothy Poynton, California stars, and little Katherine Rawls, of Florida, the favorites.

Tunney Enacts Hero Role in Subway Fire

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight boxing champion, was a hero of the underground fire which trapped thousands of New York subway riders yesterday.

After some difficulty, Tunney forced open a door in one subway car in which frightened passengers were stalled with him. Then he placed a long subway seat from his train to another train parallel with it, and tried his own weight on the improvised bridge before permitting other passengers to follow him. The bridge crossed a third rail.

RING GOLIATHS BATTLE IN LOCAL ARENA

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Benny Leonard vs. Paulie Walker, Battling Battalino vs. Billy Townsend, Wesley Ramsey vs. Charley Raymond and Jack Redman vs. Pedro Lopez, 10 rounds each, Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

Jack Dempsey vs. Chet Shandel (ex-publican), 4 rounds, and Ah Wing Lee vs. Jose Hernandez, 6 rounds, Seattle.

George Manley vs. Fred Lenhart and Dan Frazier vs. Tiger Lee Paige, 6 rounds each, Spokane, Wash.

Ray Impellefierre vs. Jose Santa, 10 rounds, Oakland, Cal.

Ray Trancobia vs. Rud Sallis, 10 rounds, and Dick Shi vs. Jack Kane, 8 rounds, Chicago.

Bobby Leitham vs. Eugene Hunt, 10 rounds, Montreal.

Ad Zachow vs. Leo Lariver, 10 rounds, Boston.

Kid Chocolate vs. Johnny Farr (nontitle), 10 rounds, Cincinnati.

Two of the biggest heavyweights that ever squared off against each other in Pittsburgh will cross gloves in the main bout at Greenlee Field tomorrow night.

They are Arthur DeKuh, Italian giant, who stands 6 feet 4 inches in his tootsies and weighs 230 pounds, and Seal Harris, Chicago Negro, who weighs 235 and is almost as tall as his opponent.

Arthur DeKuh

DeKuh, who leaves after the bout here for an invasion of Australia, where he hopes to meet Young Stribling, now mopping up there, has been boxing in this country for eight years. He came over from Italy originally as a wrestler, being imported by Renato Gardini, himself a grappler, to meet Strangler Lewis. Failing to make the match, DeKuh turned to boxing and has been a mittman ever since.

HAS BOXED SHARKEY

Arthur has boxed Jack Sharkey, the present heavyweight champion; Ace Clark, Mateo Osa, Leo Gates, Big Bill Hartwell, Italian Jack Herman, Bud Gorman, George Cook, Emmett Rocco, Big Boy Peterson, Sergt. Jack Adams, Charley Anderson and Clem Johnson, among others.

Harris has been in the ring with Primo Carnera, Larry Gains, Big Boy Peterson, Chuck Wiggins, Long Tom Hawkins and others, and now is making his home here, being handled by Frank Sutton. He looks not unlike Li'l Artha Jack Johnson, former champion, a pal of Sutton for many years. He recently toured Canada in a boxing and wrestling swing with George Godfrey.

Between Rounds

Billy Brent, Negro middleweight, is back in town in good shape following a sojourn on a farm near North Lima, O. He recently boxed three times in Ohio, beating Hosey Lindsey, Vic Burke and Andy Maxey and has bouts booked with Elish Hirshberger at Canfield, O., on August 22, and with Henry Attel in Youngstown, two nights later.

The Greenlee Field card was completed yesterday with the signing of Jack Wilson and Anson Green, local middleweights, for the eight-round semi-final. Eddie Zivic meets Johnny Durso and Bobby Rowe opposes Sammy Paris in the two six-rounders.

Joey Bozak, Polish featherweight, of Chicago, a Golden Gloves champion in 1928, who has been boxing professionally for two years and now is here under the management of Irish Kane, wants to box Nat Litfin, Jimmy Vaughn, Jimmy Thomas, Mose Dutch, Jackie Wilson or Willie Davies. He has had 45 professional bouts.

Willie Davies is to be rematched in Cleveland with Babe Triscaro, whom he recently handed a first defeat.

Charley Baxter began training at the Pittsburgh Lyceum yesterday for his bout with Battling Gizzy at Hickey Park next Monday. Johnny Riske and Jimmy Bell have been signed to box the opening bout of this show.

The Benny Leonard-Paulie Walker fight in Brooklyn tonight will be broadcast by Station WWSW, beginning at about 10 o'clock. A ringside description of the bout will be telegraphed to the WWSW studio, where it will be put on the air.

Golfer Gets Ace With His Putter

HICKORY, N. C., Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Clinton Andrews today had a new golf record for someone to shoot at.

Playing the Hickory Club course here, he came to No. 6 with the cup 157 yards away. He decided to use his putter and whacked away at the ball. It fell into the cup without hitting the ground for a hole in one.

PROS TO WAR ON RACKETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—A war to the finish against "racketeers," who have been trying to muscle in the old Scotch game with pari-mutuel machines and lotteries, has been declared by the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Advised that more than 63,000 lottery tickets already had been sold for the 1932 P. G. A. championship at St. Paul, Business Administrator Albert R. Gates yesterday dispatched warnings to every member that the "lottery was a fake" and has hired a battery of detectives to run down the promoters.

JACOBS REINSTATED

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—Reinstatement by the New York Athletic Commission of Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, today permitted speeding up of plans for a Schmeling-Mickey Walker fight. It is proposed to stage the bout here in Madison Square Garden Bowl on September 26.

QUESTION

● How can we flatly assert the Gillette BLUE SUPER-BLADE is the sharpest we have ever produced? The answer is simple: a secret photo-electric tester positively proves the fact. Amazing keenness, rustless finish, slotted center—these and other important advantages urge immediate trial of this sensational blade.

"Oh Yeah?

BUT SCIENCE SAYS O. G. IS THE BEST CIGARETTE"

WHEREVER you are . . . those tireless cigarette ads will find you! Each urging its own special claim!

Milder! Fresher! Kinder! Good words, but do they constitute proof?

Forget the adjectives for a moment . . . and listen to the findings of Science.

A great testing laboratory recently made 75 tests* of 4 leading brands. These tests, verified by scientists of two universities, definitely proved that the smoke of an OLD GOLD is cooler . . . and hence more appealing and easier on the throat.

COOLNESS is the key to quality in a cigarette. The finer the tobacco . . . the cooler the smoke. The PURER the tobacco . . . the cooler the smoke. The more artificial flavoring . . . the HOTTER the smoke.

When Science found O. G. the coolest cigarette, it simply verified the fact that OLD GOLD is made of PURE tobacco; the choicest Grade "A" domestic and Turkish leaf, with no artificial flavoring. That's the reason for OLD GOLD'S superior flavor, throat-ease and taste appeal. Smoke the coolest cigarette . . . and you smoke the best.

*This is to certify that in 75 repeated tests made of four leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette by the Calorimeter method . . . it was shown that OLD GOLD is from 112 to 156 B. T. U's. COOLER than the other brands. Careful measurement of the heat of the smoke further confirmed the fact that the smoke of OLD GOLD is definitely cooler.

Collapse of Pirates Topic Of Trained Seals Tonight

What is the story behind the collapse of the Pirates on their eastern trip which ends today?

Once leading by five games the Corsairs return home tomorrow badly broken as a result of 10 straight defeats, after having won six in a row over the Giants in New York.

The fans want to know the answer to the riddle. The question is on all tongues.

This evening, during the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Charles J. Doyle, baseball expert of the Sun-Telegraph, will analyze the situation for the fans and touch upon the chances of a recovery by the team that appeared to be headed for the National League pennant as a certainty before it encountered disaster.

On the same program, Charles W. Ward, president of the Pittsburgh Casting Club, will speak about the plans of his organization for the staging of the national fly-casting championship tournament in Highland and Schenley parks, week after next.

Harry Keck, sports editor, will be master of ceremonies, and the supporting cast also includes Herb McGee, WCAE announcer; Miss Marian Salmon, pianist, and Julius Levin, of the sports department. The program goes on the air at 6:50 and will be concluded at 7:15.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—The conclusion of every Olympic struggle finds each nation looking forward to the next conflict for the athletic championship of the world and measuring its own chances for the future.

Four years will elapse before the next Olympics will be staged and four years is a long time in the scheme of athletic life. So many things can and do happen that anyone who tries to forecast the future is making merely a blind guess.

However, it is no blind guess for us when we offer the hazard that in the sprint events we will perhaps be weaker and that in the distance runs we will have greater chances than ever before. Barring Ralph Metcalfe, the Marquette flier, we cannot count upon any of the stars of the 1932 to be fighting under our standard in 1936.

STARS THROUGH

Eddie Tolan, winner of the 100 and 200 meters, definitely has retired. George Simpson, who ran brilliantly and gained us so many points, also has hung up his spiked shoes. I hardly believe that Frank Wykoff, Hector Dyer, Emmett Toppino and Bob Kiesel, who just failed to qualify for the 100 and 200 and then raced so fast in the 400 meters relay will be active as runners four years hence.

Wykoff and Kiesel, both rather reluctant to take part in the Olympics this year hardly will attempt to hold to their form for another four years. Dyer will not try to continue in the spotlight and we hardly can hope that Toppino will do otherwise.

Bill Carr and Ben Eastman are still youthful as collegians go, they will continue to run another two years and it is within the realms of possibility that they both will decide to keep fit for the games of 1936. I feel that Carr can take care of the 400 for us and that if Eastman specialized at 800 that he can whip the world in 1936.

RETAIN FIELD STRENGTH

I do not believe we will lose any strength in the field in 1936, as compared with our power this year.

John Anderson and Leo Sexton, who threw the discus and the shot-put for us, may go on—and they may retire. But our college rosters are pretty well cluttered with budding stars in these events and it is quite likely that a few of these will come on with a rush by 1936 and be able substitutes for our heroes of 1932.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—Joe McCarthy was fired for winning the Cubs a pennant. Rog Hornsby was dropped for bringing them up to second place, and I like to spend my odd moments figuring what would happen to a manager that landed the Cubs in the second division. He'd probably get his unconditional release from a parachute five miles in the air.

Nick Altrock

Oh, well, life is just a bowl of derricks for Hornsby — always being lifted out of jobs. He's been traded enough to have his name listed on the New York Stock Exchange; he's occupied more baseball berths than George Washington did beds, and he's been in enough hot water to keep a geyser running a thousand years. Quite a career—and it isn't ended yet.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 10. — Quarter-final men's singles frays top today's card of hostilities in the thirteenth annual Western Maryland tennis championships here on the Women's Civic Club courts. Pittsburgh stars hold prominent position in the title chase as Frank Broida, Dr. John O'Loughlin, Billy O'Loughlin, Eddie Alcorn and John Brown remain in the milling along with Champion Randolph Shields, of Winchester, and Barney Welsh, Rockville star.

Broida yesterday led the way into the quarter-final bracket with an impressive 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Tack Hammer, of Greensburg and seventh seeded luminary. John O'Loughlin trimmed Jimmy Allen, of Davis-Elkins College, 6-3, 6-2, while Brother Bill eased ahead by defaults of Ralph Johnson, Lynchburg entry, and E. A. Knoche.

Alcorn copped classic battle from Bob Lampus, Shannopin leader, 12-10, 6-4. Brown was pushed to the limit by Lou Florian, of Washington, Pa., but found the sidelines in the final set to Garner, 7-5, 2-6, 6-1, verdict.

Shields defeated a pair of Pittsburgh stars in Andy Smeaton and Bud Leyda, each of whom flashed sturdy service to come close to carrying the king pin to an extra canto. Smeaton succumbed at 8-6, 6-2, and Leyda went down at 6-4, 8-6. Welsh likewise accounted for a brace of Pittsburghers, S. W. Byrer, of College avenue, and Paul Sullivan, of the P. A. A., falling by identical counts of 6-1, 6-0.

Two Steel City combines opened successfully in men's doubles, John O'Loughlin and Brown trimming the home outfit of Devins and Cale, 6-0, 6-3, as Billy O'Loughlin and Sullivan eliminated Offutt and Grymes, 6-2, 6-3.

STEEL TRADE CONFIDENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Iron Age tomorrow will say:

A sharp rise in scrap prices at Chicago and Pittsburgh, strengthening of the non-ferrous metal markets, a slight increase in consumer interest in steel and pig iron and an actual expansion in demand for wire products from agricultural areas are straws of betterment that are being closely watched as possible forerunners of an upturn in the steel and allied metal-working industries.

There has been no abatement of confidence among iron and steel producers that next month will bring more definite signs of improvement. Little change is expected during August, and in fact the aggregate results of the past week as to volume of business have been disappointingly small, resulting in a further drop in steel ingot output to about 14 per cent from 15 per cent last week.

Hopefulness as to the future is being buoyed up by the rise in prices in security and commodity markets.

Scrap markets, which sometimes anticipate an upturn in steel production by at least a few weeks, have developed a strong undertone. Pig iron has responded somewhat to the improved outlook. In the Cleveland district a few melters have sought to cover their anticipated requirements for the remainder of the year, a changed situation as there has been very little forward buying of late.

Forbes

Human Nature Is Asserting Itself Again

By B. C. FORBES

IS THE MORATORIUM of human nature, which has prevailed in America, about to be lifted?

Mr. Forbes

Americans have not acted naturally for almost three years. Americans, by nature, are enterprising and daring; they are profligate rather than penurious; they prefer spending to saving; they like self-expression and dislike self-denial; they enjoy expansion and hate retrenchment.

Signs multiply that many people have become tired of acting unnaturally and are ready to give rein to their normal selves.

NOTE WHAT has been happening in the security markets. Un-American bearishness long ruled. Un-American pessimism predominated. Now old-time American hopefulness is reasserting itself. Characteristic American optimism is reappearing.

The present prospect is that the self-imposed moratorium is ending.

HUMAN NATURE is running true to form in that there is a rush to buy at relatively high prices the very same securities which could have been bought a few weeks ago at much lower prices. Earnings were as good when nobody chose to invest as they are now when there is a stampede to invest though the cost is 50 or 100 per cent greater. What others don't want, we don't want; what others want, we want.

CALAMITY HOWLERS who cocksurely proclaimed that buying would never, never again become active, possessed little knowledge of human nature, little knowledge of Americans. It was as certain as the rising of the sun that artificial self-restraint would prove only temporary. It is less astonishing that indications of normal buying are reappearing than that abnormal refraining from buying should have lasted so long.

SOME DAY there will suddenly develop an even more overwhelming scramble for merchandise than has been witnessed for stocks. When scarcity is revealed, expect fireworks. The poverty pose has been popular; the opposite pose is more in harmony with the make-up of Americans.

Whether the return to normal has now definitely set in and will experience no really serious setback, cannot be oracularly declared. But that the return to normalcy will come is as sure as day and night. More: It is overdue.

HAS PRESIDENT Hoover become impressed by what has been happening in certain foreign countries? When Britain faced a supreme crisis, a government was formed comprising representatives of different political parties. Similar action, in modified form, has been witnessed in various other countries.

Has this influenced the Republican President of the United States to name Democrats for high office and to give them control of certain tremendously important governmental bodies, notably the Reconstruction Finance Corporation?

QUITE OFTEN when "minority" interests in a corporation kick up a fuss against the management and directorate, the trouble is allayed by giving the objectors substantial representation on the board of directors. Herbert Hoover is well aware of this. Maybe he regards it as good business, as good politics, to let the opposition share the responsibilities of administration.

ONE YOUNG married American, compelled to take a payless vacation which he could not afford, tells me how he combined pleasure and business, with profitable results. Loading his low-priced car with a salable article, he embarked on a thousand-mile selling trip. He relates:

"I visited Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge at Plymouth, Vt. We had a pleasant 10 minutes' chat—and I sold them."

Great is resourcefulness. It can evolve keys to open many doors.

There is room—and need—for lots of it these days.

The Urge to Guard the Future

THE American people have demonstrated by the volume of Life Insurance which has been written during the last few years, their great sense of responsibility to others, and their desire to have their influence felt in the future for the benefit of those dependent upon them.

The thoughtful man, having to the best of his ability provided for the future needs of his family by Life Insurance, seeks for some method of safeguarding these and other funds for his family's benefit. The trust organization offers the logical solution to this problem, as it has continuous existence and unquestioned financial responsibility and brings the accumulated experience of years to bear upon each point of administration for the full benefit of your estate and your beneficiaries.

These two modern institutions of life insurance and trust service work hand in hand for your protection and your comfort. Let us discuss their many advantages with you at your convenience.

How to Be HAPPY Though MARRIED!

Capt. Wyndam with his wife and baby. The three seem to have found bliss in a scheme that is planned to make a "perpetual honeymoon" of marriage.

Ingenious English Couple Invents a "Perpetual Honeymoon" Which Seems to Work Out Successfully and Very Happily

CONSIDERABLE attention has been attracted in England by an unusual experiment now being conducted to avoid controversies and unhappiness in marriage. The test is being made by Captain Richard Wyndam and his wife, both well known in social circles.

Why Test Is Being Made!

To keep romance alive, the Wyndams have made a cold-blooded analysis that seems to be helpful. They are conducting the experiment because they want to make certain that their marriage will be a success. They decided on the test even before they were married. Instead of rushing headlong to the altar on the theory that true love is all that is necessary, they backed off and studied matrimony. This study is the basis for their experiment.

Want to Know What It Is?

You'll find a complete explanation in next Sunday's American Weekly.

Sunday morning at the Wyndam cottage with Capt. Wyndam and his wife obviously glad to be together and just as happy as in the days of their courtship.

STOCKS HIGHER UNDER RAIL LEADERSHIP

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The bull movement in stocks rolled forward under the leadership of the rails today, developing express train speed.

By early afternoon, advances ranged from 1 to more than 5 points in a wide assortment of issues. Midweek business statistics were a shade less favorable than a week ago, but peculators were obviously willing to believe that the current lull in industry would give way to a substantial upturn in autumn. The list dipped a point or two at the start, but quickly turned upward.

Bulls evidently were hopeful of constructive results from the meetings of carrier executives in New York this week, at which wages and economies will, among other things, presumably be discussed. Fresh buying from abroad was reported in the carrier issues. Railway bonds also forged ahead. Roads thus far reporting freight movement for the week ended August 6, however failed to indicate any pickup. New York Central's loadings were 33,102 cars, against 34,390 in the previous week, and Pennsylvania's 73,983, as reduced from 77,209 in the previous week. Delaware and Hudson Company reduced its annual dividend rate to $3 from $9 a share, leaving the Chesapeake and Ohio the only prominent rail issue on which the dividend has not been cut.

The weekly report of electric power production, now regarded as one of the principal barometers of business activity, was a little disappointing, showing 1,426,986,000 kilowatt hours for the week ending August 6, against 1,440,386,000 in the previous week. The reduction from last year was 13.1 per cent, against 12.4 per cent in the previous week. The like week of last year was a negligible sag, while gains occurred in the same period of 1930 and 1929. The weekly petroleum statistics were interpreted favorably, however, the reduction of -,121,000 barrels in gasoline in storage more than counterbalanced the gain of 34,000 barrels in daily average crude output.

United States Steel reported a drop in unfilled tonnage for July for the sixteenth successive month, but it amounted to only 68,466 tons, or substantially less than the previous declines. Heavy buying of the farm implement issues was based partly on the better tone of commodities, but also on reports in prominent Wall street circles that methods of improving trade relations with Russia were under consideration. The ability of the general list to forge ahead again without a real reaction in yesterday's faltering was evidently impressive to bears. Eastman cut its annual dividend to $3 from $5, a somewhat larger reduction than expected.

COTTON PRICES AT NEW HIGHS

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 6 to 8 points decline, in response to lower Liverpool cables and under foreign and southern selling, with Wall street on the buying side.

The initial offerings were readily absorbed, and the market steadied on a continuance of Wall street demand and trade and commission house buying. December, which had sold off to 7.07, rallied to 7.17, or 2 points above yesterday's close. The general market ruled about net unchanged to 3 points higher at the end of the first half hour.

The weekly weather report received a bullish interpretation and there was a renewal of active general buying after its publication. December sold up to 7.37 or 22 points net higher and within a point of Monday's high, while some later months made new high ground for the movement.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 10.—Cotton, 7,000, including 400 American. Spot better demand. Improved business done; prices five points lower. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.77; good middling, 5.52; strict middling, 5.32; middling, 5.22; strict low middling, 5.17; low middling, 5.07; strict good ordinary, 4.57.

Futures closed firm. October, 5.22; December, 5.27; January, 5.30; March, 5.36; May, 5.42; July, 5.47.

July Auto Output Shows 41% Decline

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce today estimated that automobile production in July amounted to 112,600 units in the United States and Canada. This represented a contraction of 41 per cent compared with June production, which held up fairly well because of the late start in getting output under way this year, and was 49 per cent under July, 1931. For the first seven months of this year, production amounted to 1,024,557 units, or 45 per cent under the same 1931 period.

P. R. R. Carloadings Decline for Week

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—Total cars handled by the Pennsylvania Railroad system during the week ended August 6, were 73,983 against 77,209 in the week preceding and 117,037 in the like 1931 week. Loadings from January 1 totaled 2,692,353 cars, comparing with 3,716,130 in the corresponding period in 1931.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—During the week ended August 6 the New York Central lines handled 33,102 cars, comparing with 34,390 in the preceding week and 51,853 cars handled in the like period in 1931.

READJUSTMENT PRIME NEED IN U. S.

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Human nature is again manifesting itself in Wall street, and many of the hasty generalizations of panic days have already been shown to be superficial.

The hazard is not that capitalism is crumbling, but rather that in the excitement of speculative profits the country will deflect its attention from the need of thoroughgoing economic readjustment. In 1923 when Senator Copeland, of New York, sought to set up legislative machinery for stabilizing economic conditions through retardation and expansion of public works, he was laughed down in the Senate because the course of the business cycle was again upward. Irrespective of whether business faces near term improvement, management in the large is open to severe indictment for its mistakes and lack of planning, which threw 10,000,000 at home out of employment.

Mr. Rukeyser

PUBLIC SHORT SIGHTED

No mere turns of the speculative wheels of chance can efface the disgrace of an economic system which lacks a semblance of stability. The fight for industrial planning and economic co-ordination must be made now while the depression is still in existence, for past experience has shown that the public is notoriously short sighted, and forgets as soon as the immediate situation improves. However, as economic society becomes more complicated, the danger of chaotic, uncivilized anarchic rule becomes enlarged, the need for scientific direction of the social controls grows.

The larger problem of balancing production against consumption and finding a formula for exchansing the work of the factory workers with that of the farmer on an equitable basis cannot be solved merely by converting a bull panic at the Stock Exchange into bear panic. Public opinion must be crystallized for a program of putting a solid underpining beneath the business structure while the need is still apparent.

SHORTS STILL HIT

The rally in the security markets started from unwarrantedly depressed levels, at which prices had fallen in many instances below values. Yet the violence of recent moves, registering a bear panic, emphasizes that the new rules against short selling, originated as a sop to emotional opinion, have just now had the first test in a rising market.

Short selling is still greatly penalized, in deference to the recent hysterical theory that the woes of the country were laid to the wicked bears. Brokers must still report all short sales and label them as such. Floor members are not permitted to offer stock short below the last actual sale. The federal government takes a tax of $4 per hundred shares every time stock is borrowed by the short seller, who, like the seller of long stock, must also pay a tax of $9 per hundred shares on stock selling at $20 or more. These charges are over and above federal and state taxes on profits made from speculative transactions and are in addition to heavy brokerage commissions.

Stocks Met With Good Buying on Reactions Yesterday

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(INS.)—The market had to take a lot of profit-taking yesterday, and all in all gave a very good account of itself.

In fact, considering the extent of the rise, stocks could easily have gone down a good deal more; which suggests good buying on reactions.

There are three important developments today, the U. S. Steel unfilled tonnage report, the weekly power figures and the government grain crop forecast after the close. These will have some influence on the course of prices.

The steel stocks have done well considering expectation that the U. S. Steel figures will show another drop. Optimism is still on the throne.

Reports are current that Arthur Cutten, leading Chicago operator, will take up wheat and Case threshing before the week is out.

The U. S. crop report should have a bullish tinge in view of the recent weather reports from the Northwest, suggesting a decided reduction in the spring wheat yield both in this country and Canada. The way is being paved for Case by strength in its preferred, and Case. American Can and Westinghouse are being talked of as leaders of the next rise. The Mellons, 'tis said, are quite "hot" on Westinghouse. Looks, too, as though there were more covering to come into Can. A sizeable short interest is reported locked up in Western Union. There is big league buying in Electric Auto Lite. The newest bull on the stock is understood to have cleaned up in Union Pacific in the last two weeks. Interests partial to Nash talk of it as a secondary leader.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Showing no sign of tiring after their upward pace of the last three weeks, Curb stocks today continued to sweep along the advancing road on another large turnover.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

RAIL MEETINGS STIR STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Wall street looks for important developments this week from the series of railroad conferences getting under way today with the assembling of leading executives to discuss the proposed $300,000,000 expenditure for rehabilitation of freight equipment, through funds supplied by the reconstruction finance corporation.

While there is keen interest in the decision on repair expenditures, far more significance is attached to the outcome of tomorrow's conference called to consider proposals to reduce further the wages of the carriers' unionized employes. The unions accepted a 10 per cent cut early this year, but the railroad managements are now said to feel that another reduction is imperative in view of the continued slump in earnings.

The third meeting of the week will take place on Friday, as a resumed conference of presidents of the eastern trunk lines to continue their study of the Interstate Commerce Commission approval of the four-system consolidations.

Read This Letter:

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph:
On July 31, I had an advertisement in your paper for my 1932 Ford Sedan which I wanted to sell immediately. I sold the car to the first one, of several persons who answered the ad. I wish to comment on the excellent results which your paper has certainly given me. In the future I will advertise 100% with the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Yours Sincerely,

BLONDIE OF THE FOLLIES

From Which M. G. M. Has Made A Motion Picture Starring Marion Davies

By FRANCES MARION

Lurline Angry When Blondie Confesses Her Love For Larry Belmont

CHAPTER XV.

When the taxi stopped it was in front of Lurline's apartment. Blondie shot skyward in the elevator, and was soon ringing the bell of the penthouse. Lurline finally came to the door in her night dress. She looked as though she might have been crying.

"Lottie, I want to speak to you . . ." said Blondie, ill at ease.

"What?" Lurline said, surprised.

"Can I come in?"

"No—not now!"

"It's important . . ." Blondie tried to explain. Lurline looked at her worried, tear-stained face.

"Come in then . . ." she said, as though she had suddenly made up her mind.

The two girls walked toward the bedroom. It was disarrayed now, the dawn streaking in gave the room an eerie effect. As Lurline closed the bedroom door she said:

"Well, what do you want?"

"I quit home . . ." Blondie announced suddenly.

"Why?"

"I'm going out on my own . . . like you."

"You're a fool!"

"He said I'd do fine."

"Who's he?"

"Larry!"

The name ripped painfully into Lurline's heart. The old-time viciousness returned, and she let Blondie have it.

"He . . . he did! And what other balloon juice did he whisper until 5 o'clock in the morning?"

Lurline's tone brought out Blondie's anger.

"Lots!" she exclaimed. "I like him!"

"You do . . ."

"Yes, I do . . . and he likes me . . ."

"He told you so?"

LURLINE FURIOUS

"Did he—and how!"

"He was drunk!" Lurline said in disgust, starting to pace the room.

"No, he wasn't . . ." said Blondie, angrily.

"You're a sap . . . what do YOU know?"

"I know he likes me!" Blondie replied with conviction. And then in an accusing but quiet tone: "You're jealous of me—you're stuck on him yourself."

Lurline turned on her furiously now, her eyes flashing fire.

"Jealous of you! . . . why you little tramp! If you kid yourself that he's given you a second thought . . ? let me tell you something . . ."

"I don't want to hear," cried Blondie, interrupting. "I'm crazy about him—he's crazy about me—and I'm going to see him! You can't stop me! . . ." but Blondie couldn't continue. Her throat tightened. She crossed to Lurline and asked: "Are you in love with him?" Lurline stopped in her tracks.

"Of course . . . are you blind?"

"I didn't know . . ." replied Blondie, tears welling up in her great blue eyes.

"No! . . . you don't know anything," said Lurline. "You go home, and tomorrow you devote yourself to your Odds and Ends at the store and be a good little girl . . . go home to Pa . . ."

PUZZLED BY ACTIONS

"Gee! . . . How I hate you! Hate you!" . . . and Blondie threw all the contempt she could muster into the acusation.

"Well," said Lurline appealingly, "take ME as an example and stay out of this life . . . don't be rotten like me . . ." she could contain herself no longer. She suddenly threw herself across the bed, sobbing bitterly.

"What's the matter?" asked Blondie, looking at her quizzically.

"Go away!"

"No . . . I won't . . . what's the matter?" Blondie was full of compassion now, and sat down on the side of the bed. Lurline suddenly got up, brushing back her hair.

"Are you blind?" she asked, looking straight at Blondie. "Don't you know about Larry and me?" Then seeing uncomprehension in Blondie's expression, she continued: "I've waited here the whole evening—he's never done this to me before—never!" and Lurline reeled over on the pillows.

"Come on," said Blondie soothingly, reaching over and patting Lurline gently on the shoulder. "Tell a pal . . . what do you want to say?"

CALLED LIAR

"Blondie . . . I'm Larry's girl—get me?"

"No!" Blondie's face was a mixture of surprise and pain.

"Am I a liar?" asked Lurline, getting up slowly from the pillows and wiping her eyes.

"Yes," said Blondie, grasping at a straw. "After what he said to me tonight, you must be—you must! I fell for him — I know he did too—I love him! I don't understand," and then in a hoarse whisper, she repeated, almost to herself: "I don't understand . . ."

"Go home and don't try . . ."

"Is this his place?" asked Blondie as though she had never heard.

"No—it's mine—"

"Did he give it to you?"

"What do you think? Men are all the same—they're a dirty lot—they meet a new face and—where are you?" What she was saying was stabbing Blondie to the heart. "If I were his wife I could go out and tell the world how I feel—I'd get some sympathy—but just because I'm a convenience I can break my heart and keep quiet about it or get the ha! ha! from everybody!"

"I don't get it," said Blondie, looking at Lurline, now thoroughly beaten.

"You've known me longer than anyone." Lurline said quietly. "I can talk to you . . ."

"We're pals, Lottie," replied Blondie, quick to be of help. "I'd do anything . . ." And then thinking of Larry, she said firmly: "Oh, if I weren't so crazy about him . . ."

THINKS OF PA

Lurline got up suddenly, straightened the pillows, and said: "Get into bed, kid, and I'll tell you an earful . . ."

"Okay," said Blondie, rising and starting to peel off her clothes. As she kicked off her shoes, Blondie thought of Pa. Wondering what he was doing now? Probably getting ready to go to work . . . poor old Pa. If only she hadn't lost her temper . . . if she could put her arms around him and ask his forgiveness.

But Pa was sitting at the window, looking as far down the tenement cluttered street as he could toward the corner where he had last seen Blondie. It was Ma's voice that interrupted Pa's train of thought.

"Blondie's got her head screwed on all right—when the liquor wears off she'll be home. Gert, pass a cup of coffee to your Pa."

"Here you are, Pa," said Gert as she approached with the coffee. Stop mopin'—the girl ain't dead . . . ."

"Perhaps she'd be better off—dead," said Pa, half to himself.

"You call the store about 8 and tell Mr. Robinson that Blondie's sick." It was Ma speaking to Gert.

"They'd lay her off sure," said Gert. "Blondie said they'd laid a lot of the girls off."

PA GETS ANGRY

"Well, if they do—they do. It's very unfortunate," said Ma.

"Where's she gone, do you think?" asked Gert.

"She's having breakfast on Park avenue," grinned Pete, poking his head in from the bedroom. "Champagne and caviar—sittin' on the top of the world with Lottie Callahan—that's where she is—Gee! I wish I was a dame!"

Pa arose, shaking his fist.

"Stop it! Stop it!" he cried.

"Would she be with Lottie, do you think?" asked Gert.

"Yes—that's where she is," said Pa, a bit calmer now, but Pete had retreated to the bedroom. "I'm going to get her."

"She'll be back . . ." started Ma, but Gert interrupted her.

"Lay off her, Pa . . . you give her a line like you gave her this morning and she'll never come back."

"She's my daughter, isn't she?"

"May be! You're like one of them old-time fathers—like you see in the movies—that stuff don't go any more, Pa!" said Gert.

"No?" questioned Pa, as he reached for his hat and coat.

"Let the girl have her fling—she's all right!" continued Gert, as Pa started for the door.

"Yes—I guess I am a bit—old-time," said Pa, as he went out into the hall, closing the entrance door quietly.

BLONDIE WORRIED

Lurline was awakened by the shaking of the bed. She looked quickly over at Blondie, lying on her side with her back to Lurline. Blondie's body was shaking convulsively as though she were crying.

"Aw, cut that out. Crying won't get you anywhere."

There was no answer, but Blondie became more convulsed.

"Cut it out!" Lurline said, giving her a dig in the ribs.

Blondie looked up quickly. Her eyes were dry.

"I wasn't crying—I was laughing."

"What at?"

"Thinkin' what a sap I was . . . believin' . . ." said Blondie, a wan smile on her face.

"And you think you're the only one?" sarcastically from Lurline. "Keep laughing, kid, it's the only thing to do." She put her arms around Blondie, and the two girls lay there silent for a few moments.

Blondie had never been so unhappy in her life. To think that she had fallen completely for Larry and his line! But he was nice! No, he wasn't! He had deceived her! And deceived . . . Aw, well, what was the use . . . And what about poor Pa! She had run away from him . . . maybe he had run after her? What if he had! And after what the doctor said! Could anything have happened to him! Suddenly she sat up in bed. Turning to Lurline, she cried: "I gotta go home!"

"What's the idea?" asked Lurline.

"I'm worried . . . about Pa . . . oh, about everything." As she started to get up Lurline put out a restraining hand.

"Take it easy. Let's have some breakfast first," reaching for an embroidered bell pull. "I thought you had quit home?"

"I did, really . . . but I'm going back. I'm worried . . . about . . . about Pa."

The maid entered with the breakfast trays. Blondie stared wild-eyed as the neat baskets, with their shining silver and beautiful dishes, were placed in their laps. To Blondie it was unbelievable that anyone got this every morning by just pushing a button. Why she hadn't had breakfast in bed since she had had diphtheria! As the maid left the room Lurline said:

SUBJECT CHANGED

"The first thing you must do is to see Larry."

"But I don't want to . . ." Blondie replied.

"Oh, he'll try and see you . . . you must make it plain that you know everything . . . and that it was a dirty trick to make up to you under the circumstances, get me?"

"Yes . . ." admitted Blondie, brokenly. "I can't understand it . . . he seemed so nice . . . he wasn't a bit . . . a bit fresh."

"You don't know men," said Lurline, in her grandest manner. Having fixed everything concerning Larry, Lurline changed the subject.

"I can't see why you want to go back to that dump—and that store! You have an opportunity to get in the Follies and have . . ." Lurline looked appraisingly around the room . . . "this. Why be a fool? It's your only chance."

Before Blondie could reply the maid entered.

"Monsieur McClune . . ."

"Pa!" Blondie cried, frightened.

"Madelon, show Mr. McClune in the drawing room," ordered Lurline.

Blondie jumped up hurriedly and started after the maid.

"Hey! Better take that," and Lurline pointed to a dressing gown thrown across a chair. Blondie hurried to it, put it on, wrapping it around her as she went out of the door.

HIDES FEELINGS

Once in the hallway leading to the drawing room, Blondie slowed down. So Pa was all right after all. He hadn't run after her . . . or if he did, nothing happened, like the doctor said. As she walked up to the great glass doors leading into the huge room, she became frightened again. What if Pa should take her home! She looked in through the doors. Yes, there he was looking around in utter amazement. What a pathetic little man he was, Blondie thought, and how out of place now. As she watched him nervously fidgeting with his old hat, all the love she had for him swept through her.

Maybe it was the tears that started to come as she watched that made Blondie pull herself together. She never knew, but she fought harder right then than she ever fought in her life, to hide her real feelings. She was worried about what she had done to Pa that morning, and she was frightened about the outcome of this meeting. Something deep down inside made her dry her eyes, push back her hair, and put on her most enthusiastic manner as she went fearlessly into the room. In Lurline's georgeous dressing gown Blondie certainly seemed to fit into the picture.

"Hello, Pa. What'd you come for?"

"I thought I'd call in and see you on my way down to work," her father answered. There was a respectful note in his voice, and he continued to twirl his hat nervously.

UNSEEING EYES

"You're late for work . . ."

"I thought this was more important," the old man interrupted.

"How'd you know where I was?" Blondie asked quickly, her voice trembling.

"Where else would you be?"

"Like it here" asked Blondie, trying to mask her nervousness.

"It's very nice—very nice indeed, Blondie," her father said quietly.

"There's a big bedroom there . . ." said Blondie pointing, self-consciously, ". . . and there's a maid's room and kitchen out there and look out here . . ." Blondie went over to the big French windows that stood open. ". . . you can see all over New York . . . would you believe there were such places?"

"Very nice," said Pa, looking off in the distance with unseeing eyes.

"And look, Pa—see way over there—that's where we live."

"Yes—that's where we live—way over there!" and her father's voice trailed off.

"It's all Lurline's . . ." Blondie said as they turned back into the room.

"Yes . . ."

"Well, don't you like it?"

"It's very nice—very nice, Blondie."

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Chinese Prisoner Threatens Madge

Even with Dicky's eyes upon me, I could not repress a joyous gesture of greeting to Hugh Grantland, whom I had feared I never should see again. Dicky had come back to me safe from this expedition I had so dreaded, and, with his safety assured, I forgot the unjust and unreasoning resentment I had felt against Hugh for summoning my husband upon so dangerous an errand. I was free, I felt, to rejoice in the return of this loyal friend who so many times had warded off catastrophe for me and mine, even as now he was gently steering me away from the vicinity of the bound Chinese over whom Lee Chow was mounting guard.

"Oh, I'm so glad you're safe!" I said, stretching out my hand to him. "It's been so long since we heard anything of you, that we—all of us—were terribly anxious about you."

HUGH UNCHANGED

His hand closed over mine, and at its touch something flamed back in his eyes, something that told me more than a whole portfolio of letters, or than hours of impassioned speech.

He had not forgotten! That was He had not forgotten!

"And I was anxious about you—people"—the word plainly was an afterthought. "But things got beyond my control a bit for a while—and—I'm lucky to be here at all."

The words were simple, but as always when Hugh Grantland speaks of that part of his life hidden from ordinary kin, I visioned dark recesses of danger and intrigue of which he and his old and faithful friend, Lee Chow, were the center.

Yet the years had not taken their toll of him, as they had of so many men in the easier paths of life. A few more lines in his bronzed face, a deeper sprinkling of gray in his dark hair—those were all the changes I could see. There was no abatement of vigor in his strong, sinewy figure, and his eyes, his smile, were unchanged. Both Dicky and Harry Underwood are handsome men, but Hugh did not suffer in comparison with either of them.

"I will tell you all about it later," he said hastily, releasing my hand, as Lee Chow uttered a sibilant monosyllable. "Stand here, won't you? Please don't come any nearer to the bound man. He is as venomous as a cobra. I shall be thankful when we have him safely deported back to his own country."

I looked past him at the man of whom he was speaking, and for an instant something besides venom was in those black eyes. Terror, stark, gripping was there.

"Does he understand English?" I asked.

"I don't think so. Why?"

"I am sure he understood what you were saying just now. His eyes were suddenly—terrible with fear."

Hugh's own eyes were suddenly alert.

"That explain something," he said. "Thank you so much. I often have thought you had the keenest eyes of anyone I know. One cannot have secrets from you. And now, please excuse me for a little."

He went past me to Lee Chow and began to talk to him in English, but in words that sounded like a pied cross-word puzzle. He was talking in code I realized, and crossed to where Lillian was standing at the foot of the table upon which lay the man over whom Harry and Dicky were working. I pressed her arm in mute inquiry and she nodded.

MADGE SENSES DANGER

"He's coming round all right, but he's shamming unconsciousness," she said out of the corner of her mouth.

I looked at the yellow face, still wet with the cold water with which the men had drenched it. The eyes were apparently closed, but I had the sensation of being watched closely, menacingly. I looked more closely at those closed eyes and detected the faintest slit beneath the almost hairless lids. The eyeballs were moving beneath those closed lids, I was sure of it, moving from side to side, watching for what?

One instant I was watching him, the next his apparently inert figure had gathered itself together and flung itself upon me, bearing me to the floor. His wrists heavily handcuffed, rose in the air above my head.

"Maybe you kill me all lite, but first lil' lady gets these between eyes," he said. "If you let us go, nobody get hurt."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Manager Harry Thomas, of the Schenley Theater, had as his guest, Byron Isenberg, of Fort Wayne, Ind., at the regular meeting of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club last Saturday. It was Byron's first Komic Club meeting and Mr. Thomas had him open the meeting by reading the club pledge and giving the salute to the flag.

Byron is a member of the Fort Wayne Boy Scouts and is on his way to Tyrone, Pa., for his vacation. While in Pittsburgh for the week-end he was the guest of Troop 75, Boy Scouts of America. This is the troop that assists Mr. Thomas in conducting the Komic Club meetings every Saturday.

BEAR ENTERTAINS

Members of the Belmar chapter were entertained by John Harris' pet bear Warner, which made a great hit with the youngsters. Dave Jeffries was the acting master of ceremonies and sang several songs for the members, accompanied by the Junior Komic Club orchestra. Henry La Pertche did an acrobatic dance. Henry, you know, is the leader of the orchestra, and while he performed his dance, Dave Jeffries led the orchestra.

A large stage show was presented for the enjoyment of the members of the Mt. Oliver-Harris chapter with the following members taking part:

Corrine Killdare, acrobatic dance.

Voight Dickinson sang "Home" and "My Mom."

Joseph Barranti, tap dance.

"Baby" Eleanor sang "St. Louis Blues" and "Please Don't Talk About Me When I'm Gone."

Jackie Morrow, stair dance.

Jack Jenkins, master of ceremonies.

'LUCKY BUCK' DAY SOON

The meeting of the Washington, Pa., chapter of the club began with the entire chorus of the minstrel show on the stage singing the opening number of their show. This minstrel show will be presented later in the month and the cast consists of members only.

Following the opening number these members entertained with songs, instrumental numbers, recitations and dances:

Hilda Kerns, Anna Kerns, Gertrude McKahan, Gloria Conselmi, Mary Jane Phillips, Eva Mae Jarvis, Mary Catherine Retonda, Florence Hughes, Marion Kemp, Ethel Grinage, Velma McVehill, Margurite Birmingham, Betty George, Stanley Wolfe, Betty Ihrig, Ella Mae Lacy, Mary Jane Wood, Harold Wolfe, Alvin Bales, Frank Runzo and Jean Skirboll.

Remember, Friday, August 26, is "Lucky Buck" day at Kennywood Park, and all the members and their little friends are invited to clip the "Lucky Bucks" from the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph and use them that day at Kennywood.

Your "Lucky Bucks" will be good as gold on the rides and amusement devices. If you want to take a ride on the "racer" or the "whip," all you have to do is to peel off 10 "Lucky Bucks" from your "bankroll" and hand them to the ticket seller and you'll receive a ticket good for one ride. Just think, boys and girls, you can have a "bankroll" just as big as you want by clipping these "Lucky Bucks" from the Sun-Telegraph. The more "Lucky Bucks" you have, the more rides you'll be able to take. Start saving your "bankroll" today.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

We Would Like to Correct a Bad Impression

Before the Eighteenth Amendment is tossed aside, we would like to get a word in edgewise in behalf of the lowly prohibition snooper. You'll find people who thoughtlessly gossip to the effect that snoopers consume, and sometimes barter, the bottled goods they confiscate. Nothing could be further from the truth, as the candid camera shows. In fact, the bottles are destroyed on the spot, and a special apparatus has been perfected to make this ceremony a pleasure as well as a duty.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

A Sacrifice Necessary

The Legislature Must Raise Money for the Unemployed, Even Though the Process Hurts.

The House of Representatives at Harrisburg has rejected taxation proposals by which it was hoped to raise funds for the relief of the unemployed.

It has killed the income tax and occupation tax bills and made it plain that it would also kill the bills for the taxation of cigarets, cosmetics and soft drinks if they should come out of committee.

The Sun-Telegraph does not look with favor on any of these bills; but it is strongly of the opinion that the Legislature will be remiss in its duty if it fails to adopt some sort of revenue-raising measure.

The House has passed on first reading a bill to transfer $12,000,000 from the highway fund to the general fund for unemployment relief. But there is opposition to the plan in rural counties.

Curtailment of highway building will be regrettable, of course; but some sort of sacrifice will have to be made.

The process of raising $12,000,000 probably will be painful to someone no matter what the method followed. Nevertheless the money should be raised.

Full Rations Again

Technical Objections to the Plan for Relieving Distress May Properly Be Brushed Aside.

The people of Allegheny County, shocked by the announcement that the Emergency Association, because of lack of funds, had reduced the ration of the destitute persons dependent upon it to $2 a week per family, will be relieved to learn that the full ration of $4 a week probably will be restored in a few days.

On $2 a week a family could hardly keep body and soul together. The result of keeping thousands of families on half-rations could not have failed to be dire.

The crisis has been met through the action of the County Poor Board in appropriating $250,000 for relief work in the county outside the city, which releases money for city relief work.

Some technical objections have been raised. They should be brushed aside.

In an emergency like this, with thousands of people threatened with starvation, narrow-minded legalistic interpretations of technicalities are out of place.

The Supreme Court set a good example in its liberal interpretation of the Constitution in passing on the Talbot appropriation for the unemployed. The same spirit should be applied to the solution of local relief problems.

Happy Hunting Ground

Visitors from 24 States Bear Witness to Pennsylvania's Position as a Nimrod's Paradise.

An analysis which has just been made of the hunting licenses issued in Pennsylvania during the past year calls attention to the splendid reputation that the state enjoys as a paradise for hunters.

Besides 572,774 Pennsylvanians, licenses were issued to 8,964 non-residents. They came to Pennsylvania from 24 states.

It is a remarkable commentary on Pennsylvania's position as a happy hunting ground that people should come here to hunt from states as distant and as well adapted to development of game resources as Florida, Oregon and Vermont.

It is said that more bears are bagged by hunters in Pennsylvania than in any other state, and the kill of deer in this state, if not the largest, cannot be far short of it. In small game, too, we have a remarkable record.

An astonishing feature of the business is that notwithstanding the tremendous slaughter of game every autumn by an army of more than half a million hunters, the supply the following autumn shows no diminution.

The thousands of hunters who come to Pennsylvania from other states should apply the Pennsylvania Plan of game conservation to their own states. There is no reason why other states should not become happy hunting grounds, too.

How the City Can Save

The Sun-Telegraph Has Pointed Out a Number of Specific Ways to Eliminate Waste.

Mayor Kline returned to Pittsburgh yesterday from his summer home at Madison, O., and is engaged today in conferring with department heads and others on plans for reducing municipal expenditures.

Besides the recommendations of the members of his cabinet the Mayor has before him for consideration the report of a committee of businessmen, headed by Arthur E. Braun, who have suggested ways by which $1,300,000 can be saved.

The Mayor and Council will also find valuable suggestions for eliminating waste in the daily articles that the Sun-Telegraph has been publishing on the subject. We have pointed out many specific ways by which the city's bills can be reduced.

It will not be difficult to economize if the city administrators are willing to put the city's welfare above selfish private interests.

Avoid the Rush

Prudent Motorists Will Not Delay Having Their Cars Inspected Until the Last Moment.

The Pittsburgh Motor Club reports that 22,916 cars were officially inspected during July at the 521 testing stations in Allegheny County. That means that many motorists have delayed.

The inspection period, which opened July 1, ends at midnight September 30. If the experience of other years is to be repeated, thousands of automobile owners will not have their machines inspected until the last day or two, and not a few will delay too long and get into trouble with the police.

Prudent motorists will avoid the rush by attending to the business at once. Those who are going to spend their vacations on a motoring trip will wish to have their cars inspected anyway, to make sure they have no trouble on the trip.

The Deadline

By Nelson Harding

Our fat friend doesn't like the sign
That halts him at the borderline.
That wire is the great divide
That bars him from the other side.

He might as well be satisfied
With what he grabs upon this side.
It won't avail to stand and glare;
He isn't wanted over there.

Marry-Go-Round

When Marriage Is a 'Merger'

"Many a true word is spoken in jest"—particularly in Winchell's column.

* * *

Take that word "merger," for instance, which is his pet synonym for "marriage."

* * *

Every happy marriage is a merger. And, unless marriage is a merger, it's a flop!

* * *

The trouble with marriages, today, yesterday and forever, is that it is too often a gamble, an adventure, a racket or a graft. A matter of "give-and-take" — in which one does all the giving, and the other does all the taking.

When marriage is a merger, you pool your interests, your assets and your responsibilities, and share your profits and pleasures as well as your problems and troubles. That is the Perfect Marriage—the fifty-fifty marriage!

* * *

The matrimonial merger is based on reciprocity—and on mutual ambitions, loyalty, fairness and love. Quite a different proposition from the old-fashioned marriage, in which the wife felt that she must "manage," cajole, flatter, coax and hoodwink the husband; and the husband felt that he must jolly, coddle, bully and "baby" his wife.

* * *

There are many kinds of merger-marriages. I know of at least three, all of them brilliant successes.

The first is that of a brilliant professional man, whose wife merged her life into his career; saved his pennies, handled his financial affairs, took care of his digestion, and boosted him to the top of his profession.

* * *

The second is that of a popular woman writer, whose husband, a successful business man, has found time to devote himself to her ambitions, protect her interests, manage her business affairs, and quadruple her income. Also, to star HER, and to relieve her of all the petty business details which so cramp a writer's style and make life a torment.

* * *

The third is that of a business man and a business woman, who started a small enterprise together, worked up from scratch, and finally landed on Millionaire Row.

* * *

When ALL marriages become "mergers," marriage will cease to be a lottery or a "long chance," and become a Sure Thing. And, that day is not far off!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Many citadels of the rich, these days, are torn by the communistic zeal of the juniors. A Park avenue penthouse has a daughter who is hot-gospeling calamity from a Columbia Circle soap box. A Fifth avenue family schism reveals two sons crusading at Socialistic centers.

Perhaps the most prominent of dissenters, is young Corliss Lamont. His father is a member of the very capitalistic House of Morgan. The son shows extremely liberal tendencies, as does his young wife. They are active in several very radical movements.

It is reported, four members of the Social Register were present at the last "New Masses" ball—not as curiosity visitors, but as those taking a sudden interest in radical tendencies of the day. The son of a steel magnate is starting a revolutionary weekly, too.

Two debutantes have marched in protest parades as a symbol of their resentment to what they call "social wrongs." Elders are looking with toleration upon such activities. One father expressed his indifference over his son's street salvationing with: "Anyway, it keeps him out in the open air."

* * *

Will Cuppy sponsors the jubilant romanza of a young man who is visiting a psychiatrist, regarding talking to himself. It hasn't bothered him until lately when he came to the sudden conclusion he was a dreadful bore.

* * *

I talked today to an Ol' Clo' Man who circulates in our neighborhood. He smelled of the depraved ammonia now sold for gin and seemed utterly in a funk. Customers who used to part with their cast-off garments now refuse to barter. "In three days," he wailed, "my best buy is an old white linen vest."

* * *

It strikes me, the only man I know to outsmart the depression is Watterson Rothaker, who has salvaged several millions out of the Hollywood hurrah. A few weeks ago Rothaker closed his Beverly Hills mansion, and with his wife and daughter, mounted the gangplank for a cruise that will take them away from the beaten paths—Iceland and where not. Like many others, he owns outright high-grade stocks that are now in the cellar. But during his cruise he does not intend to read a single market analysis or listen to a yap about the end of the world.

* * *

There is eternal excitement for the outlander in the noiseless sliding of doors and windy zoom of elevators in populous mid-town skyscrapers. One elevator bites off a chunk of humanity and disappears with a swish, while another spurts a jet of humanity, scattering through the polished corridors. The starter, with his cricket chirruping dingus, always arouses my awe and I am tremendously flattered at such a brightly hued act of grace as starting me off skyward without a second's wait. It is the only time I never feel a person of even minor importance in this snorting community.

* * *

A modest inn in a bend of Sheepshead Bay, incidentally, is where I take on a mysterious greatness. The proprietor and waiters mistake me for some fortunate known as "Mr. Gray." When I appear at the door, waiters galvanize into a salaaming huddle. Then they circulate about, whispering to diners behind menus, and everybody looks my way. I took one gentleman from back home there, and he is still telling how my very entrance upsets even an out-of-the way restaurant.

* * *

Too, there is a self-obliterating functioneer, known as the "washroom boy," in the Los Angeles Biltmore, who beglamors me with a patina of pomp. His whiskbroom halts in midair as I appear, and he flutters about as though I might be a Wales incognito. I did not master the mystery until last visit, when, in departing, he said: "You was certainly the cats in your last picture."

I lacked courage to ask what actor he thought I was, a mite afraid he would confess: "Oh, I just kid everybody that way." If he does, it's a grand formula for tip doubling. He got a half dozen dimes from me. And I'm a washroom nickler.

* * *

I have been taken, at times, for Tully Marshall, of the movies, and Pearson McCord, a New York tailor. Then the drunk in Jack's one night, who lurched to my table, mumbling: 'You know who you look like?" Before I could answer he continued: 'Well, I know. You look like an anteater clean out of ants."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Sick of living, sometimes? Hate this stupid, cruel, dishonest world?

And you wonder what's the use of trying to live in a place like this—a place without a decent meaning or plan? If there were any hope of things getting better, you could stand things—go on having faith—but there isn't?

That's what you're thinking? Don't! You're wrong! Yes, I know; things look pretty dark, and, from our little perspective, there doesn't seem to be any improvement. But look back, and look deep. Look back far enough, and deep enough.

There is a plan. There is a reason and an explanation for everything. And if you can once find it, you'll never again feel so bitterly bewildered by life, as though God, Himself, mocked you. Instead, you'll feel that even the tragedies of life are a fighting challenge!

Frank Townsend, the English philosopher, has given the explanation of life's muddle in that strong and beautiful book "Earth."

"The world that is today grew out of the world of yesterday.

"And the earth of tomorrow is forming in the earth of today.

"And you and I

"Belong to the world of today; "Having come from yesterday; "With a journey to make into tomorrow.

"That is why we sometimes find it uncomfortable.

"Stopping where we are."

Why is life as it is? That is why—because life is growing. The world that is today grew out of the world of yesterday, and the men of today grew out of the men of yesterday.

It is a long story. You cannot read that story by looking at the earth in your back yard, or reading your grandfather's diary. You must look further; look deeper. Look back into jungle shadows, jungle fear and cruelty. Look back at the earthquakes and tidal waves, the glaciers and fires that molded our earth of today—at the upheavals and convulsions, freezings of desolation and fires of adversity that molded the human spirit of today.

Out in your back yard is a small weed called "horsetail rush." A stupid, scraggy thing it seems, yet it is a hangover of the great reeds and grasses that towered over the primeval swamps before ever there were trees.

Deep in your spirit there are traits which seem to have no place in a civilized world—terrors and lusts you blush to admit. How did they come there, in a decent person like you? They "came there" because they, too, are hangovers from those far-off days when man was a shambling brute, ruled by terror and lust.

You grew out of that man of yesterday, but you are still bound by him. Even your flesh still beats tags of his jungle flesh which are a nuisance in twentieth-century life; and your spirit bears more tags, which make human society the muddle which it is. And yet, slowly but surely, man is drawing up out of the muddle, out of the jungle, into another life and another land.

You grew out of that man of yesterday, and the man of tomorrow is now forming in you. He is forming in your most trivial acts, your slightest decisions. Every time you take a step forward, you lift that future man toward the stars. Everytime you take a step back, you thrust him back into the jungle.

Don't despise life. Don't try to run away from it. It is the greatest moving picture show on earth. Move with it!

Text for Today Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world.—Matthew, xxviii:20.

The Character of Jack Garner

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

John N. Garner, commonly called "Jack" because he is that kind of human being, is a two-fisted fighting man who harbors no personal grudges and fights a clean, sportsman-like battle. He comes of the section where no other kind of a man counts. Though a member of Congress for 30 years and long distinguished, there is nothing in his manner or attitude toward his fellows to indicate that he has been the least bit spoiled. He has his feet set squarely on the ground. He has no eccentricities. He is just a plain, blunt man who speaks right out whatever is in his mind or heart.

Though a social animal and great company, as the late Nick Longworth knew and appreciated, he does not care a whoop for that artificial thing known in Washington as "society." There is nothing of the stuffed shirt about him. There is nothing of snobbery in him.

With his stocky frame, his white hair and long, bushy brows, his ruddy complexion and hearty manner he might easily pass for an English country gentleman—a country squire of the sort that has made history. There is warmth and sincerity in his smile—it glows.

* * *

For a long while before the country generally acclaimed him he was appreciated in the House. That body has seldom had a more slashing figure in debate. It is doubtful if he ever wrote out a speech in all these years for the sake of the literary finish. He is not given to epigrams or smart sayings. His are always fighting speeches and they always are effective for these reasons:

They are sound and fair as to facts.

They are homely and as easily understood as the language of the man in the street, at the forge or in the corn row.

They are delivered with such evident conviction that they command the respect even of his foes.

And they are rich in that quality which is all too rare—the quality of common sense.

* * *

Garner 'Knows His Stuff'

He has long been a force in the House because he invariably knows what he is doing and talking about. This is particularly true on matters of taxation and governmental procedure. A hard worker, a delver for the facts, he has mastered the science of government from experience. He has served on the important committees where the real work of legislation is done. He has lived government, thought government since early manhood. His energies have been unreservedly dedicated to the public service.

That is the reason he has been powerful in debate—he "knows his stuff."

In that regard he resembles Al Smith.

And it is because of his equipment that, when the Democrats captured the House, no other person seriously was thought of for the Speakership.

He fought his way to the top—and worked his way there.

* * *

Home-Spun Political Philosophy

His is the home-spun political philosophy of Andrew Jackson. He believes in the people and has confidence in their ultimate judgment if they are put in possession of the facts.

Instinctively his feeling is for the under-dog, but there is too much sunniness in his disposition to make it possible for him to snarl at anyone. He is too level headed for mere demagogy.

Snell, the Republican leader in the House, never said a more unworthy thing than when he accused Garner of trying to array the poor against the rich. It was a false charge which required no answer even on the Republican side of the chamber. Garner looks upon Americans as Americans without class distinction; and Snell's attack was due to the fact that Garner had protested against the Hoover policy of discrimination in favor of the rich.

Garner never has attacked the rich as the rich, nor as a class; but he does not propose—if he can help it—that the poor shall be snubbed by government just because they are poor.

He has too much sound common sense and understands too thoroughly the interrelation of things to be a demagogue.

* * *

America Comes First

And he is a thorough American, racy of the soil—the robust sort that has lived with the common people here through his ancestors for generations. He does not have to "put his ear to the ground" to learn what the people think. He knows by instinct, because he is of the people. He has never "risen" from them. He never will.

He is a nationalist—but not in the chip-carrying sense. He knows wherein the interdependence of the nation lies. He has shown during the last session of Congress that he is too wise to believe economic isolation possible without ruin—in striking contrast to Mr. Hoover.

But with him, America comes first; and he is opposed to economic isolation such as has been brought upon us by the present tariff because it is ruinous to America.

* * *

Voted Against 18th Amendment

Garner believes firmly in the old fundamentals of the republic—in the greatest individual liberty compatible with the stability of society. That is the reason he voted against the Eighteenth Amendment in the beginning, and against the Volstead act; the reason he voted with Wilson when a Republican Congress over-rode his veto.

But he knows when common sense demands a temporary compromise with these old traditions. That is the reason he supported the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation created for the unprecedented purpose of loaning vast sums of public money to banks and railroads. He is too solid in his thinking to follow a book of rules in a storm.

But after government went into the business of loaning vast sums to banks and railroads, he could see nothing shocking and nothing but justice in making federal money available to smaller businesses that could give perfect security—as was done by the War Finance Corporation.

* * *

Garner Hits With a Smile

Naturally he is a partisan in the sense that he fights for the principles and policies of his party; but there is nothing of intolerance about him toward his political opponents. They are his personal friends. When he was Democratic leader of the House, and Nick Longworth was the Speaker, their relations were intimate as that of brothers. They would pummel one another in the House and laughingly nurse their bruises together.

No Republican in the House, who amounts to anything, dislikes Jack Garner; none who does not now rejoice in his distinction.

Such, in a few words, is the character of the man who in all probability will be the next Vice President. The fact that he is equipped for the Presidency makes his nomination all the more commendable.

It is not probable that he will be so happy at the other end of the Capitol as in the House where he has lived for 30 years; but when the summons of party and country came he responded.

He will be a valuable asset for his party on the stump. He is a hard hitter, but he hits with a smile.

The Rhyming Optimist

BY ALINE MICHAELS

Mid-Summer Noon

Not a leaf is stirring now:
Not a linnet sings;
Silent dove on carven bough
Sits with folded wings.

Gay lantanas flaunt their blooms
Bravely as at dawn.
From the roses' ruddy rooms
Drunken bees have gone.

Mounting, golden waves of heat
Rise from fields and lanes;
New and sudden ardors beat
Through men's throbbing veins.

Great magnolia blossoms lie
With their petals pale
Lifted to the brazen sky,
Whence the four winds fail.

Not one thrush's roundelay
Not one nodding bud
Yet on this mid-summer day
Life is at its flood.
